DEMOCRATS TO MAP CONGRESS PLAN OF ACTION

Leaders to Confer with Roosevelt.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 10.—President Elect Roosevelt will undertake to get his program for national recovery started at the short session of the outgoing congress next month, it was made known here today.

The President elect proposes to cut through the months of delay which would come of his awaiting his inauguration on March 4 and to get at least a part of his plans under way promptly.

His method of doing this, it was revealed, will be to summon the leaders of the dying congress to his winter home at Warm Springs, Ga., where he is to spend two weeks at Thanksgiving time, and with these leaders Mr. Roosevelt will plan what can be done in advance of his inauguration and in advance of the coming into being of the next congress.

No Appointments Made.

Mr. Roosevelt today essayed to scotch all rumors concerning appointments he may be considering for his cabinet by issuing a formal statement to the effect that he has reached no decision on any appointments, and will not do so "for at least two months." The statement referred to published rumors on the subject as "wholly unauthorized," and he asked the public to "disregard any and all such speculations."

Farm Relief to Fore.

One of the issues which is bound to come before the December session, one which the President elect stressed above all others in his campaign, is farm relief. Mr. Roosevelt has definite plans to aid agriculture, by a domestic tariff to be levied on certain basic crops such as wheat, corn and cotton, which would be intended to give the farmers a better price for their products and strengthen their buying power.

Mr. Roosevelt has said many times in the campaign that this improvement in the farmers' lot is the first essential step toward rebuilding the nation's prosperity, the idea being that when the farmer is again able to buy the products of general industry every branch of commerce will be pulling upward again.

December Bill Possible.

If the congressional leaders and the President elect agree at their conferences in his winter retreat that it is possible to put through a farm bill suitable to his program, the bill may be presented to the lame duck congress, it is said. In view of the overwhelming strength of the Roosevelt popular victory, and with President Hoover pledging "helpful effort" in his message to Mr. Roosevelt, it is considered reasonable to expect that influence sufficient to put the legislation over promptly could be exerted.

The President elect's plan for conferences with the congressional leaders was made known by him in his interview with the newspaper men today. Mr. Roosevelt revealed his intention of going to his Warm Springs home on Nov. 20 or 21.

"I expect to stay about two weeks," he said, "and I'll tell you why. The week after Thanksgiving is the week before congress meets, and it will be easier for me to see quite a number of the congressional leaders there at Warm Springs than it would here in Albany."

Garner Will Attend.

Among the leaders who undoubtedly will be participating in the Warm Springs conferences are Senator James Byrnes of South Carolina, who has been one of the governor's closest advisers; Senator Key Pittman of Nevada and Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic senate leader; Vice President Elect John Garner, who will still be speaker of the house when the lame duck session is held, and Congressman Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic floor leader of the house.

President Elect Roosevelt has made it plain that he will not attempt to exercise direct authority during the months before his inauguration. He dismissed reports that President Hoover might invite him to a conference to discuss what should be done, and he said he had heard nothing at all concerning rumors that the President might appoint Mr. Roosevelt secretary of state and then along with Vice President Curtis resign, thus elevating

$1,000 Fee Proposed in Amendment.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt is expected to urge Democratic leaders in congress to take action to legalize beer in the short session which opens Dec. 6.

Such a course of action on his part, it is pointed out, would be a step toward fulfilling his campaign pledge calling for "immediate" modification of the Volstead act and therefore would make his intervention at this time justifiable.

Mr. Roosevelt is known to be convinced that the revenue to be obtained by a government tax on beer would go far toward balancing the federal budget and thus prove a big factor in his pledged economy program.

The President elect has arranged for conferences with Democratic leaders at Warm Springs, Ga., later this month and is expected to urge prompt action on modification then.

PROPOSE BEER LICENSE HERE

To the applause of fellow members of the city council, Ald. John Coughlin [1st ward] yesterday introduced an amendment to the city code providing for the licensing of retail sales of beer and wine.

The First ward alderman, stirred by the wet wave indicated in Tuesday's election, did not wait for the revocation of the Volstead act or the state dry law. Mayor Cermak, on the contrary, announced during the afternoon that the procedure for bringing beer back was through orderly and legal processes.

The Coughlin amendment to the city code, which was referred to the finance committee, fixes an annual license fee of $1,000 for establishments selling the beverages. That was the old annual saloon license fee. The amendment provides that such licenses may deal in malt beverages of an alcoholic content from 1 to 10 per cent by volume and in vinous liquors of 12 per cent alcohol volume, in quantities of less than one gallon.

Would Permit Sale by Groceries.

Among the establishments that would be authorized under the Coughlin amendment to sell beer and wine are grocery stores, department stores and cafés, but the proposal provides that no license should be issued to a candy store, ice cream parlor, fruit store or bakery. The amendment also would permit the beer or wine to be consumed on the premises or carried away.

The measure provides penalties for selling beer or wine without a license, a fine of $25 to $100 for each offense, and for selling to minors a fine of $20 to $100 for each offense.

"The city will receive revenue of $10,000,000 a year," predicted Ald. Coughlin. "It will reduce our tax rates, abolish receiverships for buildings, abolish the need for emergency relief work, and the necessity to borrow for the unemployed. It will permit the city to pay its employés and give them six days' work a week."

Mayor Cermak's View.

Mayor Cermak's statement of the proper procedure for bringing back beer and wine was made before the council convened.

"The first necessary action," he said, "is to repeal the state search and seizure act. It will take emergency action to get that off the books by Jan. 1. The state then will be ready to abide by what congress does.

"I'm informed Prohibition Administrator Harney will keep on enforcing the prohibition act. This is not Russia. I saw prohibition agents wreck a place that they had raided. They went in with electric saws and axes, wrecked the furniture and carried away foodstuffs.

Contribution of Drys.

"Mr. Harney and Amos Woodcock, national prohibition administrator, contributed more to the election of Roosevelt than any one else. What happened in many of these cases was that the man they arrested was discharged, but the place had been wrecked before the discharge, with the result that a building was dam-

CHICAGO TO GET FIRST FREEZING WEATHER TODAY

Chicago's first official freezing temperature, probably with snow flurries, is due for Chicago today, according to last night's forecast by the weather man, C. A. Donnel. He predicted that the temperature would drop as low as 30 degrees and remain near the freezing point most of today. Continued cold weather, with a possibility of snow, is indicated for the week-end. Yesterday's maximum temperature here was 35 degrees at noon. At 8 o'clock this morning the mercury had dropped to an unofficial 30 degrees.

Snow Over Central States.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Snow fell over wide areas today from the great lakes region to the Rocky mountains and from the Canadian border to the Texas Panhandle. The snow was general over Montana, North Dakota, Colorado, and southwestern Minnesota, where many roads were blocked by Tuesday's storms and wires broken by sleet. The snow ranged from flurries in Nebraska and Illinois to a maximum of six inches in Minnesota. The first snow of the season fell in Oklahoma and in the Texas Panhandle.

Some of the temperatures recorded today were 14 degrees at Minot, S. D., 20 at Miles City, Mont., 26 at St. Paul, 28 at Omaha, and 50 at Dallas, Tex.

Wife Slays Her Husband "to Live Her Own Life"

RENO, Nev., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Attractive Mrs. Floyd W. Abrams, who shot and killed her husband, cutlery importer of Wayland, N. Y., here last night after an all night quarrel during which he attempted to get her to promise to divorce him, will contend that she slew him in order "to live her own life." A revolver was found in the pocket of the slain man's bathrobe and another under the pillow of Mrs. Abrams' bed.

Simpson Now Leads Weber for Congress

Late returns last night placed James Simpson Jr., Republican, ahead of Charles Weber, Democrat, in the race for congress in the Tenth district, which stretches from North avenue and the Chicago river to the Wisconsin state line, including part of the north side, the north shore suburbs in Cook county, and all of Lake county. The Simpson managers claimed a plurality of 1,658.

With three precincts still missing, Weber led in the Cook county precincts by 144. Official returns from Lake county gave Simpson a plurality there of 1,802.

Simpson Camp's Figures.

As tabulated by the Simpson managers the figures, with the three precincts still to be heard from, stand as follows:

	Weber.	Simpson.
Chicago	69,026	59,159
Towns	12,485	22,208
Lake county	17,169	18,971
Totals	98,680	100,338

In the earlier figures Weber was leading by 893, with twelve precincts missing. He had been congratulated as winner and his picture had been in the paper. Among the belated precincts heard from yesterday were some in Evanston, which went 4 to 1 for Simpson. Others were in Lake county, which also gave Simpson a margin.

Close Race in Eleventh District.

Missing precincts and a close race in the Eleventh district led the managers of James A. Howell, Democrat, of Elgin to put out a claim that the full and official count would place him ahead of Congressman Frank R. Reid of Aurora, dry Republican.

With four of the district's 285 precincts missing in the unofficial returns Reid last night was 518 votes ahead. The count stood: Reid, 76,014; Howell, 75,496. The missing precincts are in McHenry and Will counties.

U. S. NAVAL TUG IS SINKING; CREW OF 30 ON BOARD

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 11.—(AP)—The naval tug Sciota shortly before midnight sent out an S O S call stating she was in a sinking condition and asking for help. The tug, which carries a crew of about 30, apparently had been caught in the tropical hurricane approximately 350 miles east of Fort Pierce, Fla.

The navy at Washington was advised of the tug's distress shortly after midnight and was told that she had caught the full fury of the center of a tropical hurricane about 250 miles north of Nassau, Bahamas.

The submarine Dolphin, the navy said, was about 40 miles from the position of the Sciota. Heavy seas reported by vessels in the vicinity were expected by the navy to slow up the fight to reach the tug.

The U. S. S. Sciota is an ocean going naval tug of 1,000 tons. It is 149 feet long and has a 30 foot beam. The vessel carries two 3 inch guns and has a speed of 14 knots an hour.

France Plans Investigation of U. S. as Market for Wine

PARIS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The beverage committee of the chamber of deputies called upon the government today to investigate the possibility of marketing French wines and liqueurs in the near future in the United States as a result of the American election. A resolution expressing pleasure in Tuesday's developments in the United States, in so far as they affect prohibition, was adopted by the committee.

Wall of Water 20 Feet High Wrecks City

CAMAGUEY, Cuba, Nov. 10.—(AP)—More than 1,000 persons were known to have been killed, police said tonight, by the hurricane which swept over southern Cuba yesterday.

The entire province of Camaguey was laid waste and the town of Santa Cruz del Sur on the south coast of Camaguey province was literally annihilated.

Greatest Disaster in History.

Police described the disaster as the greatest in Cuban history. Hundreds of injured were being cared for in improvised hospitals and as trains came in from the province bearing the injured it was estimated that the total death toll might reach 1,800.

Mayor Umberto Rodriguez of Camaguey said his information from Santa Cruz del Sur was that 1,500 were dead and that only 300 persons in the town escaped unscathed. The mayor said a 20 foot wall of water was driven five leagues inland by the terrific wind and that not a single house was standing in the town. One survivor said many persons were washed into the sea.

(A league is a measure of distance varying in different countries from 2.4 to 4.6 miles.)

Cuba's Worst Storm.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 10.—Official figures tonight placed the number of casualties in yesterday's hurricane at 180 killed and 547 injured and estimated property damage at $8,310,000. Reliable newspaper sources place the dead at 300 and the injured at more than 1,000. The official figures were based on the number of bodies recovered.

President Gerardo Machado decided to postpone definite legislative assistance until the final toll is known, since his proposed million dollar relief fund appeared likely to be insufficient.

As highway, telegraph, and telephone communications were gradually being reëstablished, details reaching here revealed the hurricane as perhaps the greatest that ever struck Cuba, exceeding the one that lashed Havana on Oct. 20, 1926.

Scores Die as Hotel Falls.

Official information revealed the following details:

At Camaguey City the Ursulinas Catholic women's college was demolished. Three nuns and five students were killed and scores injured.

Scores were killed when the New York hotel crumbled. Twelve bodies were recovered and many still are buried under the débris.

The Saratoga hotel was virtually demolished and the city hospital crumbled, resulting in 15 known deaths. The Cuba Central railroad station and shops suffered $300,000 damage.

Sixteen miles of the Camaguey-Havana highway was washed out. The city is without water, lights, or power. The aqueduct was wrecked, 1,000 homes were destroyed, cattle were drowned, a sugar mill was wrecked, and cane was destroyed.

Army Headquarters Wrecked.

Army headquarters at Agramonte were demolished and twenty-five soldiers injured.

At Palma Soriano, in Oriente province, the storm killed five and injured twenty-nine, with $100,000 property damage to rural and suburban properties. At Jatibonico, Camaguey province, five were killed and eighty-seven injured.

'WE CAN'T PAY NEXT MONTH': EUROPE TO U. S.

British Envoy Brings Secret Note.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The election which overturned the Hoover administration was followed today by the launching of huge new international propaganda to force modification or cancellation of the eleven billion of allied war debts owed to this country. It was indicated that Europe regards the coming change of administration as opening a way for a new deal on debts.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, called at the state department this morning. He laid before American officials a word picture of the British financial situation in the apparent hope of postponing or modifying the $95,500,000 payment due from Great Britain Dec. 15. Whether a formal note was left or there merely was discussion, neither the department nor the embassy would say.

[It was announced in London that a note had been presented to the state department by the British ambassador. No further details were given.]

London Clamor Against Payment.

The Lindsay call followed within a few hours after London newspaper articles had asserted British inability to continue war debt payments without dislocating that nation's entire financial structure and that of Europe. Newspapers and legislators in Paris, too, renewed their opposition to payment by France of the $19,261,432 due the United States on Dec. 15. Dispatches from Greece, Poland, Hungary, Esthonia, and Latvia also emphasized the inability of those countries to pay installments of principal soon falling due.

The government of Greece sent word it would have to default on its $444,920 payment due today. This marked the first actual default of any of the debt payments since the expiration of the one year war debts and reparations moratorium. The Hungarian government served notice it does not have the necessary foreign exchange to make its $40,729.35 payment due Dec. 15.

Eleven Powers Involved.

Installments due on Dec. 15 from eleven powers aggregate $124,934,421. Of that amount $91,849,936 represent interest and $33,084,485 principal. The British sum is $95,500,000; the French $19,261,000.

Three countries already have taken advantage of options granted under debt funding agreements to postpone payments of principal amounting to a total of $2,520,000. The three nations are Esthonia, Latvia, and Poland. Hungary's failure to pay both interest and principal will boost this figure to $2,560,793. Total debt payments due this year amount to more than 255 million dollars.

Despite silence of state and treasury department officials, leading senators of both major parties promptly asserted opposition to modification of the war debts. They held such a move would transfer European obligations to the American taxpayer.

Britain Pleads Poverty.

It was intimated that the British payment could be made only with great difficulty, party because of the fall in the value of the pound and partly because of that nation's general financial situation.

One U. S. government official, in close touch with the world financial situation, said today that he would not be surprised if Great Britain, France, Italy, and perhaps some of the smaller powers attempted to work up a deal under which the United States would accept a cash settlement in return for cancellation of the debts. A billion dollars was mentioned as the possible offer. State department officials denied knowledge of any such move. Since the Lausanne agreement where the allied powers made a secret agreement to terminate reparations payments on condition that this country scale down the debts, a new debts reconsideration move has been looked for in administration circles.

Await President's Arrival.

No action is expected to be taken here prior to the return of President Hoover next week. Under the war debt funding agreements the treasury can allow postponement of principal for two years. Only congress can arrange for postponement of interest payments. The debt agreement with Great Britain contains a provision for postponement of principal payments, on 90 days' notice to the treasury, although authority has been vested in the secretary of the treasury to waive such notice. This would affect only $30,000,000 of the Dec. 15 payment due from Britain.

If the President is inclined to postpone the entire payment he may call in Republican and Democratic senators to get their views. This conference might be widened to include President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt as the war debts loom larger among his foreign relations problems. It is known that European nations are waiting with interest for the naming of the new secretary of state. Among those mentioned here for that post are Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of General Electric company and an expert on banking; Norman Davis, internationally know financier in close touch with the league of nations; Newton D. Baker and John W. Davis, 1924 Democratic presidential candidate. Mr. Young already has surveyed the European situation, with special reference to German reparations.

Congress Balks Hoover Plan.

A year ago President Hoover urged congress to reëstablish the debt funding commissions as a preliminary step to permitting the debtor powers to sue for modification of depression payments if specific requests were made. Congress rejected the proposal and adopted a resolution condemning war debt repudiation. The President could, however, defer the British principal payment and recommend to congress that it postpone the interest installment.

The British move opened the way for the United States, if it so desired, to attempt to exchange certain debt payments for trade advantages, territorial properties useful to the United States or even war ships needed to bolster American naval strength.

Hoover Changes Plans; Starts Back to Washington Today

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Palo Alto, Cal., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Two pressing problems—the budget and the war debts—caused President Hoover today to decide to curtail his stay at his home on San Juan Hill and hurry back to Washington.

He will leave tomorrow night on a schedule that will see him back in the capital next Tuesday morning.

The decision was in keeping with the President's reputation as a man who does not know how to take a vacation. It was reached this morning, when the President, restlessly pacing his study, suddenly gave his secretary, Lawrence Richey, orders to countermand the original schedule, which called for departure on Saturday, and draw up a new one hastening the departure by 24 hours.

Budget Important Problem.

With congress convening Dec. 5, Mr. Hoover is anxious to be back attending to business that was sidetracked during the campaign. The budget is the most urgent of the matters before him, and on top of this is the debt question. Unofficial advices tell of feelers being put out by France and England, now that the elections are over, with a view to paving the way toward possible revision.

The President, it was said, has not yet received official word concerning any foreign wish to open the debt subject, but it is a topic that he must inevitably consider on his return to Washington.

As now drawn up, the time table of the return trip calls for departure from Palo Alto tomorrow evening, with a stop Saturday morning at Glendale, near Los Angeles, where Mr. Hoover will speak briefly to Republican workers of southern California and where the party will leave the train in order that the President and Mrs. Hoover may stop for a moment at the new home of Herbert Hoover Jr., near Pasadena.

Thence the journey will lie through El Paso, Kansas City, St. Louis, Cincinnati and on to Washington, without touching Chicago. Arrival at the capital will be about 11 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Deny Oil Czar Rumor.

The President spent a quiet day today without leaving the house. He slept late and sat much on one of the terraces in the sun. During the afternoon he received friends and political associates. Mark Requa, mine owner, oil man and Republican national committeeman from California, spent considerable time with him.

Reports have cropped up that President Hoover was considering a proposal that after March 5 he become the Judge Landis of the oil industry. The recent report of the oil conservation board pointed to the need for further coöperation ahong the producers in order that production might be prorated between the various fields and prices improved. Those close to Mr. Hoover denied that such a proposal or any other was definitely under consideration at this time.

BRITISH ADMIT NOTE

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The bare announcement was made tonight that a note on the subject of war debts was presented to the state department at Washington, D. C., by Sir R. C. Lindsay, the British ambassador, today. No particulars were given as to the contents.

It is learned that a statement of the note presented was given by Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, to a representative of a British news agency at the house of commons late tonight. The foreign minister refused to disclose the contents of the note.

It is further learned that both Secretary of State Stimson and Sir John have agreed not to publish the contents. It is said it asks for postponement of the December payment of about $95,550,000 pending either further discussion or action by the world economic conference.

Britain Has Balance in U. S.

It is denied that there is any scheme afoot for flat settlement. Rumors had indicated that such a plan might be advanced. They were linked with the idea of a gigantic bond issue of around a billion dollars to be floated in a New York-London finance transaction. Thus Britain could wipe out her account at a reduced figure for cash. The idea has the backing of noted British economists and is supported by Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England. But it has not been adopted by the British government.

Informed quarters declare that had Hoover been reëlected immediate moves to negotiate a new debt settlement would have been inaugurated. At present, however, it is felt in London that nothing can be done before March, when Roosevelt is installed in the White House. What the British seem to be seeking is for the tail end of the Hoover administration to carry over the charge, for which there is no provision in the British budget, until it can be unloaded on the incoming Democrats. Then it can be dealt with again at a fresh Anglo-American meeting or, it is hoped, at the forthcoming world economic conference.

Await American Attitude.

Official disclosure of the note's contents is not expected in London at present. It is understood that the British want to hear first what Stimson and the Hoover cabinet think before making it public.

In the repercussions which the sudden announcement has made in political circles late tonight there is a strong strain of hopeful logic bent on wishing the whole question of debts into the world economic conference. The reason for this runs back to the Lausanne reparations compact by which it was agreed to suspend collection of German reparations on certain conditions.

These conditions were of course hinged on the "gentleman's agreement" that the United States must relieve European debtors at least of the present scale of payments, because the former allies were not collecting reparations from Germany.

France Expected to Act.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Nov. 10.—Hints have been current that as soon as the presidential election was over in the United States the question of a debt settlement would be raised by France.

In parliament there is trouble brewing for any government when the time comes to ask the voting of the necessary credit of 500 million francs ($19,261,000) with which to make the Dec. 15 payment to the United States.

Reports have been current here of plans by financiers in various capitals, indicating the possibility of a big European redemption loan for payment of the debts to the United States.

It is noted today with interest that Henry Berenger, co-negotiator of the Mellon-Berenger settlement, is now on a visit to Rome. This visit is said to be of a private nature. It follows the visit of Norman Davis, special representative of the United States department of state, and coincides with three separate gestures by Premier Herriot during the last few days tending to improve relations between France and Italy.

MRS. MURPHY'S FLICKERING LAMP TRAPS A BURGLAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 10.—The home of Mrs. H. M. Murphy was entered by a burglar and robbed of various articles, including a lamp that flickered. With a detective, she prowled round the neighborhood till they saw in a window nearby a lamp that flickered.

Mrs. Murphy fainted, the detective rang the bell for help and they brought her inside. While the lady of the house went into the back to get water, the "patient" sat up and recognized her lamp. Unconscious again when the "good samaritan" returned, the detective suggested that she be put to bed. Again the hostess complied. The "patient" recognized her own bedding.

The rest of the story was told today in the police court.

G. O. P. TO HOLD EDGE IN SHORT SENATE SESSION

Total of 131 Lame Ducks on Congress Rolls.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Final returns from senatorial contests in New Jersey and Colorado today assured the Republican party of control in the senate during what may be the last lame duck session of congress.

Early returns from the two pivotal contests had indicated a possibility that the Democrats would obtain control of the senate immediately instead of waiting until the new congress convenes after Roosevelt's inauguration.

The election of Republican Senator W. Warren Barbour in New Jersey and Karl Schuyler in Colorado makes the lineup in the senate during the coming short session the same as in the last session—48 Republicans, 47 Democrats, and one Farmer-Labor.

Democrats Control House.

The short session will find the house unchanged, with the Democrats still in control. At the start of the session, however, there will be one Democratic and three Republican vacancies, caused by the deaths of Representative Charles A. Karch [Dem., Ill.] and Representative Albert H. Vestal [Rep., Ind.], and the resignation of Representative John Q. Tillson of Connecticut and Representative Frederick W. Dallinger of Massachusetts, both Republicans.

The whacking of the gavels convening the senate and house on Dec. 6 will bring to order one of the largest assemblies of lame duck congressmen ever to meet in one session. The latest returns indicate there will be at least 118 house members and 13 senators who will not be present when the 73d congress meets after the Roosevelt inauguration.

There will be 13 lame duck senators serving for the three months of the short session—senators who were defeated either in their state primaries or who gave way to opponents in Tuesday's elections. Of the thirteen only two are Democrats, Senator Edwin S. Broussard of Louisiana, who was defeated by the Hughey Long machine in that state, and Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri, who did not run for a new term.

Smoot, Watson Among Them.

Among the eleven Republican lame ducks in the senate will be such party stalwarts as Reed Smoot of Utah, dean of the senate; James Watson of Indiana, Wesley L. Jones of Washington, Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, Otis F. Glenn of Illinois, George H. Moses of New Hampshire, John Thomas of Idaho, and Samuel Shortridge of California, who was beaten in the primaries. Also lame ducks will be the irregular Republican senators, John J. Blaine of Wisconsin and Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, who was defeated as a Republican in the primaries and as an independent in the election.

Three Democrats will leave the house after the short session to take seats in the senate to which they were elected last Tuesday. They are William H. Dieterich of Illinois, who defeated Senator Glenn; John H. Overton of Louisiana, who defeated Senator Broussard, and Augustine Lonergan of Connecticut, who defeated Senator Bingham.

The dean of the house, Representative Gilbert N. Haugen [Rep., Ia.] who has served continuously since 1899, will be a lame duck in the short session. So will Representative John C. Schafer [Rep., Wis.], whose booming voice in the last session became synonymous with a demand for legalized beer.

Thus far 17 states have ratified the Norris amendment abolishing the short, or lame duck, session of congress, and it is expected the required 36 will have acted favorably on the proposal before the next election.

HOOVER IS LIKELY TO GIVE RAPIDAN CAMP TO NATION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—(AP)—A rustic mountain camp high in the Blue Ridge mountains, dotted with historic spots by four years of presidential use, soon may become part of a national playground.

It lies at the headwaters of the Rapidan river in Virginia, and since it was selected personally by President and Mrs. Hoover just after entering the White House has spread tiny, semi-permanent lodges over a wide area.

It has been indicated at the White House that Mr. Hoover, when he leaves office, may dedicate his camp to the nation, either as a summer home for future Presidents or for park purposes. The site is surrounded by the proposed Shenandoah National park, and if Franklin D. Roosevelt does not desire to continue the camp it may become a part of that park.

FRENCH BISHOP IS ACCUSED OF DODGING TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The bishop of Orleans, Gen. de la Lande, controller general of the French army, and three prominent senators are high up in the list of thousands of wealthy tax evaders, Fabien Albertin, a Socialist, charged amid an uproar in the chamber of deputies tonight.

Albertin started to make the attack anonymous, but such a clamor was raised that he named the alleged evaders. He added that magistrates, high civil officials and industrial magnates would be found in the list if Finance Minister Germain-Martin published it. The finance minister arose and said that he had not seen the list, but stated he would look into the matter.

The uproar became so great that Premier Edouard Herriot was forced to interrupt and pledge himself to punish the evaders "whatever and whoever they may be." The commercial bank at Basel was recently revealed as handling the tax evasions of 1,500 Frenchmen. According to law, the government is entitled to an 18 per cent tax on all foreign security dividends. The evaders, it is charged, have the coupons clipped by financial agents abroad. The cash is brought to Paris.

SEIZE MANGANO AND ADDUCCI IN TOUHY KIDNAPING

'Dago Lawrence' Accused by Schoemaker.

"Dago Lawrence" Mangano, Capone gangster and for years a power in west side politics, and his first lieutenant, James Adducci, were under arrest at the detective bureau last night in connection with the kidnaping Wednesday of John Touhy Jr., 13 years old, son of Trustee John J. Touhy of the sanitary district.

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, who had declared Mangano responsible for the abduction of the boy, questioned both men.

Mangano refused to reply, stating that he stood on his constitutional rights and had no intention of making assertions to be used against him. Adducci declared that he was in Mangano's Minerva club at 524 South Halsted street when the kidnaping occurred. He added that he had not been out of his home at 922 South Morgan street on election day.

Surrender Offer Refused.

During the day Attorney Edward King, 1 North La Salle street, called the detective bureau and offered to surrender Adducci and William Biof, another 27th ward hoodlum, if an agreement were made to book them and release them on bonds. The offer was refused. Adducci was entering the bureau last night to surrender when he was seized and informed he was under arrest.

The Touhy boy and Clark Irven, chauffeur for the sanitary district trustee, were seized by three gunmen in front of the Touhy home at 3255 Washington boulevard. A search by the entire police force was under way when, about an hour later, the chauffeur reported that he and the boy had been released at River and Higgins roads, northwest of Chicago.

Pair View Photographs.

Yesterday the pair who were kidnaped viewed a number of photographs at the detective bureau. It was not disclosed whether they identified any known hoodlums as their abductors.

Chief Schoemaker has held from the beginning of the investigation that the kidnaping was part of a plot to terrify Trustee Touhy.

"This will be the end of the great west side gangs," he declared. "They hoped they would intimidate the police as well as politicians who oppose them. The hope is a mistaken one. We are not going to lay off them. We are going after them harder."

LEGION MEN TO SNUB HURLEY AT ARLINGTON TODAY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Members of the victory post, American Legion drum and bugle corps were reported today to be planning to leave the Armistice day ceremonies at Arlington national cemetery tomorrow when Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley begins a scheduled speech.

According to Raymond Burke, leader of the drum corps, the Legionnaires will play during the exercises but will leave the ceremonies before the war secretary begins his address.

The Legion musicians, it was said, have refused to listen to Mr. Hurley because of his attitude toward the bonus expeditionary force. When they leave the ceremonies at the tomb of the unknown soldier it was understood, they will pay tribute at the graves of William Hushka and Eric Carlson, bonus marchers, who were killed during the rioting in the capital.

GEO. F. WINKLER SUED BY SECOND WIFE FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Effie Phillip Winkler, 50 years old, 1014 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, yesterday filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court for George Frank Winkler, 60 years old, wealthy plumbing contractor. An hour later her attorney, Frank Cantwell, obtained injunctions from Judge Phillip J. Finnegan restraining Winkler from recording certain property transfers signed by his wife, and from hiding several bank accounts.

The bill recited that the couple married on Dec. 6, 1930, and separated on last Nov. 10. It alleged three acts of cruelty and charged that Winkler had "inveigled his wife into signing property transfers to her husband's lawyer."

The suit is the second divorce for Winkler. His first wife, Mrs. Cora E. Winkler, won a decree before Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis on Jan. 28, 1930. She also charged cruelty. Her suit was bitterly contested and attracted wide attention during three years it was in litigation.

Iceland Puts Up Money After Riots Over Pay Cut

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Nov. 10.—As a sequel to a serious riot yesterday following the decision of the city council to make a one-third reduction in relief work wages the government today announced that it would advance enough money to enable the payment of wages at the old rate. A strong force of civilian police reserves has been organized to assist in maintaining order. Yesterday several persons were injured in a riot following a communist attack on a municipal meeting where the wage reduction was being discussed.

JAS. J. WALKER, BETTY COMPTON BOARD SAME SHIP

Ex-Mayor and Actress Sail for Europe.

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Former Mayor James J. Walker left these shores today on the Italian liner Conte Grande and strong doubts existed in the minds of those who know him, in and out of Tammany, that he would return at any time soon. Mrs. Walker, a former Chicago girl, was not sailing with him. She is in Florida for the winter.

A fellow passenger on the ship was Miss Betty Compton, actress. With Miss Compton was her mother, Mrs. Florence Compton, a maid, and a woman friend. Walker was accompanied by his valet.

Tells of Winning $7,500 Bet.

Miss Compton was a fellow passenger of Mr. Walker's when the latter returned from a Bermuda vacation in 1930. Recently on her return from abroad, where she had been for more than a year, she confided to newspaper men that she had won a $7,500 bet from the former mayor.

The bet explained a check for that amount paid by the mayor which had figured, with much "hush-hush" and "I'll tell all" declarations, during the Seabury investigation of Mr. Walker's affairs.

Mr. Walker's departure was accompanied by attempts at the strictest secrecy. He came on board the ship at 11 a. m., went to a suite reserved for him on "A" deck, and stayed there until the ship sailed late in the afternoon.

In fact, it became known after he had sailed that his first destination was India, where he expects to be the guest of an Indian maharajah. After that he will go to Paris to establish residence for an indefinite time. Friends said his departure marked his definite exit from New York politics.

Use Third Class Entrance.

Miss Compton and her party boarded the liner at noon, had luncheon aboard, and left, returning about 3:30. They used the third class entrance from the street level, making their way through the ship to the first class section.

Efforts on the part of newspaper men to communicate or obtain an interview with either the mayor or Miss Compton were fruitless.

The departure of Mr. Walker was not unexpected in political circles. It had been reported, even before Miss Compton's return from abroad, that she was going to do so, and that she and Mr. Walker, admittedly "good friends," might both return to Europe sometime before the first of the year.

CREW OF LOST MISSION SHIP SAFE ON REEF; TWO PASTORS MISSING

SUVA, Fiji Islands, Nov. 11.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Four officers, three engineers, and crew of fifteen Solomon Islanders from the little British mission ship Southern Cross VI., which sank off the Island of Ameityum, in the New Hebrides, last week, were reported today to have reached shore on a coral reef.

All were said to have suffered severe injuries during their struggle to land through huge waves. No mention was made of the fate of two Anglican missionaries known to have left the 150 foot motorship.

The Southern Cross VI., a virtual floating church, was on her maiden voyage from London. She was designed for use in the south Pacific islands which form the group called the Melanesia. The craft sank during a storm. Officers, crew, and the two missionaries were said to have reached a small unnamed island and to have left it Monday for the Island of Vila aboard a small launch.

PARK RIDGE BANK CASHIER IS FREED; LOSS MADE GOOD

Peter J. Immel, former cashier of the Peoples and Merchants State bank of Park Ridge, was given his liberty yesterday by Judge Walter T. Stanton of the Criminal court, on recommendation of the state's attorney's office and of the directors of the bank, which has since merged with the Citizens State bank of Park Ridge. Immel was convicted several months ago of embezzling approximately $8,000.

Because the charge was a technical violation of the law Judge Stanton said he was reluctant to sentence the cashier. A motion to vacate the conviction was continued from time to time and was granted yesterday when it was announced that Immel had reimbursed the bank directors. The case was then dismissed.

Immel loaned money to himself and his only security was his personal notes. When the banks merged the directors had to guarantee the loans. They claimed they did not know that Immel had made the loans. The depositors were not affected by the transactions.

WETS AND FOES OF WASTE WIN 69 CONGRESS SEATS

Hope for Dry Law Action in Lame Duck Session.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Late returns, increasing the sweep of Tuesday's Democratic landslide, served to swell the Democratic majority in the next congress—the 73d—to record breaking proportions. The figures show that when President Elect Franklin D. Roosevelt enters the White House on March 4 his first congress will have the following political divisions:

SENATE.

Dem.	Rep.	F.-L.	Total seats.

HOUSE.

[Six Seats still doubtful.]

Dem.	Rep.	F.-L.	Total seats.
314	111	4	435

The swing for prohibition repeal and immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize beer was expected by wet leaders yesterday to put through a beer bill in the "lame duck" session of the present congress, which starts in December. The election of Tuesday has produced 144 "lame ducks" in the house and 14 in the senate. With an eye to the next elections two years hence, many a dry who was washed out of his seat on Tuesday is expected to get right with his constituency by voting wet.

Democrats Get 26 Governors.

As the landslide kept growing the later figures showed that the Democrats swept state elections as completely as the presidential. In 34 states which elected governors the Democrats elected 26, the Republicans four, the Farmer-Laborites one. Three are still doubtful with the Democrats leading.

The plurality for Roosevelt over Hoover crept toward the 6,000,000 mark. Last night the popular vote so far reported gave Roosevelt 20,366,000 as against 14,489,909 for Hoover.

The electoral count remained 472 for the Democrats to 59 for the Republicans. With several thousand precincts still to be heard from the total popular vote had rolled up to 34,850,000. Four years ago Hoover's plurality over Smith was 6,386,000.

Against Dry Law and Waste.

The tidal wave against prohibition and for governmental economy in the congressional elections was manifested in illuminating fashion in the states of Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, and Indiana. Just before election day THE TRIBUNE published maps and tables showing the recommendations of the Crusaders, militant anti-prohibitionists, and of the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures, on candidates for congress.

By means of questionnaires these two bodies had asked candidates for congress—house and senate—to show how they stood on the two vital issues of the campaign. The Crusaders asked how they stood on repeal of the 18th amendment and upon immediate modification of the Volstead act. The N. O. R. P. E. inquired how each candidate stood on the great economic issue of cutting the cost of government by at least $750,000,000 and asked whether they would vote to reduce public expenditures regardless of differences of opinion as to ways and means.

Tuesday's returns from these five states show the following:

In the five states 75 house members and three senators were elected, a total of 78. Of the winners, no fewer than 69 bore the recommendations of the Crusaders, the N. O. R. P. E., or both.

Forty-five of the candidates were indorsed by both organizations, 16 were indorsed by the Crusaders alone, and 8 by the N. O. R. P. E. alone.

The Results by States.

By states the results were as follows, two districts still being in dispute:

ILLINOIS—18 winning candidates for the house in congress were indorsed by both organizations; five others were recommended by the Crusaders alone, and one by the N. O. R. P. E. Of the 27 house members only three failed to be recommended by at least one of the two groups. Both candidates for United States senator got both indorsements. Senator Elect W. H. Dieterich, is dripping wet and is pledged to cutting cost of government, just as was Senator Otis F. Glenn, Republican.

WISCONSIN—Out of 10 house members elect, six got indorsements from both organizations. Two others were recommended by the Crusaders alone. Two failed to land any recommendation. Both candidates for senator got the double indorsement—John B. Chapple, Republican, and the winning Democrat, Senator Elect F. Ryan Duffy.

The Indiana Indorsements.

INDIANA—Out of 12 elected to the house, five had the double indorsement; three were recommended by the Crusaders alone, and three by the N. O. R. P. E. Only one winner failed to land a recommendation from one of the groups. Senator Elect Frederick Van Nuys had the double indorsement.

IOWA—Of nine elected to the house, four had the double indorsement; two were indorsed by the Crusaders alone and two by the N. O. R. P. E. alone. Only one failed to get on the lists. Senator Elect Louis Murphy had the double indorsement of the Crusaders and the N. O. R. P. E.

MICHIGAN—Out of 17 elected to the house nine had the double indorsement; four others were on the Crusaders' list alone: two on the N. O. R P. E., making a total of 15 out of 17, two of the seats still being in doubt.

Expect Drys to Switch.

Party leaders expect the Democrats in the "lame duck" session to look to Gov. Roosevelt for their leadership on legislation involving issues of the campaign, although he does not assume office until March 4. Many look for a march of most of the southern drys in congress to the wet side.

Senators Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas and Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Democratic leaders [hitherto dry], have said there is no reason why the present congress should not act on prohibition. Yesterday they were joined by Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, who said he believed the question of modification of the Volstead act "will be out of the way by New Year's."

Organized wets after canvassing the situation, believe that enough votes will materialize in the lame duck session to pass a beer bill within the next two or three months.

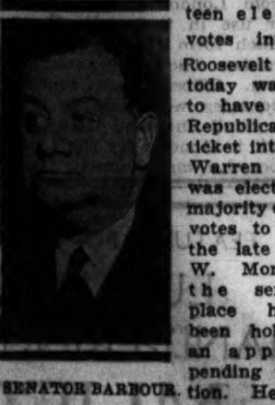
NEW JERSEY'S LATER COUNTS HELP THE G. O. P.

Sen. Barbour Overcomes Democrats' Lead.



SENATOR BARBOUR.

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The Democratic deluge which swept New Jersey's sixteen electoral votes into the Roosevelt column today was found to have left the Republican state ticket intact. W. Warren Barbour was elected by a majority of 15,014 votes to succeed the late Dwight W. Morrow in the senate, a place he had been holding as an appointee pending the election. He had to overcome a lead of 50,000 votes which yesterday had caused him to concede the election to his Democratic opponent.

Percy H. Stewart, Democrat, who ran against Senator Barbour, carried only three counties, Hudson, Warren and Middlesex. In the former he polled 175,773 votes, beating Mr. Barbour by more than 100,000.

The Democrats, amazed by this sudden rise in votes for the Republicans in the late returns have threatened to ask for a recount.

In Essex county the Republican tide swept in the county ticket and gave Senator Barbour a plurality of 20,000 votes. The story was the same in most of the other counties.

Senator Barbour's election was one of the ironies of the campaign. He made a campaign issue of President Hoover's leadership, rarely mentioning himself in his speeches.

650,000 CHRISTMAS CLUB DEPOSITORS RECEIVE $35,453,830

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—More than 650,000 depositors will receive at least $35,453,830 from their Christmas club deposits in mutual savings banks this year, according to early estimates by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, which reports that some banks have not yet been heard from.

In New York state depositors will receive $14,696,705, or $100,630 more than they received last year. This is the largest total for any state.

Nine banks have not yet been heard from in the state. Not less than $9,876,202 will be paid to 221,968 depositors in New York City.

START MACHINE GUN SCHOOL FOR POLICE TODAY

A school to make the police of Chicago as efficient with the machine gun as gangland marksmen will be opened this morning in the Naval building on the Northwestern university campus in Evanston. The school will be attended by 30 picked policemen of the Chicago force and 100 men from the north shore, western and southern suburbs. It is sponsored by the Evanston police department and Northwestern university.

"The police in general are not as good machine gunners as the gangsters," Chief of Police William O. Freeman of Evanston said, "and we propose to make them superior to the hoodlums with the weapon."

C. J. Nash, chief gunner of the United States navy, a member of the faculty of the Northwestern university naval school, will lecture on the theory of the machine gun. A course of practical instruction will follow the lectures.

G. O. P. LEADERS MAP PLANS FOR 1936 COMEBACK

Mills, Reed, Wadsworth Urged for President.

New York, Nov. 10.—(AP)—With smoke still hanging over the political battlefield of 1932, Republican leaders tonight began mapping an aggressive campaign to win back Republican voters who switched their allegiance Tuesday and to reorganize their own party.

In informal discussions of who will lead the party during the next four years Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills were prominently mentioned by those connected with the Hoover-Curtis ballot drive.

Both are considered 1936 presidential possibilities.

A Dominant Republican.

Reed is expected to be one of the dominant Republicans among the 36 who will be in the next senate. He has two more years to serve, and party leaders expressed confidence he will be reëlected. His state was among the seven which remained in the Republican column, and at eastern head quarters much credit for that showing is given to the senator.

Mills, who will leave administration circles next March, is represented by some of his friends as having definite presidential aspirations. He was, before and during the campaign, one of the President's most ardent champions and was frequently referred to as "the administration spokesman."

Mills Leaps Into Battle.

In the Chicago convention, when the fate of the prohibition plank favored by the administration was at stake, it was Mills who leaped to the platform with oratory that put the opposition to rout.

When the Hoover-Curtis campaign seemed to lag, it was Mills who raced from coast to coast upholding the policies and record of his chief. Even while the Chicago convention was voting on its 1932 nominee, there were delegates who talked of Mills as a likely candidate for 1936.

In the discussions of who will lead the party in the next congress, the name of James Wolcott Wadsworth Jr. frequently is mentioned.

Wadsworth Is Mentioned.

After serving in the senate for two terms, the New Yorker was elected Tuesday to the house, and he is being looked to by his party chiefs to take an aggressive part in the minority leadership.

In their plan to point all activities toward the 1934 and 1936 elections, the Republicans expect to set up in Washington an inter-campaign organization similar to that which functioned for the Democrats between 1928 and 1932. The work done by John J. Raskob, Jouett Shouse and Charles Michelson in those four years had much to do with the Democratic victory Tuesday Republican leaders assert.

A similar organization, under the present plan, would undertake the job of bringing back under the Republican banner those who strayed away this week. Jeremiah Milbank, New York banker, is mentioned as one likely to play a part in this inter election activity. Milbank, it was said at eastern headquarters, raised most of the money spent in the Hoover-Curtis campaign this year in his capacity as eastern treasurer.

The Republican budget was $1,500,000, but the actual expenses are expected to top $2,000,000, it was disclosed.

This sum includes what individual states raised and sent to the national committee, but not the money raised and spent in the individual states. The campaign ended with a deficit of about $200,000, which the Republicans expect to raise without any public drive.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—It will cost Vice President Elect John N. Garner's South Texas constituents more than a year's salary of the victor to elect his successor as congressman from the Uvalde district. The estimated cost of the special election will be $11,500.

Gov. Ross S. Sterling, if Garner's resignation of the two year election is filed before Jan. 17, or Governor Elect Miriam A. Ferguson later, will call a special election for congressman from the district represented by Garner for 30 years. The expense of the special election will be levied among the 23 counties of the 15th Texas district.

Those counties are: Atascosa, Brooks, Cameron, Dimmitt, Duval, Frio, Hidalgo, Jim Hogg, Jim Wells, Kennedy, Kinney, Kleberg, La Salle, Live Oak, McMullen, Maverick, Medina, Starr, Uvalde, Webb, Willacy, Zapata, and Zavala. The population 1930 census, was 370,877.

Already former State's Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt of Laredo and Representative Milton West of Brownsville have announced they will seek Garner's seat.

Numerous other political leaders in the district will contend for the office though the business of running for congress on the Democratic ticket in that district had declined during Garner's long tenure.

It was understood here that Mr. Garner will continue as speaker of the house until March 4. The Texas governor's call for a special election in Garner's district undoubtedly will be to fix the election date early enough to permit the successor to appear March 4 to take the seat vacated by Mr. Garner.

GLENN IS SURE OF CONFIRMATION OF JOHNSON, GREEN

United States Senator Otis F. Glenn who was defeated by William H Dieterich on Tuesday, expressed confidence yesterday that the Democratic landslide, giving that party majorities in both houses of the new congress would not prevent the confirmation of Federal Judge G. E. Q. Johnson and United States Attorney Dwight H Green.

Judge Johnson and Mr. Green took office during the summer as recess appointees, and their appointments will come up for action by the senate of the present congress when it convenes on Dec. 5. Asked whether he considered it possible that the Democrats would seek to stall action on the appointments until the new senate could kill them, Senator Glenn said:

"I have all the confidence in the world that the Democrats will not try to block those appointments. If they did it would be taken as an indication of the character of the new administration. But I don't think we need to fear any such action on the part of the newly elected Democrats."

Senator Glenn pointed out that Judge Johnson's appointment was followed by editorial commendation in 55 of the nation's leading newspapers and that Mr. Green has the unanimous indorsement of press and bar.

DIN GIVES WAY TO REVERENCE ON ARMISTICE DAY

Vets to Parade in Loop and West Side.

Fourteen years ago today Chicago crowds surged in frenzied exultation through the loop, part of a world gone mad with joy over the armistice. Compared with that first Armistice day, the city's celebration today will be a staid and solemn observance, with reverence replacing much of the noise. There will be forget-me-nots for the living and flags and flowers for the dead. But there will be jubilation, too.

GEN. PARKER.

At the armistice hour—11 a. m.—the city will suspend activities and join, with all faces east, in silent prayer for the men who didn't come back. Elevated trains will stop and buglers in various parts of the loop will sound "taps." Pedestrians will stop and bow their heads in memory of the soldier dead.

Vets to Parade in Loop.

Cook County council of the Legion will be in charge of the loop parade that will precede the armistice hour. Marchers will form between 9:10 and 9:30 a. m. at Michigan and Jackson boulevards. The parade will circle the city hall and county building and halt in front of the stand at the La Salle street entrance to the city hall. Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, who will speak, will be presented by Mayor Cermak.

Five posts of the Legion — the Brophy, Forges, Cornwall, Douglas Park and Austin—will participate this morning in a parade and memorial service under the direction of the Garfield Park Business Men's association that promises to be one of the major observances of the day. William M. Druley, president of the organization, will be master of ceremonies for the program, which is scheduled for 10 o'clock before the Garfield Bank building at Madison and Crawford.

Meet on West Side at 9.

A parade of the post members will be held through Garfield park to the scene. The units will form at 9 o'clock and arrive at Madison and Crawford at 10 o'clock, where Judge Justin F. McCarthy, Ald. John S. Clark and Thomas J. Terrell, and Jack Barry, commander of the Fifth district of the American Legion, will speak. Col. L. Brody of Brophy post will be grand marshal.

Massmeetings and religious services will characterize the early part of the day, while in the cemeteries where world war veterans lie, graves will be covered with fresh flowers and new banners. James Grafton Rogers, assistant secretary of state of the United States, will speak at 11:45 in the Chicago Temple at Washington and Clark streets. The meeting is sponsored by the world friendship commission of the Chicago Federation of Churches.

Funds for the disabled American veterans and their families in need of assistance will be raised by the sale of forget-me-nots on the streets today. Mayor Cermak purchased the first forgete-me-not yesterday. A large group of women taggers will be on duty.

At noon today Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding the Sixth corps area speaks at a luncheon by the Chicago Bar association at 160 North La Salle street.

Harris J. Booras, supreme president of the Ahepa, an Americanization society of Greeks, which is opening a four day convention here, will decorate the monument to world war veterans in Elmwood cemetery at 11 a. m.

Club to Honor Members.

Members of the Hamilton club and their sons who died in the world war will be honored at a military luncheon at noon today.

Members of Hyde Park post of the American Legion will conduct a short service today on the roof of the Flamingo hotel, and will light a searchlight that will shine eastward all night.

At 11:30 this morning members of the same post will coöperate with the Kenwood-Loring school at 937 East 46th street, in a memorial service for Chaplain N. B. Clinch, senior chaplain in France of the 33d division, who died last July.

Award R. O. T. C. Commissions.

A review and parade of the R. O. T. C. unit at the University of Chicago will be held at 3 o'clock at the 124th Field Artillery armory. Thirty-five commissions will be awarded by Maj. T. J. J. Christian.

Cavalier Carlo Meola, editorial writer of L'Italia, will address an Armistice day celebration under auspices of the Italian Community association at 7:30 tonight at Chicago Commons, 955 West Grand avenue.

Former service men still in the Speedway, Great Lakes and North Chicago hospitals and Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium and Oak Forest, will receive flowers today from the Junior Red Cross.

Tilden Technical High school unit of the R. O. T. C. passed in review yesterday before Albert W. Evans, principal, as part of the Armistice day program there. Cadet Major George du Gasse spoke.

At 1 o'clock yesterday, on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university, a review of the naval reserve officers' training corps was held in which sorority girls participated.

The national anthem and songs of the world war days resounded in school rooms yesterday as the generation born after the Armistice observed the anniversary of the cessation of hostilities.

Lake View High school was one of several holding programs, speakers including M. J. Law, past commander of Lincoln Square post of the Legion.

BOARD OF TRADE POST HOLDS SERVICE ON TRADING FLOOR

A service in memory of the war dead was held on the trading floor of the Board of Trade yesterday, with addresses by President Peter B. Carey and Walter Mooney, commander of the Board of Trade post of the Legion.

One hundred doctors and nurses who were attached to base hospital unit 12 at Danns-Camiers, France, during the war, held their annual Armistice reunion at the Palmer house last night. Dr. Sidney Barteau of Oak Park is president.

RECALL CHICAGO HEROES' FEATS ON ARMISTICE DAY

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Fourteen years and 4,000 miles away, the thunder of the big guns "somewhere in France" is only a muffled echo in the Armistice day observance in Chicago. The doughboy of yesterday is the civilian of today. The tin helmets they tilted above their eyes in front line trenches have been gathering rust through the years, and the depression is of more concern to them now than whatever became of "Mademoiselle from Armentiers."

The boys who made history in the world war, who rushed to enlist back in 1917 and rushed back to "civvies" in 1918 are salesmen and contractors and real estate dealers, lawyers and doctors and various other types of John Citizens. But because they didn't fail their flag in crucial moments under fire, some of their names will continue through the centuries to come, to keep up the traditions of the greatest Americans. They are the combat medal men.

Decorations Earn No Pay.

It means a good deal more to Michael B. Ellis at the moment that he is one of the great army of the unemployed than that he panicked the Germans on the epochal first day of the Argonne offensive. All his chestful of decorations, testifying to valor under fire, hasn't availed him in earning a salary these days, either in the publishing business, insurance brokerage, or other lines in which he is qualified. Ellis, whose address is 1211 Elmdale avenue, was the former first sergeant of company G, 28th infantry, First division.

Ellis was hailed as one of the greatest heroes of the war when he pitched in that memorable day in the Argonne and, single handed, captured twelve machine guns and sixty prisoners. He is entitled to wear the congressional medal of honor, the legion of honor, the croix de guerre with palm, the victory medal with five clasps, the medal of merit of Italy, the Polish war cross and incidental badges and crosses. But he knows the war is over.

Thomas A. Pope has fared better. He is a district foreman of maintenance of county highways now, living at 805 South Mitchell street, Arlington Heights. It was Corporal Pope of company E, 131st infantry, who celebrated July 4, 1918, with as spectacular a performance at Hamel, in France, as the war produced. He and his mates were proceeding toward the German trenches following a fleet of tanks, through a terrific bombardment, when he glimpsed a machine gun nest with three of the enemy guarding it.

Rushing directly at the gun in the face of its fire, Pope killed the gunner and captured the gun, taking prisoner the other two men.

Here Now Postal Clerk.

There was Leon Hanna of company D, 131st infantry, 33d division, now a postoffice clerk, who advanced alone under heavy fire near the Bois de Chaume, on Oct. 10, 1918, and charged the enemy position. He bayonetted the enemy gunner and captured two of the gun crew, permitting his platoon to resume their advance. He holds the Distinguished Service Cross.

And then there is Sergt. Earl J. Cheevers of headquarters company, 132d infantry, 33d division, now a restaurant owner, of 1625 Ainslie street. "For extraordinary heroism in action near Bois de Forges, France" he received the Distinguished Service Cross. On Sept. 16, 1918, Cheevers was maintaining a line of communication when he saw four Germans enter a dugout. Armed only with a pistol, he dashed in and took twelve prisoners.

Refuses to Quit Fighting.

Edward J. Powers of 3940 Arthington street, now bailiff for Judge Green in the Municipal court, was a machine gun corporal of the 132d infantry, 33d division. He wears his decoration for having returned to the front line trenches at Bois de Fais, France, after being wounded on Oct. 9, 1918, and sent to the hospital. He threw away his evacuation ticket and went back to the war.

Others whose service won them mention and decorations are Edmo E. Merkel, now athletic instructor at Crane Technical High school, who was a member of the 55th United States marines, 2d division, and C. Wayland Brooks, recently defeated for state treasurer on the G. O. P. ticket.

Gen. Pershing himself presented the Distinguished Service Cross to John Francisco, now a Chicago postal employé, living at 2527 North Mason avenue. He also has the Croix de Guerre. In the fighting in the Bois de Foret, Oct. 12, 1918, Francisco found the men around him badly scattered after three counter attacks from the enemy lines. He rallied the squads and, although a private, led them against the German lines.

Michael J. Cullen, now a bailiff in Judge Burke's court, was a member of Company K of the 364th infantry, 91st division, when he won his D. S. C. And Paul Hobscheid, a real estate man these days living at 8015 Vernon avenue, earned his Distinguished Service medal as a sergeant of the 131st infantry, 33d division. He was near Metz when the war ended.

Then there is Phil T. Duff, whose record of battles sounds like a roll call and who was a member of the 132d infantry of the 33d division. For several years he has been a contractor, and lives at 2048 West 80th place.

DANDRUFF
Ends Overnight

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents. This simple remedy never fails.

ABORTION of Colds
(with lemon juice)

Do you sometimes get colds that hang-on for days? That's because the remedy used does not drive the cold symptoms from the system. Try cold abortion and you'll find those stubborn colds broken up and gone within a few hours. To abort a cold, squeeze two full-sized lemons in a glass of very hot water, to be taken preferably at bedtime. Two hours before, start taking a tablet of Pape's Cold Compound each hour. After the third tablet take the lemon juice and hot water without sugar, and go to bed, well-covered. Sound sleep will follow, and the cold will be aborted by morning. The lemon juice treatment never fails, but you must have the cold compound to clear the head, dry the nasal passages, and allay any fever. Any druggist has Pape's Cold Compound; it is perfectly safe, and a tablet will check a cold at any time.

COURT REBUKES OPERA SINGER AT KAHN SUIT TRIAL

Mme. Lindgren in Tears; Banker Absent.

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Little testimony was taken today in the breach of contract action brought by Mme. Lydia Lindgren, opera singer, against Otto H. Kahn, banker and music patron, because the plaintiff repeatedly drew the rebukes of Justice Frank F. Adel.

When Samuel Meyers and Irving Mariash, the singer's lawyers saw that scant progress was being made they asked for an adjournment until Saturday. Mr. Meyers explained he wished time to inform his client how she would conduct herself in court. Mr. Kahn was not present. His attorney, Max D. Steuer, said he was too ill to appear.

While Mr. Steuer was making his opening address, Mme. Lindgren, seated near the bench, said in a fairly audible tone: "That's a lie; that's a lie."

Ordered to Rear Seat.

Justice Adel told her to keep quiet and take a seat in the rear of the court room. She began to cry.

"Do you feel ill?" Mr. Meyers asked.

"I feel well enough," she said, "but I do not think the atmosphere here is beneficial to me. The judge has already thrown me out."

Justice Adel silenced her by saying: "You are in a courtroom now and you must conduct yourself accordingly. You will not criticize me, but I will criticize you if you do not behave yourself."

Says Kahn Praised Her.

The singer gave what little testimony was heard. She said she came to this country from Sweden in 1913 and met Mr. Kahn and Giulio Gatti-Casazza in 1914 at the Metropolitan Opera house. She sang for them, she said, and Mr. Kahn told her she had a "beautiful voice," that she made a "stunning appearance," and that she had a "beautiful figure."

"I hate to say all these compliments about myself," she added.

Mr. Kahn, she said, offered to get her some engagements, but the Metropolitan impresario recommended that she study another year in Europe. In 1914 she went to Europe to study, she said, and Mr. Kahn paid for the trip.

She testified that in 1916 Mr. Kahn settled $50,000 on her, $25,000 in the form of a ten year trust fund and the remainder in cash.

Sues for $160,000.

In his opening address Mr. Meyers said the plaintiff seeks to collect $160,000 from Mr. Kahn on the ground that this sum was promised her in 1930, when she agreed to drop a slander suit she brought against Mme. Julia Claussen, another opera singer.

Mr. Steuer, in his opening statement, declared Mr. Kahn had given the plaintiff more than $200,000 since 1914. He described her present suit as an attempt to "bleed Mr. Kahn through the nose."

CLEVELAND WARS ON ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY PACT

Cleveland, O., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The executive committee of the Lake Carriers' association today unanimously adopted a resolution opposing the proposed improvement of the St. Lawrence waterway which will bring the full strength of the organization to battle against ratification of the treaty recently agreed upon by representatives of the United States and Canada.

Data will be compiled and reasons for the opposition will be presented to the congressional committee to which the proposed treaty will be referred, it was announced in the resolution.

This action brings the first organized opposition of any proportions to fight the St. Lawrence waterway.

COUNCIL IS ASKED TO LICENSE SALE OF BEER AND WINE

Coughlin Amendment Provides for Retail Stores.

aged even though there was no conviction for a prohibition violation."

United State's District Attorney Dwight H. Green merely smiled and refused comment yesterday when asked what his attitude would be toward prohibition cases in the future.

EX-DRYS JOIN STAMPEDE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The drive for legalized beer by the end of the approaching short session of congress rapidly gained momentum today as new congressional voices made themselves heard in favor of immediate modification of the Volstead act.

In Washington two Democrats, Senator James F. Byrnes [S. C.] and Representative John J. O'Connor [N. Y.], called for action at once to give the country real beer within the next 90 days. The New York representative, as one of the authors of the O'Connor-Hull 2.75 per cent bill, voted on at the last session of congress, also sent out letters to every member of the house asking for suggestions as to the simplest and quickest method of securing modification of the Volstead act.

Britten to Press Action.

As new demands for a dry law change were made here, congressional leaders in many sections of the country acted to put themselves on record in favor of the early legalization of beer. In Illinois Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep.] announced he would urge the passage of a beer bill as soon as congress is called to order. Representative Carl Vinson [Dem., Ga.] announced at his home in Georgia that legalization of light wines and beer will be undertaken by the Democrats in the coming short session of congress.

From New York Representative Emmanuel Celler [Dem.] telegraphed his colleagues in Washington that he would demand that the house judiciary committee meet the first week in December so that a beer bill can be passed before the Christmas holidays. Others who within the last 48 hours have promised to lead in the beer modification movements include Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader of the senate; Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], and Vice President Elect John N. Garner.

Drys May Oppose Plan.

Many dry holdover senators have, however, tentatively indicated they would attempt to stall off action on either of the prohibition questions at this session of congress. Reports also were emanating from high quarters to the effect that President Hoover would veto a beer bill if it were passed at the short session.

Labor's national committee for modification of the Volstead act asserted tonight that a checkup indicated that there would be 303 modification votes in the house, 13 more than two-thirds. They said also that in the short session there will be a minmium of 64 votes in the senate.

In outlining his view on the beer modification move Senator Byrnes said:

"The Democrats of the house and senate will, I know, immediately take up consideration of the all important question of balancing the budget. In the months that will elapse between this date and March 4 plans will be made to prepare the bills necessary to put into effect the program outlined by Gov. Roosevelt in his speeches.

"I believe the question of modification of the Volstead act will be out of the way by Christmas. The pending business in the senate will be the Glass resolution submitting to the states the repeal of the 18th amendment, and it is probable that this resolution will be acted upon within ten days after the senate convenes."

LANDON, REPUBLICAN, WINS GOVERNOR RACE IN KANSAS BY 3,000

Independence, Kas., Nov. 10.—(AP)—A former Ohioan who heeded that advice about going west is the new goveneror elect of Kansas.

Alfred M. Landon brought in a 500 barrel oil well, became the father of a baby daughter, and won the Republican gubernatorial nomination—all in a single week.

At 45, Landon has established himself as one of the leading oil producers of the midcontinent area. His fortune has been estimated up to $1,000,000.

In politics, he managed the 1928 campaign which resulted in nomination and election of Clyde M. Reed for the governorship. He was elected Republican state chairman and served two years.

Born in West Middlesex, Pa., Landon spent the early years of his life in Marietta, O. He moved to Independence about thirty years ago.

ASK ROOSEVELT TO PARDON U. S. RUM PRISONERS

Presidential pardons for all federal prisoners convicted for having liquor in their possession was asked yesterday of President Elect Roosevelt by the Rogers Park Civic league. The letter, signed by Charles West, president of the league, said in part:

"The executive committee of the Rogers Park Civic league, by unanimous vote, requests that you be notified of one of the most glaring instances of miscarriage of justice on record in federal courts.

"Specific cases which require presidential action include federal prisoners incarcerated in penitentiaries for having liquor in their possession. Here in Chicago we have had the famous Wiley case; in Michigan there is Fred Palm; in Oklahoma, in Kansas, in California, in Minnesota—in fact, in quite a few other states—there are men and women in penitentiaries who have been victims of the tyrannical zeal of the prohibition army.

"These persons cannot be deemed criminals in so far as concerns intent to wrong society. These persons have not violated commandments that affect other people. These persons are but sacrifices on the altar of bigotry and fanaticism."

Olive Olsen, Actress, Is Granted a Divorce

Mrs. Margaret Whitfield Leondar, known on the stage as Olive Olsen, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge James J. Kelly in the Superior court from Lew Leondar, a musician, who lives in New York. She charged that he deserted her in 1930 and waived alimony. The couple were married in 1922.

MAKES PLEDGE TO FREE ALL IN STATE DRY NET

Michigan Governor Elect Cites Repeal Vote.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Wet sentiment expressed by voters for repeal of the state bone dry law at Tuesday's election brought results in two quarters today. Judge W. McKay Skillman in the City court refused to sentence a dry law violator and William A. Comstock, Democratic governor elect, promised release of all state dry law violators as his first official act.

The arraignment of William Munn, a bootlegger, who pleaded guilty to selling four ounces of whisky to a policeman, precipitated judicial reaction in the state where the bench had been dedicated to enforcement of the life for a pint law. Judge Skillman suspended sentence.

"Public Has Spoken."

"The public has spoken in the election in disapproval of the state amendment," the judge explained. "Although the action of the people does not repeal the state prohibition law—such action being up to the legislature—the people nevertheless expressed themselves on the matter.

"Inasmuch as a law should represent the will of the people and as the courts are the servants of the people, if I were to impose sentence on the defendant I think I would be doing him an injustice. It would be ridiculous to jail a violator after the people have spoken so convincingly."

Plans Legal Inquiry.

Gov. Elect Comstock forcefully stated all prohibition offenders should be freed in view of the 3 to 1 vote against the state dry law. If discharge is legal, he said, the violators will be freed as one of the first acts of his administration. He said he will confer with Patrick H. O'Brien, attorney general elect, on the legal phases of discharge.

From Lansing Gov. Wilber M. Brucker declared he will support the law despite the wet sentiment. He instructed Attorney General P. W. Voorhies to prepare a formal statement to clarify the issue.

Meanwhile debate continued throughout the state on the new amendment. It authorized the legislature to set up a system of state control of liquor traffic and to impose excise taxes.

Officials Vary in Opinion.

It has been pointed out that no state control can be exercised as long as traffic is forbidden by the eighteenth amendment and Volstead act. Officials vary in opinion as to whether the vote wipes out the standing enforcement laws.

The prohibition amendment was written into the state constitution in 1916 and the state prohibition law was passed in 1917. Attorneys declare a test case must be made to determine just where the state now stands to guide police.

Judge Skillman called a meeting of judges for Monday to determine the policy of the court as a whole. He adjourned until Nov. 23 all liquor cases before him in the belief that by that date the result of the vote will have been certified.

May Free Dry Prisoners.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Four western states which repealed their state prohibition laws by popular vote in Tuesday's election found the reactions varied today.

California, leading grape producing state and one of the foremost in the growing of hops, repealed the Wright act. Whether 1,000 men held in state penitentiaries and county jails for its violation would be pardoned rested on legal advice sought by Gov. James Rolph Jr.

Oregon officials in conference decided repeal of the state liquor law became effective with the closing of the polls Tuesday.

In Arizona, where it was said the state repeal measure would become effective about Nov. 28, it wipes out a constitutional amendment adopted in 1914.

The first material effects of the Washington repeal vote was the discharge by Sheriff Claude G. Bannick in Seattle of 27 deputies on his dry squad.

In Los Angeles, which voted 554,840 to 285,472 for repeal, Mayor Porter said he was "still dry and will do all in my power to keep the city dry."

ADJOURNMENT OF VOTE CANVASSING BOARD IS BANNED

Superior Judge Joseph B. David issued an order yesterday restraining the Oak Park canvassing board from adjourning during the hearing on a writ of mandamus to compel the village board to count the ballots cast for judge of the newly created Municipal court. The petition for mandamus action was filed by Attorney J. Edward Jones, a candidate for judge. He was opposed by Thomas J. Barrett Jr.

The village board did not print ballots for the judicial election and Oak Park voters, acting in accordance with an opinion issued by Attorney General Carlstrom, wrote in the names of Jones and Barrett.

HOBBY EXHIBITS FOR FIVE STATES OPEN TUESDAY

The Hobby, Antiques and Collectors' exposition will open next Tuesday at the Hotel Sherman, with exhibitors on hand from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, New York, and Nebraska. Exhibits will include postage stamps, coins, paper money, firearms, Indian relics, antiques, glassware, coverlets, prints, clocks, autographs, manuscripts, books, and other objects.

Almost all booths in the main exhibit hall were sold more than a month before the opening, officials said. The exposition is being run on a nonprofit basis for the purpose of adding new members to the ranks of collectors.

NEW YORK GETS READY FOR BEER; POLISH UP BARS

Broadway Leases Popular; Spending Thousands.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—This city, which never did go dry but suffered greatly from the quality of its brew, began hopefully today to prepare for honest, suds topped beer. Leading local brewers snapped their suspenders optimistically and talked of "beer by Christmas." Wine merchants of other days emerged from retirement heartened by last Tuesday's wet vote.

Along Broadway "beer leases" were the order of the day and the famous hotels of the city began to look to their taprooms and bars. Five local brewers announced expenditures of more than seven million dollars in anticipation of a revision of the Volstead law. Distillery, bottle, and kindred by-product shares perked up on the stock market. Trucking fleets and cooperage companies were ordered to stand in readiness for the great day.

Workmen were busy this afternoon installing huge beer coolers and a half dozen spigot pumps in the historic seventy-five foot horseshoe bar in the Vanderbilt hotel. This famous old gathering place of such former notables as "Diamond Jim" Brady, "Champ" Clark, and Caruso was remodeling its bar for "the sake of preparedness," according to Walter Marshall, manager of the hotel since 1922.

"We propose to be ready for any change if it should come suddenly," said Mr. Marshall.

Louis H. S. Mouquin, the importer, has had new wine lists printed, but he anticipates a bit of trouble before his champagnes, burgundies and sauternes begin to flow across the Atlantic. In this he agrees with Raymond Recouly, the French writer, who arrived here last week. French wines ordinarily contain between 10 and 14 per cent alcohol. They must contain 10 per cent to preserve them for export, according to M. Recouly.

Presents Problem.

The Frenchmen scent an attempt by American brewers and winemakers to obtain low alcoholic content legislation, but local wine and beer men denied such plans.

James Nicholson of the Ruppert Brewing company said brewers contemplated no such legislation.

"We're not in politics," he said, "but are merely waiting for the people in Washington to act. In the meantime we are getting ready."

The large breweries of Brooklyn and Manhattan have been quietly enlarging and in some cases remodeling their plants. They have placed tentative orders for millions of dollars of new equipment and brewing material and plan to hire at least 1,500 additional workers.

At the Ruppert brewery officials said more than 600 men would be employed the day beer became legal and that abcut $5,000,000 would be spent for improvements in the 3d avenue plant.

Norman S. Goldberger of the Fidelio brewery looks for beer back by the first of the year. He said with the addition of two bottling units and some storage space the Fidelio plant, now making near beer, would be able to produce 5,000,000 cases of beer a year.

George Trommer, Brooklyn brewer, estimated his company would spend about $700,000 in preparation for the return of honest beer. The Lion brewery, makers of Pilsner, announced its readiness to make real beer on a day's notice.

The Schaefer Brewing company, one of the oldest in the country, expects a return to beer and according to its president, Rudolph Schaefer, has filed plans to erect $1,000,000 worth of new buildings in addition to purchase of a great deal of new machinery.

William Piel, president of Piel Brothers, expressed a certainty that beer would be legalized at least by next spring.

The Piel brewery plans to spend approximately $1,000,000 in preparation for legal malt products. About half of it, Mr. Piel said, represented orders on file for extra bottling equipment.

Peter Doelger of the old brewing company in Manhattan said he contemplated a new brewery on Long Island if beer returned. "All new kettles, all new tanks and fine new bottling machinery," he beamed.

All along the line there was confidence that the beer gardens, hofbraus, taprooms, and rathskellers would bloom with the spring.

HER SUICIDE ATTEMPT AWAKENS FATHER TO DRUDGERY OF CHILD

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Florence Nestule, 14, found there was so little joy in her life, so much to worry about, so much sorrow to bear that she tried to commit suicide in front of a Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit train in Brooklyn. Quick action by the motorman saved Florence's life. She was only slightly bruised.

Since her mother died several years ago, Florence was the household drudge. Her father, Joseph Nestule, a carpenter, didn't realize that fully until this evening. Then with tears in his eyes, he took his hysterical child home, vowing to see she does less work in the future.

Florence is one of six children. Three older brothers and sisters have to work all day like their father.

HOPE TO REPEAL STATE DRY LAWS WITHIN 60 DAYS

Wets Expect 2/3 Vote in Both Houses.

Virtually complete returns on legislative races in Illinois last night made it apparent that the Democrats will have a large majority in the state senate and a comfortable one in the house. This is expected to simplify the task of repealing the state prohibition laws.

First steps toward repeal, it has been indicated, will be taken as soon as the Fifty-eighth general assembly convenes on Jan. 5. There is a possibility that the wiping out of the restrictive legislation will be accomplished in the next sixty days.

Democratic Gains.

In the last assembly the Republicans had 32 senators and 80 representatives, the Democrats 19 senators and 73 representatives. The latest returns showed that the Democrats would have this time 34 senators and 83 representatives. So many members of the new legislature are known wets that anti-prohibition leaders are confident the repealer can be passed with an emergency clause making it effective at once. This requires a two-thirds vote.

Of the twenty-five contests for the state senate on Tuesday the Democratic forces won twenty-one, according to the latest figures. The four Republican stalwarts who survived the deluge of ballots were James J. Barbour, 6th; Ray Paddock, 8th; Arnold P. Benson, 14th, and Simon E. Lantz, 16th. One race, in the 20th senatorial district, was close, but with all precincts counted Jerome O'Connell, Democrat, had a lead of 4 votes. A recount has been demanded.

Win 46 House Seats.

Seventy-six seats in the house were contested and the Democratic forces took 46 of these. Their total of 83 votes will give them complete control there.

There are two dry laws now on the books, the search and seizure act and the prohibition enforcement act, which, according to court decisions, largely replaced the former statute.

No public announcement of the determination to knock out both pieces of legislation has been made, but the subject has been taken up by Democratic chiefs and agreed upon as one to be tackled at the earliest opportunity. In the event the repeal measures fail to get a two-thirds vote a majority passage would make repeal effective by next July 1.

Governor Elect Henry Horner said during his campaign that it would give him "pleasure" to sign a repealer. He may include advocacy of this action in his inaugural message. If he does so the large Democratic majority in the senate and the Democrats in the house, which unofficial returns indicate they also will control, probably will take the lead and the wet Republicans are expected to fall into line.

A two-thirds vote of the senate is 34, which is exactly the Democratic vote in that body. Unofficial reports indicate that at least twenty-one of the twenty-five senators elected on Tuesday are committed to the wet cause. Among the holdovers in the odd numbered districts there are nineteen who voted for repeal in the 1931 assembly. This gives a total of 37 or 38 counted upon to vote for immediate repeal.

The entire membership of the house was elected on Tuesday. Of the 153 representatives chosen at least 98 either voted for repeal in the last regular session or ran on repeal platforms this year. In addition the unofficial returns indicate the election of 28 who were noncommittal in their replies to the Crusaders and the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. It is believed that at least ten would vote for immediate repeal.

Only Three Drys Win.

The Anti-Saloon league did not fare well in the election. Apparently only three candidates it indorsed for the senate were elected. Among their former standard bearers who went down to defeat, according to present reports, were Richard R. Meents [Rep., 20th], Henry M. Dunlap [Rep., 24th], Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer [Rep., 26th], Charles E. Lee [Rep., 28th], Louis H. Hanna [Rep., 32d], Guy L. Smith [Rep., 40th], Harry Wilson [Rep., 44th], and William R. McCauley [Rep., 46th].

In spite of the dry plumping—the casting of three votes for a dry—in the election of representatives, many Anti-Saloon league candidates for the lower house, including a number who voted against repeal in former sessions, went down to defeat. Those who escaped had benefited chiefly from bipartisan arrangements in the primary by which only three nominees were placed in the field for the three seats from each district.

Five Veteran Drys.

Among the veteran drys of the house defeated were Hugh M. Luckey [Rep., 22d], Robert Whiteley [Rep., 38th], Ole E. Benson [Rep., 39th], Elbert Waller [Rep., 44th], and W. V. Rush [Rep., 51st].

Gov. Elect Horner, other Democrats elected to state and county offices, Mayor Cermak and other Democratic leaders from Chicago and downstate will start in small groups today and tomorrow for French Lick Springs, Ind., for the usual post-election recuperation and conferences. Policies, such as immediate repeal, will be discussed there.

Returns from downstate continued to trickle in slowly but they failed to show any big change in the results of the contests for state offices. They revived interest in only one of the major races, that for secretary of state.

The totals last night—6,400 precincts out of 7,211 in the state—gave Edward J. Hughes, Democrat, a lead of 100,301 over Secretary William J. Stratton. Cook county, with only seven precincts missing, gave Hughes 73,313.

No Change Expected.

On this basis there was a report that Stratton was cutting down his lead materially but the analysts from the beginning have given Hughes a victory by a state plurality of only 74,600 and the returns from the 804 downstate precincts still to be heard from are not expected to reduce this materially even if Stratton carries most of them. Hughes would maintain nearly all of his 73,313 lead from Cook county.

The latest total on the presidency came from 6,691 of the 7,211 precincts in the state and showed Roosevelt with 1,766,957 and Hoover with 1,339,278 Returns from 6,989 precincts on governor gave Horner, 1,830,532, and Small, 1,294,494. On the senatorship, 6,636 precincts gave Dieterich 1,503,532 and Glenn 1,306,619.

SENATOR TYDINGS BEGINS LEGAL STUDY OF BEER QUESTION

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10.—(AP)—United States Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] announced tonight he has enlisted the assistance of "eminent constitutional authorities" in Washington and that he is preparing a study of the definition of the word "liquors" in the 18th amendment and hopes to prove "authoritatively" it does not comprehend beer.

"The 18th amendment," he said, "prohibits the manufacture, sale, possession and transportation of alcoholic liquors—it uses the world 'liquors'—and I don't believe, technically and legally interpreted, that the word 'liquor' is broad enough to comprehend beer and wines. This has never been before the Supreme court."

Senator Tydings pointed out that before the advent of prohibition, there was a tax on beer, a different tax on wines and still another on liquors, and federal courts, "passing on cases involving these taxes, drew distinctions between the beer tax, the wine tax and the liquor tax.

"By analogy," he added, "the 18th amendment as written is not broad enough to cover beer."

DECREE RESTORES THREE HEADS TO ONE INDIVIDUAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 10.—President Gerardo Machado today signed a decree which restored three heads to one man.

Two days ago Dr. Gumersindo Sietecabezas was appointed professor of mathematics at Havana Industrial and Technical school by presidential decree. Yesterday the professor complained that his real name is Diezcabezas.

Today the president corrected the error. Diezcabezas means "ten heads" in Spanish, while Sietecabezas means only seven.

INDIANA EXPECTS TO REPEAL DRY LAW IN JANUARY

Wet Democrats Control State Legislature.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The state legislature, which in 1925 enacted a state prohibition law that made Indiana technically, though not actually, the dryest state in the Union, will likely repeal the law when it assembles in January.

The election Tuesday swept into conmplete control of the 1933 legislature Democratic candidates pledged by both state and national platforms to effect immediate repeal of the state dry law.

Plan Repeal Conference.

Plans for repeal at the outset of the session in January will be discussed by a conference of Indiana Democratic leaders at French Lick Monday. Paul V. McNutt, governor elect, is bound by the repeal stand of his party, as is Frederick Van Nuys, who succeeds Watson as United States senator from Indiana.

The 1932 Democratic state platform also asks for a constitutional convention to decide on repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment to the United States constitution. The state platform calls on the national congress to submit an amendment for repeal to "the nonpartisan conventions of the people of the several states." The 1933 legislature is expected to indorse formally this demend for an immediate eighteenth amendment national referendum.

Democrats Control Legislature.

The general assembly which will convene Jan. 5, will be more completely partisan than any session since 1913.

Democrats will have 135 members and the Republicans only 16. In 1913 the Democrats had 135.

The new state senate will be composed of 43 Democrats and seven Republicans. The house will have 91 Democrats and nine Republicans.

Spain Prepares Law to End Legalized Prostitution

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Spain, Nov. 10.—The government will ask the cortes to pass a law abolishing legalized prostitution in Spain in the near future. The bill also provides for the creation of a commission to campaign against social diseases and organize dispensaries. The bill calls for prison terms, the payment of a fine, and compulsory submission to medical treatment for persons with social diseases.

One Sure Way to End Coughs and Colds

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

LEAVES MOST OF HER ESTATE TO HER FOUR PEDIGREED PETS

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Four pedigreed pets—three cats and a dog—will inherit the estate of Miss Harriet Draper, spinster daughter of the late Dr. Daniel Draper, former New York City meteorologist.

Miss Draper, who was 42, was killed in an automobile accident near her home at Hastings-on-Hudson last month. In her will filed today she left bequests to five relatives and then provided that all her "stocks and bonds" and other property shall become a trust fund for the pets.

Her attorney said she had personal property worth $5,000 in addition to securities in a safety deposit box which cannot be opened until a court order is obtained. The attorney did not know the worth of the securities.

Negro Shot to Death After Defying 100 Possemen

Greenville, Miss., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Ed Dunlap, Negro, was shot to death today as he emerged from his barricaded and burning cabin firing a shotgun at a posse of 100 men who sought to arrest him for shooting a foreman on a government paving project. R. A. Leist, the foreman, was shot twice, but not seriously wounded by Dunlap Tuesday.

SCHNACKENBERG LISTS REASONS FOR HIGH TAXES

Tradition Is One of Them, Says Legislator.

Proposals for consolidation of local governments, as an economy measure, do not contemplate wiping out the autonomy of the suburban municipalities about Chicago, State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg told members of the City club yesterday.

Mr. Schnackenberg is chairman of the committee on local governments of the Illinois Commission on Taxation and Expenditures, an official body. Griffenhagen and Associates, consultants on municipal problems, have been engaged to prepare a report for the committee on economies that may be effected by governmental consolidations. The report is to be ready soon.

"Taxes are high because the cost of running the government is high," said Mr. Schnackenberg. 'The government cost is high and keeps on increasing because of the ever widening range of governmental services; because of the liberal way in which such services are supported; because of inefficiency and of the faulty and complex structure of government and the illogical allocation of functions.

Complexity of Laws.

"Taxes are high because of weakness in the internal organization and confusion and complexity of our laws which relate to government, public administration and its financing.

"Cherished tradition often binds your politicians, executives, office holders and the taxpayers themselves and prevents taking advantage of any opportunities to cut costs and improve services.

"In Illinois there is a universal demand for tax reduction and a vociferous outcry against high taxes. There is an unmistakable, universal demand for tax reduction, but there has not been much indication of any concrete plan for cutting down the expensiveness of our government. The Griffenhagen report deals with such an opportunity for tax reductions through simplification of the structure of government."

Municipalities League Meets.

Financial administration of large cities cannot be improved by transfer of control over fiscal policies to state legislatures or state administrative bodies, a committee of the American Municipal association reported yesterday at the University of Chicago. The report was made to the national conference of state leagues of municipalities which the association is sponsoring and which opened its sessions yesterday.

Increased efficiency of local officials is the proper remedy for municipalities' financial troubles, the report holds. It lists six essentials of sound financial practice for such officials.

They are: Installation of sound and modern accounting systems; periodical audits to insure the honesty of the administrative officials; annual reports to the state and to citizens to make comparison of performances in different cities possible; operation under a budget, controlled by local, not state, officials; supervision of financial affairs by competent officials, and adequate caution in authorizing new bond issues.

The University of Chicago conference is being attended by mayors, councilmen and other officials from cities in thirty states. It will close tomorrow.

FORTY ALDERMEN MARKED PERFECT FOR ATTENDANCE

Big Improvement Shown Over Previous Period.

The attendance of members of the city council at committee meetings improved considerably in the six and one-half months' period that began on April 1, over the previous six months, according to a report filed with the council yesterday by City Clerk Brady. On April 1 the aldermen began serving the last year of their two year terms.

Forty aldermen were marked 100 for attendance by Clerk Brady for the period from April 1 to Oct. 17. Last spring the clerk credited only fourteen of the council with perfect attendance for the period, Oct. 1, 1931 to March 31, 1932, and for the period from April 1, 1931 to Sept. 31, 1931, only eight of the aldermen achieved the perfect attendance rating.

The marks of the ten aldermen, who didn't appear at every meeting of committees to which they were assigned, ranged from 6 for Ald. Joseph H. Smith, who has been confined to a hospital for most of his term, to 97.3 for Ald. Robert R. Jackson, who missed only one meeting out of thirty-seven. Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th] only missed one meeting, but since he had fewer scheduled meetings to attend the percentage of his attendance was lower than that of Ald. Jackson. Ald. Thomas A. Doyle [13th] was ill the greater part of the period covered in the report.

The attendance figures for the aldermen follow:

Ward—	Meetings.	Present.	Absent.	Per cent.
1—Coughlin	28	28	0	100

The aldermen whose attendance records have been perfect since April, 1931 when the record system was adopted are Sutton, Rowan, Corr, Bowler, Terrell, Moreland, Waller, and Massen. Those who received 100 per cent for the last year are Morris, Northup, Toman, Sloan, Williston, and Quinn.

WORLD COURT ACTS ON POLISH - GERMAN ROW OVER PRINCE'S TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Nov. 10.—The world court, presided over by Baron Mineitciro Adatchi, today concluded the hearing of the case between the Polish and German governments concerning the taxation of the estate of Hans Heinrich, the fifteenth prince of Pless.

The Polish government contested Germany's right to interfere in the case concerning the prince, who is one of the richest landowners in Upper Silesia and belongs to the German minority there.

The prince opposed Poland's tax assessments and asked Germany's assistance in bringing the case before the world court. A decision is expected to be rendered soon.

COUNCIL REVOKES PERMIT OF TAX STRIKE LEADER

Mayor Cites Unpaid Levies Totaling $660,000.

The city council took its first punitive action against large tax strikers yesterday when it revoked a permit previously granted Jacob L. Kesner, vice president of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, to continue the use of a canopy extending over the sidewalk on a building which he owns at 220 South State street. Kesner will be ordered to remove the canopy, Mayor Cermak said.

The council adopted an order on Sept. 28 instructing Commissioner of Public Works Sprague to issue a permit for the use of the canopy for ten years. Mayor Cermak vetoed the order yesterday, the council reconsidered its previous action, and sent the matter to the committee on local industries, streets, and alleys.

Cites $660,000 Tax Debt.

"I am advised that Kesner is one of the vice presidents of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers; that he owes more than $660,000 in taxes for 1928, 1929, and 1930 on some 30 pieces of property, that he paid about 40 per cent on those properties for 1928, but has paid nothing for 1929 or 1930," said Mayor Cermak.

"If Mr. Kesner had paid some fair proportion of the taxes levied against his properties, he might be entitled to some consideration by city authorities, but in addition to his failure to pay any of the 1929 or 1930 taxes, he is one of the officers of an association whose practice it has been to advise all property owners over the radio and otherwise not to pay their taxes, which organization is primarily responsible for the tax strike."

Courtney to Investigate.

Mayor Cermak announced after a conference with State's Attorney Elect Thomas J. Courtney that one of the first duties of the new prosecutor will be to investigate taxpayers' associations. This will be done, the mayor said, despite the fact that a special grand jury said the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers was violating no law, but that it should advise its members to pay at least the portion of the taxes considered just. There are many neighborhood improvement associations following plans similar to that of the taxpayers' association.

The mayor said the new prosecutor would also continue investigation into the charges made by Herman J. Goldberg, forger and convicted tax fixer. The most recent charges made by Goldberg were found by the grand jury to be groundless. The mayor said the jury made no effort to find out who changed the assessment books. However, the records show that Goldberg was convicted of arranging tax fixing deals with an employé of the former board of review. This employé was also prosecuted.

KING VIDOR IS SUED FOR DIVORCE BY HIS SECOND FILM WIFE

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—King Vidor, prominent film director, today was made defendant in a divorce suit instituted by Eleanor Boardman, his film star wife in an action accusing Vidor of cruelty and associating with Betty Hill, named by the wife as co-respondent.

As recently as last July, August and September the director spent much of his time in company with Miss Hill, taking her to apartments, driving her about in his car and escorting her to cafés, Mrs. Vidor asserts.

She also accuses him of striking her and calling her ugly names and that he notified merchants he would no longer be responsible for her accounts.

The petition of the wife asks for all of the community property, which she estimates to be valued at $1,000,000, and the custody of their two daughters, Antonia and Belinda.

The Vidors were married Sept. 8, 1926, and separated June 20, 1932. Vidor previously was the husband of Florence Vidor, actress, now Mrs. Jascha Heifetz, who obtained a divorce from him in 1925.

ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR A $250,000 BREWERY HERE

J. L. McCarthy, a representative of Drewrys, Ltd., one of the largest brewing organizations in Canada, announced yesterday that his company will open a plant in the Chicago district as soon as congress enacts legislation permitting the manufacture and sale of beer. Mr. McCarthy is in Chicago to select a site for the brewery, and he said that he will make his choice within 24 hours.

Already his company, whose headquarters are in Winnipeg, has taken an option on a location in St. Paul, he said. The proposed Chicago district brewery will be a $250,000 project and will employ about 80 men, he said.

Predicts 600 Million Revenue.

Mr. McCarthy produced figures to show that the federal and state governments would derive $600,000,000 in taxation if the Canadian liquor system were put into operation in this country. He pointed out that in pre-Volstead days 2,144,000,000 gallons of beer were manufactured annually in the United States. In Canada, the dominion and the provincial government each impose a tax of 12½ cents a gallon, Mr. McCarthy said. On this sale, the federal and state governments would derive $500,000,000 from the beer tax.

Furthermore, he said, the dominion government imposes a malt excise tax of $1.08 a bushel. If the malt to be used in the manufacture of American beer were taxed on this scale an additional $100,000 would be realized, making a total of $600,000,000 in revenue, Mr. McCarthy stated.

Expects Greater Consumption.

He pointed out that these figures are based upon beer consumption at a time when the population of the United States was only 100,000,000 and when there was competition between beer and hard liquor. With the present population of 120,000,000 and no hard liquor available, legally, the consumption of beer might be expected to be greater, he said.

CERMAK URGES PROMPT ACTION FOR RELIEF FUND

Council Asks Legislature to Speed Program.

Mayor Cermak stressed the urgent need of continuing the administration of emergency relief to the idle yesterday afternoon after a session of the city council. The council adopted a resolution urging the legislature, which reconvenes its special session on Tuesday, to subordinate all considerations other than a substantial fund raising program.

Mayor Cermak said his own program for raising funds to continue relief is based on three points: The assessment of all personal property, the reduction of real estate taxes so that they can be paid promptly, and the enactment of a state sales tax law. He also suggested that the legislature empower the city to sell between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 of bonds without a referendum vote.

Immediate Action Needed.

"Immediate action is necessary," he said. "If we wait until the machinery to collect a state sales tax is set up the idle will starve. The Reconstruction Finance corporation has said that it will advance no more funds to Illinois except when we have taken decisive steps to raise additional funds within the state.

"The legislature has no alternative other than to act at the session that convenes Tuesday. At the end of this month our funds on hand for relief will be exhausted. We do not know where to get additional cash except from the legislature. And by Dec. 1 there will be about 160,000 families in Cook county seeking relief."

Mayor Cermak outlined his proposals to Michael L. Igoe, minority leader of the house.

Back Council's Stand.

The attitude of officials of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and the city council's committee on unemployment was expressed as similar to the resolution passed by the council, although neither has indorsed or advocated any specific legislation to raise additional funds. The commission will meet this afternoon and the council committee will meet on Monday to consider possible action to be taken before the legislature convenes.

Fifty members of the unemployed council appeared before a subcommittee of the Cook county bureau of public welfare yesterday to protest against the bureau's refusal to give relief to families until they have realized to the fullest extent on loans secured by insurance policies, and other real and personal property. The group threatened to picket ten relief stations starting tomorrow.

Lake county's board of supervisors met yesterday in Waukegan and approved a proposal to divert $100,000 of the county's share of gasoline taxes from roadbuilding to relief of idle citizens. One-third of this amount will be dispensed in December, the remainder in equal allotments in January and February. The relief fund will be distributed among the townships under a plan to be worked out later. The resolution passed by the supervisors stated that 20,000 persons in Lake county were destitute.

MINER DEPUTIES TO SUPPLANT 1 COMPANY OF NATIONAL GUARD

Taylorville, Ill., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Following the swearing in of more than 200 working miners as deputy sheriffs at the courthouse last night, the National Guard on duty here in the Midland coal field was cut to one company today when the Quincy company returned home. The Cairo company will remain on duty for the present.

The meeting last night was attended by about 1,000 working miners, Peabody officials, Sheriff Charles Weineke, Chief Deputy Elmer Deeren, State's Attorney Harry Grundy, and Dr. J. W. Spresser, president of the Association of Commerce.

The duties of a special deputy were outlined by the state's attorney and the new deputies were warned against abuse of these duties. The county was divided into territories.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE DEMOCRATS AND THE BUREAUCRACY.

The Democratic national administration under Franklin Roosevelt, taking office next March, will be composed of men fresh in the federal bureaucracy. The gigantic departmentalism which has been turning the United States into a sovietized government will be new to them. Each one of Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet officers will enter upon a new job. He should be able to view it in a fashion which the veteran bureaucrat would find difficult and might find impossible.

A socialized bureaucracy quickly makes converts by taking them cordially into its operations. When a man has been several years, or even less, at the head of a department he is thoroughly in sympathy not only with what it is doing but with proposals for its extension. It is next to impossible, it seems, to check departmentalism on the initiative of the men involved in it. Now here is the Democratic opportunity.

Theoretically this federal machine is not indorsed by the traditional Democratic party. If the party goes to its fountain head, Thomas Jefferson, it objects to such a government. It resents the spreading of such an organization over the activities of the population. It does not believe that democratic liberties are promoted by widespreading federal bureaucracy.

It would seem that opportunity and theory meet in Washington when the new Democratic administration takes over. It's probably the best chance the United States has had in a generation to get the federal government back to its old dimensions and form. The Wilson administration, whatever might have been its intent, was a failure in this respect because the war soon turned the United States government into that of a communistic state.

The human element in a great bureaucracy cannot be ignored. There has been built up a vast system of jobs upon which hundreds of thousands of citizens depend for their living. Few bureaucratic heads have so little compassion that they want to throw these employés out on the street precipitately, and the longer the chief stays on his job the less he wants to do it at all. A proper and considerate reduction of the mammoth departmentalism of the United States, with all its expensive activities, cannot be accomplished in a short time, but if it is not planned for at the very beginning of an administration it will not be done later. This will be a Democratic opportunity. It is in the line of economy. It will reduce administration costs which must be reduced. It will restore a better form of American government. It will compel the states to work their way back to self-reliance. It will give them their old sovereignty in place of their federal subsidies. It will give the American citizen a new belief that he's on his own feet again. It can be done by a new administration. And every symptom of government sickness points to the necessity of doing it.

POETRY, ITS PAST AND FUTURE.

Among the cultural enterprises stricken by the storm is the small magazine Poetry, founded twenty years ago upon the inspiration of Miss Harriet Monroe, its editor now and from the beginning, and Hobart Chatfield-Taylor. The object, as Miss Monroe testifies in the current issue, was to "relieve the desperate plight of poets," the immemorial plight of unrecognized authorship on the cold doorstep of editorial conservatism. There were amiable Chicagoans then who could feel for any shivering seeker, and they were found, whereupon Poetry put forth upon the literary waters a hospitable ark, destined to bear some freight which must have astonished its backers and caused the judicious to grieve, as well as others, which more than justified the enterprise.

Poetry was intended to open the way to poetical experiment, and experiment has its obvious failures and wastes which bourbonism sometimes unwisely protests. Not a little that it has published might better have been left in the plight from which its eager hospitality rescued it. The current issue, in fact, carries some dreadful trash by an early discovery of Poetry. But this, after all, was probably inevitable in its zeal for experiment, and Poetry has made some memorable introductions. Its roster bears the names of poets who did not need its aid, Yeats, Tagore, Moody, Meynell, Rupert Brooke, but also of others who might have had to wait long for a hearing. It was the first vehicle, we think, of Vachel Lindsay, T. S. Eliot, and Carl Sandburg, but most of the poets of contemporary note contributed, as Edwin Arlington Robinson, Robert Frost, D. H. Lawrence, Ridgely Torrence, James Stephens, Ezra Pound, W. R. Benet, John Gould Fletcher, Sara Teasdale, Joyce Kilmer, whose much quoted "Trees" first appeared in its pages; Padriac Colum, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Dorothy Aldis, Amy Lowell, Alice Corbin Henderson, and others known in various degrees to literary fame. It is interesting to note that many writers popular with the public for prose writing found a place in Poetry for their occasional expression in verse, including Ernest Hemingway, James Boyce, Henry B. Fuller, Du Bose Heyward, Julia Peterkin, Sherwood Anderson, and Elizabeth Madox Roberts.

Upon Poetry's part in the free verse, imagist and other critical and poetical movements of recent years we do not presume to comment, such matters being dark to us and the general reader. But Poetry has won honorable note in this generation of the literary minded, in England as well as America, and is an institution which ought not to be allowed to sink in the seas of our present tribulation. This is likewise the opinion of the Friends of American Writers, an organization of Chicago women, encouragers of budding writing talent, which has planned a benefit for the depleted exchequer of Poetry at the Goodman theater Nov. 18. A play, "When Chicago Was Young," is the entertainment offered, and it should be a pleasant return from the preoccupations of our troubled hour. THE TRIBUNE wishes for its success and for the prosperous survival of Poetry.

SELECTING JUDGES.

Because twelve judges of the Municipal court and two judges of the Superior court were to be elected at the same time as a President of the United States, five candidates for the former court and two for the latter, none of whom had received the preference of the bar association, were swept into office; or, in other words, five candidates for the former court and two for the latter who had been indorsed were defeated.

This does not represent the most discriminating use of the ballot, but it is inevitable in such circumstances and might have been worse. Nevertheless, we suggest that it should emphasize for the bar associations and civic organizations of the state that a better method of selecting our judiciary be formulated as soon as possible. Judicial selections should not be mixed with partisan contests. We are not in favor of appointment of judges by the executive, but there are grave defects in our present method, which in the guise of direct popular election represents party organization influence, mitigated by that of the bar recommendations and the press which supports them.

The problem of judicial selection is not the same as that of selection for executive and legislative office, as it involves professional judgment on competence and ought not to be affected by partisan considerations. Executive and legislative officers are chosen to carry out party policies. Judges are not. Their function is impartially to interpret the laws. Our present system of selection does not recognize this distinction, but throws judicial office along with all others into the political hopper.

The bar understands this and ought to show more enterprise in evolving a better system of judicial selection. Such a system should not deprive the lay public of some final control over the selection of judges. No free people will submit to that. But methods can be devised of confining selection to competent and responsible candidates on a nonpartisan basis and to better insure the tenure of incumbents who have demonstrated judicial fitness.

AUSTRALIAN FEARS OF JAPAN.

Australians and New Zealanders have long been conscious of the possibilities for their nations of Japanese expansion. Recent events in Manchuria cannot have calmed these fears. It is true that if Japanese projects in the north are successful there will be an outlet for Japanese expansive energy and an absorption of her resources in the exploitation of this region which will postpone imperialist enterprise elsewhere. But if the Manchurian conquest is successful, Japan's power will be greatly enhanced and there is nothing to suggest that her ambition will be satisfied by such a success.

Japan, indeed, seems on the crest of the wave, while radical politics has been exhausting the finances of Australia and New Zealand, creating social turmoil and civil strife, and profoundly weakening the real elements of national defense. At the same time England's treasury has been emptied by confiscatory taxes, her credit and currency debased, and she is involved not only in difficult European complications but in a desperate struggle to retain her hold upon her Indian realm. England is less able to protect Australasia than at any time since the founding of these colonies. It must be ominous to the Australians and New Zealanders that Japanese imperial policy has become rapidly more militant as England's difficulties entered a critical stage.

With Australia and New Zealand bleeding themselves white through radical confiscation of capital and destroying responsible government and internal peace, there is reason for fear of the future in those countries. It will not be surprising if the Asiatics gradually push the whites out, as the northern barbarians thrust the Romans back from the Danube frontier and eventually brought down the whole structure of Rome.

Editorial of the Day

THE BRONX HOUSING.

[New York World-Telegram.]

The news of the Reconstruction Finance corporation loan for the building of a $3,957,000 low price apartment development in the Bronx comes like the smell of rain to thirsty men. Seven hundred men are to be employed on the work for seven months. Fourteen hundred will receive indirect employment through the purchase of materials.

Two thousand one hundred family heads—nine thousand people in all—will be tided over the winter.

The improvement will provide 5,000 rooms at an estimated price of less than $11 each. There are to be 100 four story walkup units and five six story elevator units.

The benefit will be treble—it will help the unemployed in a time of great need; it will provide housing to replace dismal and insanitary abodes, of which tens of thousands remain in the city; it will help stimulate commerce.

It was with these objects that a large federal sum for slum removal was appropriated. The fund is being too slowly drawn upon.

Nathan Straus Jr., whose land at 213th street and Boston road, the Bronx, is to be used for the development, was a principal mover in this most humane, useful and forward looking project.

It is to be hoped that the action of himself and associates will be the start of widespread use of the government funds for the same purposes.

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

THE TIDAL WAVE.

St. Louis, Nov. 10.—Workmen are busy laying great pipe lines to New York and San Francisco through which to pump beer directly to those cities as distributing centers for the east and west coast. The pipes will be six feet in diameter, but whether they will prove sufficiently large for the immense quantities of beer that will start flowing through them as soon as congress acts is problematic.

Harvard College, Nov. 10.—An unconfirmed report says that a large brewing academy which finds itself swamped with students has made an offer to buy Harvard college immediately to be used as a brewing school. It is rumored that the football field will be used for raising hops, and the entire faculty of the university will be taken over by the brewing school and set to work at once thinking up attractive names for the new brands of beer that the school will originate.

Milwaukee, Wis.—The city council, while willing to help the brewers in their frantic haste to get ready for the great demand for beer that will come as soon as congress acts on the matter, is willing to turn over all public buildings except the city hall and the postoffice. Streets are already being fenced off to give adequate storage facilities for the millions of kegs, barrels, and bottles which will be needed.

St. Paul, Minn.—A proposition has been made to the state authorities by a number of capitalists to dam the Mississippi and to convert the water into a great beer lake forty or fifty miles long and some fifteen miles wide. With such a large supply it is expected that the beer lake will not be drunk up until late next summer.

Omaha, Neb.—Farmers everywhere throughout the west are plowing their fields and putting in crops of hops and barley. In all the towns and cities people are planting barley in their front and back yards and hops in their window boxes. Public parks are being sowed in barley and hops, while rice is being cultivated in all hothouses as well as in the parlors and kitchens of private homes.

Pierre, S. D.—Dairy farmers are greatly excited over the claims of a scientist here that by skillfully feeding cows barley, hops, and rice, with a small quantity of yeast, the cows will give rich lager beer instead of milk. The exact quantities to be used in persuading the cows to give beer instead of milk is the scientist's secret, but it is said to have been proved successful by many tests made in this vicinity during the last few days. By keeping the cows in cold storage, the scientist declared, the beer will be ice cold.

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER.

I lie unknown . . .
Beneath this coverlet
Of marble cold,
Surrounded by a silent, somber host
Of men . . . great men . . .
Whose names are old . . . so old!
I would not feel
So utterly alone . . .
If I could have my name
Upon a little stone.

I lie unmourned . . .
Beneath these heavy wreaths
Placed for the dead,
While far away my humble mother dwells,
Not knowing where her son
Has laid his head.
I would not feel
This pitiful unrest . . .
If I could have her place
Blue pansies . . . on my breast.

FRANCESCA MILLER.

IT WILL BE A GREAT RELIEF to have a man for President who is not a fisherman. Pictures of Presidents fishing have been plastered so plentifully all over the papers in the last few administrations that it got to be a frightful bore. And when you examined them you saw that Presidents fished much like other people. They always used water to fish in and employed a pole, a line, a reel, and a hook, just as any of us do. Yet there was a terrible hullabaloo when they went after the fish. The idea began to spread that a man couldn't hope to be President unless he was a fisherman. And there are so many men of real ability who don't go fishing. It's as well to have this fish story nailed right now. We don't know who started it, but we wouldn't be surprised if the fishermen did. They do tell the most awful stories, those fishermen.

ARMISTICE DAWN.

Then on Moulin de Jaulny came a hush;
Dim candlelight that led the surgeons' way,
An open fire, dull-glowing on the hearth,
Paled in the gray-thick mist that was the day,
And forms, stark still, lay seeming not to know
That Armistice was nearing Bois-de-Bonveaux.

SOME EXPERIENCES.

J. R. G. writes: I have been reading your column twenty years and I would like to tell you of several things that I have learned from it and, having applied them, bear witness to the good they have done me.

Many years ago you wrote of the use of flaxseed for constipation. I have been using it ever since, taking two teaspoonfuls in my morning cereal. I do not consider it much of a laxative, but as a lubricant it is great, and I never have constipation nor any signs thereof.

Having much to do in the old days I often ate hurriedly and paid for it in savage attacks of indigestion. You advised voracious eaters to take more time and less food. I followed your advice. My stomach has never troubled me since. I eat anything I like in moderate quantities.

Some years ago my wife was much distressed by blisters breaking out persistently on hands, arms, and face. She went to family doctors and to hospital clinics, but with no beneficial results. After a while I recalled that you had written that some persons were sensitive to primrose plants. We had some very lovely primroses in our house. We put them out of doors and the blisters disappeared. Neither primrose nor blisters have returned.

It is now near to cold weather and winter itch victims, out of whom you get a lot of humorous enjoyment, will soon be pestering you again. I have had winter itch and it really isn't so funny. Not at the time, anyway. I now use old, thin cotton underwear underneath my coarser winter garments and have no more winter itch. Kindly pass this along.

I am now 75 years old and still going strong. I have a lot of my own teeth, but have had to buy a few store teeth to take the place of dead soldiers. I have plenty of hair and it is not gray. It is rust red and, while not pretty, it is useful, especially in cold weather.

I can walk several miles any time, and I often do, and I work when I can get it, but my mind is not as good as I would like and my back is lame when I bend.

I have had annual attacks of inflammatory rheumatism for thirty years and the old heart is none too good.

NOSEBLEED.

Miss S. A. K. N. writes: Are frequent nosebleeds harmful? My nose bleeds three to five times a day for a period of two or three weeks. In a month it will start again and unless it comes in a month it bleeds at night when I am in bed.

REPLY.

There are nosebleeds and nosebleeds and people and people. Whether nosebleed in a given person is important or not depends on the person, his age, his blood pressure, and some other points, and on the amount of blood lost. Adolescents' moderate nosebleeding is harmless. In older persons with high blood pressure it promotes comfort. You appear to be overdoing the thing. How are your adenoids and tonsils? Have you a bleeding point in your nose?

HOT OIL NO HELP.

A. D. G. writes: I had infantile paralysis, which caused one leg to be considerably thinner than the other. Would rubbing with hot oil or cocoa butter make this leg heavier?

REPLY.

No.

EPILEPSY POSSIBLE.

Mrs. H. R. writes: My 12 year old cousin has some sickness. She talks to anybody and all of a sudden stops talking. She can't see or hear. She doesn't fall, but stays in one place. This lasts about two minutes and when she gets over it her mother asks her what is wrong. She says it gets dark in front of her eyes and she cannot hear. When she is that way her mother tries to talk to her, but she doesn't answer. Her mother tries to touch her; she moves her hands and tries to push her mother away. She has these spells about ten times a day and has been that way since she was 4 years old. She lives in the country.

REPLY.

REAL ESTATE MORTGAGE.

Chicago Heights, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I gave a mortgage and interest notes on a piece of real estate. Both notes and mortgage were due two years ago. I have paid no taxes for three years. The state will forfeit the property this year if not paid. I have not been able to pay anything or get a renewal. 1. If taken over by the state [2] will I still be liable for the amount of the mortgage? At the present time I do not know who holds the mortgage papers. The original firm that made it was put out of business by the postal authorities. It then turned up, or at least another firm who were connected with the one that first made the mortgage, said they had it. It also went into bankruptcy and was taken over by another bank which in turn was closed a year ago. 3. Nobody seems to know about the papers. The recorder's office says there has been no change on the books since the mortgage was recorded nine years ago. R. H. S.

1. The tax sale and tax deed will merely be a cloud on your title. The property would not be taken over by the state in such a way as to put you out.

2. Yes.

3. If the papers name a definite place for payment you should make a legal tender at that place. This will cut off your liability for subsequent interest. It seems probable that the holder of the papers would see that they are presented at the proper time.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ATTACHMENT PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—One of my tenants owes me $66 back rent and refuses to pay. I went to a lawyer and had his car attached in court. 1. Now my lawyer tells me that I might lose the case because we attached without judgment. He says we must sue him first to obtain judgment. 2. Is he right? 3. Is this attachment any good as it is? Shall I sue him to vacate and get the judgment against him? Is the judgment good to take his car? L. G.

1 and 2. The Illinois statute authorizes attachment in advance of suit only on special facts such as that the debtor is a nonresident, etc. After securing judgment there would be no question about the creditor's right to seize assets in excess of exemption.

2. Your lawyer is in a better position to advise you than we are.

3. Depends on facts that are not before us.

DISINHERITED.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father died in Wisconsin. I was left one dollar in the will, my two sisters the rest. 1. How can I find out what he left in the will? 2. Is there anything that can be done about it? G. W. H.

1. In the course of the probate proceedings an inventory should be filed by the executor. You can secure a copy from the clerk of the court by paying for it.

2. The will stands unless you can prove undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 11, 1916.

CHICAGO.—President Wilson has won 276 votes in the electoral college on the face of unofficial returns which now are nearly complete. Unless this result should be upset by recounts, a remote possibility, Mr. Wilson will have a majority of twenty-one electoral votes over Hughes, who now is credited with 255 votes by the unofficial returns. The President's total was swelled to 276 yesterday by the addition to his column of New Hampshire and New Mexico.

LONDON.—The official report issued by the war office describes a terrific battle fought in the air above the lines in France. The report follows: "One of our squadrons of thirty machines encountered a squadron of from thirty to forty machines. An aerial battle took place and the enemy squadron was broken up and dispersed. Six of his machines were seen to fall out of control, but owing to the severity of the fighting it was not possible to watch them to the ground. As the result of other fights nine more hostile machines were driven down in a damaged condition, three of which are known to have been destroyed. A hostile kite balloon was sent down in flames. Seven of our machines are missing."

PETROGRAD.—A violent attack on Russian positions in the Baranovichi region of Volhynia was made by Austro-German forces. The war office announces that after repelling seven onslaughts the Russians were compelled to fall back to their second line.

PARIS.—North of the Somme the French captured several trench elements northeast of Les Boeufs and in the region of Saillisel.

CHICAGO.—Gifts were announced which bid fair to make Chicago the greatest center of medical and surgical education and research in the world. The General Education board and the Rockefeller Foundation have each appropriated $1,000,000 to start the work, contingent on the raising of $3,300,000 additional by the University of Chicago. Rush Medical college and the Presbyterian hospital, on the west side, with its affiliated research institutes, whose property is valued at more than $3,000,000, will become part of the great enterprise for the relief of human suffering.

CHICAGO.—Enforcement of the rule of Northwestern university that all freshies must wear uniform green caps has been wrested from the sophomores and in the future violators of the rule will be summoned before the student council of the university to explain instead of being ducked in Lake Michigan. The action of the council comes as the result of complaints made by John Dean, a former student, that he was ducked in the lake several times because he violated the cap rule. He has left the university. Acting Dean U. S. Grant served notice that if the student council cannot stop ducking the faculty will do so.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Mike Gibbons outpointed Jack Dillon in what was the greatest fight staged in the northwest since Ryan and Needham fought their memorable battle in Minneapolis. Gibbons gave Dillon eight pounds handicap and handed him the worst beating of his career. The fight went ten rounds.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

MR. HUTCHINS INTERPRETED.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Most of the comments on the address of Mr. Robert M. Hutchins before the Rotary club printed in THE TRIBUNE have related primarily to matters extraneous to that discourse. The letter of Mr. B. W. Snow printed Oct. 31 is of the same type. Mr. Snow not only takes issue with what President Hutchins said but also with what Mr. Snow thinks was meant.

Misquoting the statement that "the total cost of government could and should be redistributed, with certain items increased and other items eliminated," Mr. Snow thinks the word "redistributed" means the redistribution of wealth rather than a changed allocation of public expenditures. To any unprejudiced reader of intelligence Mr. Hutchins' statement could have had but one meaning—governments were unwisely apportioning their funds among the items on their budgets. This is the opinion of almost every citizen. Some think the army and navy get too much of the federal budget, others say it is the veterans, a few pick out the numerous commissions and bureaus, some point to the department of agriculture, others to the department of commerce, and so on. In the field of state and local expenditures some affirm that too much is being spent on highways, others point to education. So it goes, the average citizen agreeing that "some get too much, others too little," but very few of them are agreed as to the precise items to be altered. That is one of the things democratic governments and their citizens are supposed to talk about.

Whether Mr. Hutchins "deplores any effort to reduce the cost of government," as Mr. Snow accuses, is a question of fact, but no light is shed on Mr. Hutchins' feelings on this matter by his statement that he does not believe "in the long run the cost of government should, would, or could be reduced." The facts seem to support the President's statements. That the costs of government have moved steadily upward is indicated by every scrap of evidence on public expenditures which is available. The trend has been world-wide; it has been present in countries under every form of government; the costs have moved upward irrespective of war or peace; every war has resulted in permanently higher levels of expenditure. The development of culture has been accompanied by increases in costs of government. Whether these increases over the years have taken more of the social income than is desirable is another matter. Perhaps it ought to be debated, yet I am sure that both Mr. Snow and Mr. Hutchins know that recently taxes appear to have increased more rapidly than national wealth and income. Taxes, like other overhead costs, have this tendency in a depression. All of the statistics to prove these assertions are readily available—most of them are contained in textbooks used by university undergraduates—if Mr. Snow really wants facts on the cost of government they can be produced.

Whether the cost of government should be reduced depends upon the nature of governmental services and the willingness of taxpayers to provide funds therefor. Whether costs can [Mr. Hutchins said "could"] be reduced depends entirely upon how the citizens feel toward the government and the services it renders. Both government and private industry exist to satisfy human wants. The nature and intensity of these wants determine the course of each. Industry has a depression when the demand for its goods and services declines. It reduces wages, discharges its labor and relieves stockholders of the worry of investing dividends. When industry cannot provide wages for its workers, does the demand for governmental service decline? Perhaps the war departments are not greatly needed then, for example, but the demand for relief, police and fire protection, education and other services markedly increases. The demands of one group for reduction in expenditures [really for less taxes] are offset by demands on the part of others for more services. Whether governments can or could reduce expenditures depends on which group is listened to. Perhaps Mr. Hutchins is right; the people may want more services rather than less taxes.

The next thing Mr. Snow dislikes is an unbalanced budget, as if the federal government will not have one. Recent estimates indicate that by the end of the present fiscal year the federal deficit will approximate 1 billion 890 million dollars. Then another year will be added to the 47 other years of fiscal deficits in the federal treasury since 1789. It is significant that a substantial proportion of these deficits were in years of economic depression. A budget can be balanced on the revenue side either by borrowing money or by increasing taxation. If taxes which affect business costs or commodity prices are increased, business recovery will be retarded. Up to date no method of taxation has been discovered by which governments can lift business out of the doldrums. Most taxes have exactly the opposite effect. If taxes cannot be increased without deleterious effects, all that remains is the cutting of expenditures or the employment of public credit. Whether expenditures can be cut depends, as has been said, upon the demand for governmental services; whether debts can be contracted appears to depend upon the bankers, but it seems to be government credit which keeps the banks open, at least a few of them. As to who got the government in business, doing such things as regulating railroads, subsidizing steamships, carrying second class mail at a loss, building up tariffs, drumming up foreign trade and so on, is an old story, but Mr. Snow surely knows the answer.

THE WILD WEST.

Chicago, Nov. 6.—I just wish to say that I enjoy the reproductions of the early western Currier & Ives prints which you have in your rotogravure section on Sunday. I cut these out and save them. I also cut out and like any news from the west about miners, Indians, gold strikes, wild animals, etc. Let's have more of them. James O'Donnell Bennett's articles on the Currier & Ives prints are also appreciated.

SCHOOL BOARD PAPER.

Chicago, Nov. 7.—As a board of education employé I would like to know when we will get cash for checks from a year ago last summer. These checks were stamped "Do not cash." If we could cash these and obtain our scrip balances and others it would help somewhat. Those of us who had to work that summer were very much in need. The amount, of course, is less than fifty dollars or else we could have gotten a tax warrant. Why should we not be able to make up the difference with cash as formerly?

MUCH IN NEED.

COLD INCREASES HUNGRY PUPILS' FUND DEMANDS

Friends Urged to Send In Their Gifts Now.

This is a reminder to all friends who expect to send their gifts to the Hungry School Children's fund some time this winter—and a request that they send them now.

Cold weather means hungrier children, friends. It is bad enough to be thinly clad when slushy snow falls, but to be cold and hungry while you are trying to get an education isn't exactly an experience contributory to educational ambition.

Fifty-two schools are now feeding the neediest of their pupils and a few more will be added next week. But as the funds total is a little more than $11,500, part of which already has gone for lunches, the feeding of children cannot be extended to many more schools without further aid from Tribune readers.

A small gift will help. Perhaps your bridge club would like to send the fund the money ordinarily given for prizes, as one bridge club did; or might like to send a gift in memory to some departed friend, or in recognition of a birthday. Many children are giving parts of their allowances. And all added together, such contributions as these go a long way toward making hungry school children happy, with nice hot lunches at noonday.

Legion Auxiliary Sends $55.55.

Leading yesterday's contributions that totaled $129.50 was a $55.55 gift from the Cook County council of the American Legion auxiliary. Last year also this organization sent the fund a sizable gift. Among the other gifts was $5 from Mrs. Adrian H. Jackson, who pledged that amount every month, and $2 from "Thankful," who volunteered to send more gifts "whenever I can." The gifts are acknowledged as follows:

$2.50—Roderick and Virginia MacArthur, Oak Park.

$1.25—Anonymous.

$1—Mrs. J. E. D.; Mrs. F. K.; Anonymous; B. E. W.

30 cents—Mrs. L. Stanley.

R. F. C. ADVANCES $1,170,000 FOR 2 BUILDING JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today made two self-liquidating project loans totaling $1,170,000, and advanced $367,300 to the state of West Virginia for relief of destitution in twelve counties and one city.

The corporation agreed to purchase $1,125,000 worth of bonds of the Twin Lakes Reservoir and Canal company of Olney, Col., the money to be used for construction of an aqueduct under the continental divide. Increased water supply in the area served by the Twin Lakes company has been made necessary, the corporation said, by drought conditions in Colorado.

At the same time the board of directors authorized the purchase of $45,000 worth of bonds of the town of Sanford, N. C., to finance construction of a modern water filtration works. Both loans were made at 6 per cent interest.

According to the corporation's announcement, the two construction projects are expected to furnish direct employment to 425 men. Approximately 350 will find work on the Colorado project for a period of 29 months, it was said, while from 50 to 75 are expected to get employment on the North Carolina project for five months.

40 HIGH SCHOOLS INVITED TO ENTER SPEECH CONTEST

The 40 senior high schools in Chicago and Cook county were invited yesterday to compete in the eleventh annual public speaking contest sponsored by the Union League club as a means of perpetuating the principles of citizenship embodied in the life and service of George Washington. Sectional contests will be held from Feb. 14 to 17 and will lead up to the finals to be held Feb. 18 in the Union League club.

The high school speakers may choose as their subject one of five topics: "George Washington Two Hundred Years After," "Washington, an Ideal," "Washington's Influence on the Early International Policy of the United States," "Our Debt to Washington in Popularizing the Place of Education as a Function of Government," and "Washington's High Conception of the Office of President."

Each oration must be the original composition of the participant and must not exceed seven minutes in length.

The sectional contests are scheduled as follows: West, Harrison, Technical High school, 9:45 a. m., Feb. 13; north, Lake View High school, 10 a. m., Feb. 15; south, Thornton Township High school (Harvey), 2 p. m., Feb. 16, and county, Morgan Park High school, 1:10 p. m., Feb. 17.

Sinai Congregation to Hear Former Mayor of Bombay

Vitalbhai J. Patel, former mayor of Bombay and speaker of the All India legislative assembly, will speak Sunday morning at the Chicago Sinai congregation on "India, Freedom, and Gandhi." Mr. Patel spoke yesterday at the Kiwanis club luncheon meeting at the Hotel Sherman on the fight for freedom in India under the leadership of Gandhi.

PLAN $4,000,000 R. F. C. LOAN FOR CITY WATER JOB

Money Would Build New Pumping Station.

Commissioner of Public Works Sprague yesterday submitted to the city council finance committee a plan to borrow $4,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to finance improvements in the city water system.

The plan is to build a modern pumping plant on the near west side to supersede the present 14th street, Harrison street and 22d street pumping stations. These stations, which are from 40 to 60 years old, would be dismantled. The construction of the new pumping station would cost $3,000,000 and an added $1,000,000 would be needed for the relocation of mains.

Water works projects come under the head of self-liquidating public improvements on which the R. F. C. is authorized to make loans. The village of Wilmette recently was promised a loan for that purpose. Col. Sprague's plan will be discussed at a special meeting of the finance committee to be held in the near future.

Urges Canal for Dumping.

The committee recommended to the council, which deferred action, acceptance of a permit from the sanitary district to use the old Illinois and Michigan canal as a dumping ground for ashes and other noncombustible waste. Col. Sprague has estimated that by utilizing the old canal bed between Damen and Western avenues the city can save $300,000 a year, as it now pays as high as 47 cents a cubic yard to dump in abandoned quarries.

"We will eliminate a health menace by ridding that district of a body of stagnant water," said Ald. James B. Bowler [25th].

A request from Col. Sprague for the purchase of 50 trucks on the installment plan at a cost of $363,000 was referred by the finance committee to a subcommittee which will meet today. One truck, according to Col. Sprague, can do in one day for $30.40 what a three trailer unit now does for $66.55. Adoption of the proposal would eliminate considerable patronage in the hiring of teams that now are used to carry garbage and waste to the trailers. The trucks, Col. Sprague said, could be paid for out of savings in garbage collection costs.

Authorize New Police Cars.

The council yesterday authorized the purchase of ten new police squad cars at a cost of $8,000 and fifteen patrol wagons to cost $29,000. It also authorized Col. Sprague to purchase on the installment plan six caterpillar tractors at a total cost of $50,460.

The suggestion of Ald. John Toman [23d] that the city compile a directory of all registered voters as an unemployment relief measure was referred to the committee on unemployment. Ald. Toman's resolution directed the committee to consider the feasibility of such a directory and of the employment of jobless citizens in compiling it.

MERCHANDISE MART RESTRICTS PARKING SPACE

Motorists who have been accustomed to park on the site provided by the Merchandise Mart, were refused permission to park there yesterday. Special policemen barred all motorists except those who were able to prove they were retail merchants or buying representatives of merchants who intended to transact business in the building.

"A majority of the 300 motorists using our parking facilities had no business at all in the building," said H. M. McBain, manager of the building. "By keeping them out, we were able to accommodate our buyers.

"Most of the motorists were employed by concerns in the loop, we found, and parked their cars with us as a convenience to them. We are not in the parking business."

NAZI STUDENTS RIOT; OPPOSE JEWISH TEACHER

Professor Is Attacked at Breslau University.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRESLAU, Germany, Nov. 10.—Riots broke out at Breslau university today when National Socialist [Nazi] students staged violent anti-Semitic demonstrations in protest against the appointment of Prof. Ernst Cohn as professor of civil and commercial law.

The rector of the university and other professors are supporting Prof. Cohn, who is politically a Nationalist, but the Nazis have proclaimed that they will not tolerate the delivery of lectures by a Jew.

Police Are Summoned.

When Prof. Cohn commenced to lecture today, the Nazis created such an uproar that the rector, Prof. Carl Brockelmann, hastened to the class room. Prof. Brockelmann was also shouted down. The attitude of the students became so threatening that a call was put in for the police. Further police reinforcements were summoned and the building was cleared of the rioters.

Clashes between the Nazis and the police were renewed outside the university where the Nazis also attacked and beat students who supported Prof. Cohn. Prof. Cohn was attacked as he emerged from the university and was rescued by policemen. They escorted him to his home followed by a shouting mob of Nazi students.

Sound Out Political Chiefs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—President Paul von Hindenburg today requested Chancellor Franz von Papen to sound out leaders of Germany's political parties concerning their attitude toward coöperating with the present cabinet.

The president decided not to grant audiences to party leaders himself, indicating that he has entrusted Von Papen with all power as the head of the cabinet.

Von Papen informed Von Hindenburg of the cabinet's decision yesterday to remain at the helm. The aged president told his chancellor he approved of action whereby parties are subordinated to the head of the state in planning the nation's program.

Thirty Injured in Riot.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHEMNITZ, Germany, Nov. 10.—Communists and National Socialists clashed here today. Six persons were seriously wounded and 24 others received minor injuries.

Beat Jewish Students in Warsaw.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 10.—The University of Warsaw was closed following an anti-Jewish riot. The disturbance was started by nationalist students. More than 20 Jewish students were injured. The government is reported to be contemplating the suspension of univeristy authorities.

JAIL CONVERTED INTO COMMUNITY CENTER BY TOWN

Charleroi, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Leafing through musty records, the city fathers of suburban speers today discovered the last man incarcerated in the town jail was discharged of his war record at Gettysburg.

Councilman William Hickey, hearing and seeing this, arose and submitted a motion for elimination of the jail.

"The cell doors won't lock," he said, "and somebody has been taking up the floors for kindling.

"We don't even have a justice of the peace any more."

Mr. Hickey pointed to the record where it told how Gill Ryan was arrested for drunkeness "on the River Packet, Boaz" and let out after three days because of his bravery on the civil war battlefield.

Ryan's was the last name in the book.

So, late today, 15 husky young fellows began tearing out the cells. In their places, tables were placed and the jail converted to a community center.

German Heroes of Ocean Rescue Get Hoover Tokens

HAMBURG, Germany, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Capt. Friedrich Alers and fifteen members of the crew of the Hamburg-South American liner General Osorio received mementos today from President Hoover for their rescue of 87 passengers from the American steamer Western World, which foundered at Ponta Do Boi, Brazil, in August, 1931. The mementos were handed to the men by Mayor Karl Petersen. The American consul general, John Kehl, attended the ceremony at city hall.

A. H. WOODWARD TAX VALUATION INCREASED 36%

The board of tax appeals yesterday increased by 36 per cent the 1931 assessed valuation of the personal property of Arthur H. Woodward, 685 Ardsley road, Winnetka, head of the Belding Hemingway company, silk manufacturers, who had protested against the $7,400 valuation placed on his possessions by Assessor J. L. Jacobs. The board members, Fred W. Brummel and George F. Nixon, examined a special report of a deputy assessor who visited Woodward's home and then placed his assessed valuation at $10,110.

Several weeks ago Woodward protested to the board and was granted a short hearing. He informed the members that his personal property was worth not more than $2,710 full value. The special appraisal was ordered. The report said that when the deputy assessor went to the Woodward home only a maid was there. She telephoned to Mrs. Woodward asking if the assessor should be admitted and was ordered to keep him out. The assessor, however, said that he valued the home at $100,000 and reported that it was finely furnished. He said that the $7,400 valuation was too low.

Woodward was examined by Mr. Brummel and during the questioning admitted that he had failed to schedule stocks in the Pullman company and other corporations which he owns. The board then increased the valuation.

Gunmen Rob Two Saloons and Shoot Up a Third

Two armed men early today robbed the proprietors and patrons of two saloons on the near north side. Windows in a third drink parlor in the same neighborhood were shattered by bullets fired from an automobile and it is believed the robbers were responsible for this vandalism. A total of $126 was obtained in the holdup of Samuel Manerde's place at 1347 Sedgwick street and $4 in Frank Janda's at 900 Center street. The saloon fired on was that of John Borthman, 1935 Sedgwick street.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go.

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste, and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches, and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at all stores. ©1932 C. M. Co.

ROOSEVELT HAS PLAN FOR EARLY CONGRESS WORK

Democratic Leaders Will Attend Conferences.

Mr. Roosevelt to the presidency immediately.

Such reports are not considered seriously by Mr. Roosevelt's advisers, and it is known that he would oppose such an action because he is desirous of having full freedom between Jan. 1, when his term as governor of New York expires, until March 4, when he becomes President, to put his complete legislative program into permanent shape for presentation to a special session of the new congress.

Roosevelt Issues Statement.

The text of Mr. Roosevelt's statement denying that he has reached any decision on cabinet appointments, as the statement was given out by Guernsey T. Cross, the governor's secretary, follows:

"In view of wholly unauthorized rumors with reference to prospective appointments to positions under the federal government, Gov. Roosevelt today made the following formal statements:

"In the weeks and months immediately ahead further unauthorized and unfounded suggestions may appear in print and otherwise. To avoid any misunderstanding I desire to make it clear that no decision has been reached and no decision will be reached in regard to any appointments for at least two months.

"I shall neither confirm nor deny any such reports. Here and now I ask the public to disregard any and all such speculations.

"From now until Jan. 1, 1933, the greater part of my time will be occupied with my duties as governor of the state of New York."

Two United States secret service men have taken up their constant task of protecting the President elect as is required under federal law. Mr. Roosevelt did not find the surveillance embarrassing because he has always been under the protection of a state trooper.

Tomorrow the governor will sit for a portrait to be painted by Mrs. C. E. Van Vleck of New York City, who has in the past painted portraits of such personages as Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, Lord Chief Justice Greer of England, and Mary Pickford.

DRASTIC REFORM OF HOUSE OF LORDS IS URGED BY COMMITTEE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Drastic reforms in the house of lords are recommended by a parliamentary, but unofficial, committee. The report, which includes such sensational departures from tradition as a partial removal of hereditary membership, was released tonight.

The most striking innovation is the proposed change in personnel. The house of lords now is made up of 742 members of the peerage and the Church of England hierarchy. The committee recommends a reduction to 320 with all on an elective basis. Of these 150 would be elected from among themselves by the hereditary peers, or the old noble houses. To these would be added peers of the royal blood, of which there are four at the present time.

In addition there would be 150 "outside" peer elected, according to proportional representation by members of county councils. The chamber would be completed with the addition of the two archbishops and three bishops, to be elected by their brethren, and lords of appeal. The report also provides for peeresses to sit in the house when elected. The committee stressed the urgency of restoring some of the powers of the second chamber as a safeguard against legislation that might be forced through by a Socialist majority in the house of commons.

N. Y. PAIR GIVEN LIFE IN ST. PAUL FOR GANG KILLING

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 10.—(AP)—A jury in District court tonight convicted Joseph Schaefer and George Young of first degree murder for the death of Abe Loeb, killed in a gangster quarrel here last July 25.

Judge C. F. McNally sentenced each to life imprisonment at hard labor in the state penitentiary.

Loeb and Al Gordon, his companion, were shot down on a busy corner.

Schaefer told the court his true name is Nathan Winger, but beyond that neither he nor Young would answer questions of the judge before sentence was passed.

Loeb was said by New York police to have been known as Abe Wagner, once sought in the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case.

Youth Captured by Woman When He Tries to Rob Her

Mrs. Susan Close, 6114 North Washtenaw avenue, was passing the Edgewater Beach apartments, Bryn Mawr avenue and Sheridan road, when a youth attempted to snatch her purse last night. Mrs. Close seized the thief and with the aid of passersby held him until the police arrived. He is Michael Coridon, 17 years old, 1411 North Park avenue. At the Summerdale police station he confessed that he had been aided in previous robberies by Frank Simore, 17 years old, 1756 Mohawk street, and Nicholas Cramaner, 16 years old, 1633 Vine street. They were arrested.

2 PROPOSITIONS ON STATE BALLOT APPEAR WINNERS

The gateway amendment to the state constitution seemed defeated, but the two other statewide propositions on the ballot at Tuesday's election were successful, on the basis of returns which were still coming in last night from downstate precincts.

The gateway amendment, permitting the submission of three instead of one amendment to the constitution to one session of the general assembly, must get a majority of the votes cast by electors of the general assembly throughout the state. To date votes for the amendment have fallen below this percentage.

Returns from 4,750 precincts out of 7,211 in the state gave 712,047 votes for the amendment to 160,643 against it. On this basis the amendment will get slightly more than a million votes in the whole state, while a million and a half are believed necessary for its passage. The exact vote needed for passage will not be known until all votes for the general assembly have been canvassed.

The $20,000,000 relief bond issue is apparently assured of success. It requires the same vote necessary for the passage of the gateway amendment. Returns from 4,970 precincts gave it 1,778,097 votes, more than enough for passage.

The amendment to the banking act, permitting receivers to pledge assets of closed banks for loans, requires only a simple majority of the votes on that proposition. Returns from 4,703 precincts gave 778,859 votes for the amendment and 118,093 against it.

Robber Suspect Seized Year After His Escape

The memory of Lieut. George Teeling yesterday resulted in the rearrest of Gerald O'Connell, 17 years old, 7714 Evans avenue, who escaped from custody more than a year ago after he had been arrested on nine charges of robbery. Lieut. Teeling spied O'Connell in the Boys' court, where the youth had gone to hear the case of a friend who had been arrested. O'Connell, following his first arrest, was confined in the juvenile home pending a hearing. He contracted scarlet fever there, was taken to the county hospital, and escaped while convalescing.

TO CLOSE NAVIGATION SHORTLY.

Appleton, Wis., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Although official notice has not been received from the United States war department's district office of engineers at Milwaukee, indications are that navigation on the upper and lower Fox rivers and the Wolf river will close Nov. 19, according to Nelson Wightman, government engineer.

ASK SWANSON TO PROBE STATE COMMERCE BODY

State's Attorney Swanson was requested yesterday by the Utility Consumers' and Investors' league to investigate members of the Illinois commerce commission, with a view of bringing suit to forfeit their bonds if it is shown that they engage in private business.

The memorial to the state's attorney was signed by Prof. Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago, Alfred K. Stern, A. R. Hatton, Harry R. Booth, and William H. Holly.

The organization charges Commissioner Walter H. Wilson served as vice president and director of the Central Trust company, and later as a director of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company until July 1, 1932, in violation of section 4 of the commerce commission act.

They also allege that they believe three other members of the commission, Phil W. Collins, William M. Brinkman, and Rice Miller are engaged in private business, although they point out that Mr. Miller is a newcomer in the office and make an exception in his case.

Mr. Swanson took the matter under advisement.

YOUTH PUT ON PROBATION.

Frank Kraivecsyk, 17 years old, 1808 Superior street, caught early Wednesday as he and a companion were attempting to break into a store at 1731 Chicago avenue, was placed on probation yesterday by Municipal Judge O'Connell.

ALASKA SWEPT BY DEMOCRATS; WIN MAJORITIES

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Democratic landslide reached into the northland with Anthony Dimond holding an apparently unbeatable lead for delegate to congress over James Wickersham, Republican incumbent, and the party today was practically assured majorities in both territorial house and senate.

With returns in from 76 of 177 precincts, Dimond had 7,280 votes to 1,876 for Wickersham.

In addition, the Democrats were in the lead in the races for two territorial senators, and with three Democratic holdovers would control that body, whose membership is eight.

Powerful!
Goes 3 times as far

Fight colds this year at one-third the ordinary cost

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. Hence it goes 3 times as far. And whether you buy the 25c, 50c, or $1 size, you still get 3 times as much for your money.

THE children—the whole family—can escape more colds this year. Can get quicker relief from those they catch. And you can save $2 out of every $3 by using Pepsodent Antiseptic. The money you save results from Pepsodent's high germ-killing power.

Here's the difference!

It's a simple problem of arithmetic. Pepsodent is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics—by adding water it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you extra protection against sore throat colds and unpleasant breath. The old-fashioned mouth washes must be used full strength to be effective. So Pepsodent Antiseptic was made powerful enough to be diluted and still kill germs in less than 10 seconds—yet it is completely safe when used full strength. It's costly enough to use a mouth wash that should be used full strength. But it's more costly to add water and not kill the germs.

Don't risk health

That's why we warn you to choose an antiseptic that, even when diluted, kills germs. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe. Safeguard health and save money.

IMPURE BREATH (Halitosis)

The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds prove its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Remember, Pepsodent is 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, even when diluted with water it still kills germs.

Some of the 50 different uses for this modern antiseptic

SEE ROOSEVELT SPEED RELIEF IN EXTRA SESSION

Leaders Say Program Will Be Ready in March.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

That the new Democratic President will call an extraordinary session of the Seventy-third congress immediately after his inauguration on March 4 to carry out his program of remedial legislation is the expectation of Democratic leaders.

In none of his campaign utterances did Gov. Roosevelt specifically commit himself to convening the new congress in extraordinary session, but the implication of the pledges of expeditious action on his program which he made to the electorate in general and to the farmers and other groups in particular was that there would be no delay in seeking the proposed legislation.

Democratic leaders point out that if the approaching final session of the Seventy-second congress should fail to take action submitting a constitutional amendment to disestablish national prohibition and legalizing beer, the whole question of prohibition reform will go over to the Seventy-third congress.

Speed Lame Duck Amendment.

Unless called into extraordinary session that congress will not meet for more than a year. Inasmuch as the lame duck amendment changing the date of meeting of a new congress undoubtedly will be adopted within a year the Seventy-third congress will not meet in regular session till Jan. 3, 1934.

In the opinion of most Democratic leaders the country would not tolerate delay in prohibition reform until January, 1934, particularly because the legalization of beer involves a source of additional federal revenue estimated at more than 500 millions of dollars a year, sorely needed to balance the budget, and because the repeal of prohibition would enable the governmnt to derive from liquor taxes a revenue of upwards of 1 billion dollars annually. A. Mitchell Palmer, who was attorney general in the Wilson administration, is the author of a plan to bring about repeal of prohibition within the year 1933. What with tax revenue and the elimination of the cost of enforcement Mr. Palmer estimates that the change would net the government two billions a year.

In any event the new President, in the opinion of the party chieftains, will be subjected to great pressure to call an extraordinary session of congress to undertake the radical reduction of the cost of the federal government, to initiate farm aid measures, and revise the tariff.

Develops Program in Speeches.

Gov. Roosevelt developed his program in his campaign speeches in more or less detail. He discussed at length every major issue except foreign relations and the war debts. The Democratic platform declares against cancellation of these debts, but is silent on the question of their reduction. Gov. Roosevelt was equally silent on this matter in his speeches.

Great Britain and France are preparing to seek reduction of their obligations to the United States. They purposely refrained from taking any steps in this direction until after the American election, having been advised that their chances of success in this move would be unfavorably affected if the question were injected into the presidential election canvass.

The election of Roosevelt was hailed abroad with enthusiasm because of the belief that he would be amenable to persuasion in the matter of scaling down the debts. It is possible that events will conspire to impel the President elect to disclose his attitude on the question in advance of his inauguration. President Hoover is reported to be inclined to invite his successor to a conference on the course to be pursued when the debtors officially submit their debt repudiation proposals.

Here Is Roosevelt Program.

The program of his administration so far as Mr. Roosevelt developed it in his speeches may be summarized as follows:

ECONOMY—Reduction of the "cost of the current federal government operations by 25 per cent," involving a "complete change of concept of what are the proper functions and limits of the federal government itself" and a "complete realignment of the unprecedented bureaucracy that has assembled in Washington in the last four years." Elimination from federal budget of all new items "except such as relate to direct relief of unemployment."

UNEMPLOYMENT—Federal relief of distress among the idle when state relief measures are inadequate. Temporary employment on federal public works. Expedition of construction of public works already authorised. Creation of coördinated system of employment exchanges, the advance planning of public works and unemployment insurance reserves made compulsory by the states."

Reduction of hours of work and working days a week.

Return Liquor Rule to States.

LIQUOR—Return of liquor regulation to the states "with control by the federal government limited to that which is necessary to protect the states in the exercise of their legitimate powers." States urged to enact measures to prevent revival of the saloon. Immediate legalization of constitutionally permissible beer and other alcoholic beverages.

TARIFF—Reduction of the Hawley-Smoot tariff act rates to the basis of "a competitive tariff, which means one that will put the American producers on a market equality with their foreign competitors—one that equalizes the difference in the cost of production—not a prohibitory tariff back of which domestic producers may combine to practice extortion of the American public." No reduction below that point. Such revision "will injure no legitimate interest." No reduction of farm product tariffs. Negotiation of reciprocal tariff treaties. Change of tariff commission into "scientific body" reporting not to President but to congress.

AGRICULTURE—Reorganisation of department of agriculture "to eliminate useless jobs" and build a "program of national planning" for agriculture. "Planned use of the land" to convert unfruitful soil to forest production. Reorganization of local governments to lighten tax burden of farmers. Refinancing of farm mortgages at lower interest rates. Restoration of foreign markets for farm products by tariff reciprocity. Temporary manipulation of prices to make tariff effective on crop surpluses. Abandonment of farm board stabilization operations.

Financial Aid for Railroads.

TRANSPORTATION—Federal regulation of interstate bus and truck transportation. Federal financial aid to railroads conditioned upon reorganization of rail transportation to eliminate waste. Reform of railroad receiverships. Relaxation of requirement of competition between roads where traffic is insufficient to support competing lines. Futherance of consolidation of lines. Federal regulation of railroad holding companies.

UTILITIES — Publicity of stock ownership, security issues and management of public utilities, intercompany contracts and exchange of power. Regulation of holding companies by federal power commission. Regulation of security issues "on the principle of prudent investment only." Replacement of the reproduction cost theory for rate making by the actual money, prudent investment principle. Legislation making it a crime to circulate false statements regarding utilities. Development of certain government owned water power to be used as a "yardstick" in rate making.

SPECULATION — Prevention of "the issue of manufactured and unnecessary securities" and exaction of "true information" on details of financing by legitimate securities. Federal regulation of holding companies. Federal regulation of stock, grain and other commodity exchanges.

BANKS — More effective federal supervision of national banks. Prevention of the "unrestrained use of bank deposits in speculation." "Separation of commercial and investment banking. Restriction of use of federal reserve bank funds for speculation. Cessation of sale of foreign securities with implied approval of state department.

URGES ROOSEVELT PICK WALLACE AGRICULTURE SECRETARY IN CABINET

Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Louis Murphy, senator elect from Iowa, has announced that he will immediately ask Gov. Roosevelt to appoint Henry Wallace of Des Moines as secretary of agriculture.

Murphy's majority over Henry Field, Republican candidate for the senatorship, appeared close to 130,000 as final returns dribbled in.

The new senator, who succeeds Brookhart, is a repealist and is nationally known as an income tax authority. He was Iowa's wartime collector of internal revenue, a post given him by President Wilson when he resigned as editor of a Dubuque newspaper.

MISSING BANKER ARRESTED AS HE SEEKS SHELTER

Sergt. William Rohan of the detective bureau will go to Rockford today to bring back to Chicago David G. Wieland, former assistant cashier of the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, who disappeared last December after a shortage was discovered in his accounts.

An audit later placed the amount of the shortage at $110,000. The bank was indemnified by an insurance company.

Wieland, ragged and penniless, sought shelter yesterday in the Rockford police station. Police questioned him and he finally admitted his identity. He said he had been in California. He denied the charges of embezzlement.

ROBBER SENTENCED TO PRISON.

Rodgers Williams, colored, was sentenced to from 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary yesterday by Judge Michael Feinberg for the robbery of Randall Purdy, 315 East 60th street, three weeks ago.

BRITISH PROPOSE NEW TREATY TO OUTLAW 'FORCE'

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The crux of the British proposals which Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon will present to the disarmament conference at Geneva next week is that there must be a pact of European states pledging themselves against the use of force to settle any disputes as a corollary to granting Germany's claim to equality in armaments. Germany itself would have to join this pact, which is the main point of the scheme.

This plan was revealed today by Sir John in the house of commons in the course of an all day debate on the government's foreign policy. It is Britain's contribution to the task of allaying French anxiety about its security, which, Sir John said, might be ill founded, but must be removed.

Text of Proposal.

The text of what he said about pledges against the use of force follows:

"The United Kingdom government suggests that, side by side with meeting Germany's claim to equality status, all European states should join in a solemn affirmation that they will not in any circumstances attempt to resolve any present or future differences between them by a resort to force."

Although Sir John did not so specify, there is authoritative assurance that in his use of the term "all European states" he includes Great Britain. In other words, although Britain is determined not to enter any of the regional pacts which have been suggested by France as a means of security, and not to commit itself beyond the obligations of the league of nations covenant and the Locarno treaty, it would join the continental powers in an agreement not to use force.

More Than a Kellogg Pact.

There is also an interesting authentic interpretation of the word "force" which Sir John did not put in his speech. The first thought, of course, on reading the terms of the proposed agreement, is that it is just another Kellogg-Briand pact exclusively for Europe. But it is something more than that, in the opinion of the British government.

The Kellogg-Briand pact outlaws war. But war is something still legally defined, and the legal minded foreign secretary wanted something else. So Sir John's pact outlaws "force," because force can be defined differently. For example, Japan did not declare war on Manchuria, so it says it never waged war there; but Japan would hardly deny that it used force.

In Europe, for the sake of another example, Germany might not declare war on Poland, but might indulge in frontier episodes that would involve force. Hence, the British propose a pact to prevent bonfires as well as conflagrations.

Baldwin Flays War from Air.

Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, who closed the debate for the government, made an impassioned speech. His intimation of what war from the air would mean was so vivid that it convinced the house of commons the British government was determined to do its utmost to have military aviation abolished.

"Aerial warfare," he said, "is still in its infancy and its potentialities are inconceivable. The time wasted at Geneva, discussing such matters as the reduction of airplanes, fills me with despair. The prohibition of civil bombardment is quite impracticable so long as bombing exists at all.

"Will any formal prohibition of bombing be effective in war? Quite frankly I doubt it. Experience has shown that the test of war breaks down all conventions. There is no prospect of relief from these horrors by any agreement for local restraint.

Hard to Ban Planes.

"So far as the air is concerned there is no way for complete disarmament except the abolition of all flying. That is impossible. Mankind never will go back on a new invention.

"What can we do with this new horror now that we have got it? On the solution of this question hangs our civilization. Before the terrible day comes there hangs a lesser question, but a difficult one, the possible rearmament of Germany with an air force. I am firmly convinced that, if possible, the air forces of the world ought all to be abolished, but if they are there remains civil aviation, and in civil aviation there are potential bombers.

"Before the last war ended we had in this country three inventions of such destructive power that they were not used as a matter of public conscience. In the next war there will be no such restraint. Everything that has been used will be used again unless it is superseded by something more horrible."

VOTES FOR M'KEE, WRITTEN ON BALLOTS, COUNTED AS MARKED

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The board of elections today determined to tabulate separately the seventy or more variations the independent voters used to place Joseph V. McKee's name on the ballot for mayor. The board has legal authority for its stand, Chairman S. Howard Cohen maintained, and will separate the McKee protest vote under its various variants. Thus while Joseph V. McKee will receive over 100,000 votes, J. V. McKee and Joe McKee will receive scattering thousands, though the intent was the same on the part of the voters.

Few if any voters wrote in the name of James J. Walker, former mayor.

"Every vote written in independently must be credited to the person for whom it is written," Mr. Cohen said. His conclusion was that Joseph V. McKee and Joe McKee were two different persons.

TWO BANDITS GET $500.

Herrin, Ill., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Two bandits slugged Miles Bradshaw, cashier of the Palmer Insurance agency, here today and escaped with $500. The same robbers are suspected of a holdup here three days ago.

SWISS TROOPS WHO FIRED UPON MOB ABSOLVED

Federal Council Rules They Did Their Duty.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Nov. 10.—Eleven dead and 65 wounded was the toll up to tonight of this "peace capital's" brief experiment last night with machine gun versus mob.

Troops were confined to their barracks today prepared for new outbreaks. Demonstrations were forbidden and citizens were warned to keep off the streets, but tranquillity, which never really left this city of John Calvin save for the brief moment when a crowd of political demonstrators was sprayed with machine gun bullets, is absolute.

The Swiss federal council today held that the troops only did their duty. The Socialists, against whom the fire was directed, have avowed themselves as licked. They decided against the general strike called by their extremists last night, reasoning that in a time like this no one should take a chance with his job.

Extremist Leader Jailed.

The would-be leader of the Genevese extremists, Leon Nicole, was thrown into jail this morning on charges of inciting riots and threatening the security of the state.

However, fears are felt for Saturday, when the dead will be buried. This has been declared by the cautious Socialists a "day of mourning," when their comrades can either strike or continue at work.

Indignation is high not only among the natives but also among the international element here. The shooting resulted when green recruits were called on to try their skill with machine guns.

"If you want troops to fire on a mob get green troops," said a British expert at the disarmament conference.

Mob Was Unarmed.

Although the Socialist menace in Geneva is hardly apparent, the Marxists having been badly beaten at the last election, Genevese conservatism is clamoring for protection.

Neutral investigations show that the mob was armed only with pepper and tin whistles and that at the instigation if Nicole the disarmament of the troops began as a fairly hilarious affair. The seditious speeches, however, resulted in a number of the wide-eyed recruits, with only two months' service behind them, throwing down their arms voluntarily.

Their officers stepped in and gave the order to fire at the ground, authorities said today. The ground was asphalt and the bullets riccocheted. As usual, innocent bystanders were among the victims. One of them was the father of a machine gunner. Col. Le Perret, the commander, was an officer of the American Red Cross during and after the war.

Calls It "Deplorable."

However, the whole business was condoned by the authorities today. Le Journal de Geneva says "it is deplorable that a lot of poor devils had to pay with their lives to avoid worse evils."

At the disarmament conference this drastic handling of the crowd won support for the American thesis that tear gas should be exempted from the ban on chemical warfare.

GERMAN LINER SETS NEW SPEED RECORD IN CROSSING ATLANTIC

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The North German Lloyd liner Bremen steamed into port today with a new speed record for the east-to-west crossing of the Atlantic.

She covered the 3,090 miles from the Cherbourg breakwater to Ambrose lightship in 4 days, 16 hours and 43 minutes, just 23 minutes under the time set by her sister ship, the Europa, in March, 1930.

The new record set today gives the Bremen the blue ribbon for both the east-to-west and the west-to-east crossings. In February, 1930, she sailed from New York to Cherbourg in 4 days, 18 hours, and that record has never been bettered. The double blue ribbon of the North Atlantic brings back to the Bremen all the speed laurels she held before the Europa was launched.

Official Germany Greets Gronau, Home from Flight

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Wolfgang von Gronau, home from a leisurely flight around the world, was welcomed today by federal and state officials. The flight was more difficult than he had expected, he said, but he is convinced that it will be possible to establish a northerly air route from Europe to North America, navigable in all seasons.

NEW ARMAMENT DEVELOPED FOR BATTLE PLANES

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—New armament for army planes, including a flexible gun mount and an electrically operated bomb rack, have been developed and installed during the last year, according to the annual report of Maj. Gen. B. D. Foulois, chief of the army air corps, made public today.

The flexible gun mount is the result of several years' effort to design such an instrument, and has been made standard equipment on all late types of observation planes. The electrically operated bomb racks, it was said, will permit army flyers to release bombs automatically without the "personal time lag" attending manual operation of the old type of rack.

"In aerial navigation," the report said, "the division has applied radio phenomena to the solution of fog flying and blind landing with considerable success." A new system inaugurated during the year, it was stated, requires no special equipment on the airplane other than a radio compass, and only the "simplest" ground equipment, which may conveniently be transported in a motorcycle.

MEXICO ACCEPTS RULING GIVING ISLE TO FRANCE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Senator Antonio Valedez Ramirez, president of the senate foreign relations committee, said today that Mexico would respect the verdict of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy giving Clipperton island to France.

Clipperton lies about 1,000 miles southwest of the southern tip of Mexico and was discovered by Spaniards four centuries ago. It has flown the flags of Spain, England, Mexico, the United States, Costa Rica, and France.

The French claim the island on a basis of occupancy in the 19th century and arbitration by King Emmanuel beginning in 1909.

HERE'S THAT QUICK WAY TO STOP A COLD

That Doctors Advise As The Fastest, Surest Way

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS IN THESE PICTURES

2 Drink Full Glass of Water.

3 If throat is sore, crush and dissolve 3 Bayer Aspirin Tablets in a half glass of warm water and gargle according to directions.

Almost Instant Relief In This Way

If you have a cold—don't take chances with "cold killers" and nostrums. A cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

It is recognized as the QUICKEST, safest, surest way. For it will check an ordinary cold almost as fast as you caught it.

That is because the real BAYER Aspirin embodies certain medical qualities that strike at the base of a cold almost INSTANTLY. . . .

You can combat nearly any cold you get simply by taking BAYER Aspirin and drinking plenty of water every 2 to 4 hours the first day and 3 or 4 times daily thereafter. If throat is sore, gargle with 3 BAYER Aspirin Tablets crushed and dissolved in a half glass of warm water, repeating every 2 or 3 hours as necessary. Sore throat eases this way in a few minutes, incredible as this may seem.

Ask your doctor about this. And when you buy, see that you get the real BAYER Aspirin Tablets. They dissolve almost instantly. And thus work almost instantly when you take them. And for a gargle, Genuine Bayer Aspirin Tablets dissolve with sufficient speed and completeness, leaving no irritating particles or grittiness. Get a box of 12 or bottle of 100 at any drug store.

ILLINOIS YOUTH NATION'S CHIEF CORNHUSKER

Carl Seiler Wins; Iowan in Second Place.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kewanee, Ill., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Fifty thousand farmers overran Henry county today to witness the thrilling race of eighteen cornhuskers for the championship of America.

Carl Seiler, Knox county's left handed husker, won the national title from the veteran, Orville Welch. It was his third national contest. Seiler set a new world's record of 36.914 bushels husked in 80 minutes. The previous record was held five years at 35.8 bushels by Elmer Williams of Henry county.

Seiler, unmarried and 29 years old, resides on his father's farm near Oneida, Ill. He boasts that no mechanical corn pickers have ever been used on their farm. He was throwing 46 ears of corn into the wagon during every minute of the contest's 80.

The Illinois victor was closely pressed by Walter Johansen from western Iowa. That 175 pound husker who won second honors with his 35.2 bushels was snowbound yesterday. His entire community turned out to plow the roads so he could get to the meet. He arrived here this morn at 3 o'clock. With a hook fastened to one of his hands he beat Welch and two formidable huskers from Minnesota. The Minnesotans won third and fourth places.

Beats Minnesota Champion.

Clarence Maley, husking in his second national contest, piled up 35,142 bushels. His record was fractionally over the Minnesota state champion, Ted Balke of Redwood Falls. Kenneth House of Nebraska obtained fifth place with a load of 33.37 bushels.

Slipping through the muddy, frost covered fields, the huskers today set a precedent in the modern corn belt Derbies when only one of them operated with a four inch steel peg fastened to one palm. All the others wore a narrow band of leather to which was fastened a small hook with which to tear the ears from the husk coverings.

Freeze Follows Rain.

Two years of preparations by Henry county business men and farmers for today's event were awarded when two days of rain and snow ended last night by a hard freeze that put ginger into the snapping of the golden ears from the stalks. While crowds shivered in a brisk November wind, three bands in full dress, one of them following the Indiana husking champion across the state from Fountain county, led the parade of huskers to the field of action.

At 12:07 p. m. two shots were fired to open the eighty minute struggle down the rows of corn 80 rods long. The shots were fired by Elmer Williams, the "prayin' husker from Henry county," a former world record holder.

At once a volley resounded over the fields, mingling with cheers of thousands of farmers who were boosting for their own favorites.

Bang! Went the closing gun 80 minutes later, and eighteen grim, sweaty, and bruised huskers ceased their labors, riding on their loaded wagons to the barns. There each load was weighed. Deductions were made for husks left on the loads and for stray ears the huskers had missed in their forced march down the field.

Body in Potter's Field Is Identified After 6 Months

After resting in potter's field for more than six months, a body was identified yesterday as that of Michael Kelly, 48 years old, a motorman. The body had been taken out of the lake last April and buried in potter's field when no one appeared to identify it. Through the aid of Sergt. Joseph Starshak of the police missing persons bureau, Mrs. Bessie Kelly, 4829 Schubert avenue, found that the description of the body was similar to that of her husband who disappeared last April. She identified her husband's clothing and effects at the coroner's office.

Royal C. Vilas Estate Is Valued at $400,000

The estate of Royal C. Vilas, who killed himself June 9 in his home at Glen View, was valued at approximately $400,000 in an inventory filed yesterday before N. J. Bonelli, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. The inventory lists $100,000 in real estate and the remainder in personal property, principally notes payable.

Rheumatism Goes Swollen Joints Vanish

NEW MEDICINE EASES PAIN FIRST DAY

If you suffer from crippling rheumatic aches and pains, Neuritis, Lumbago, lame knotted muscles, swollen inflamed Joints, it's because your system is full of dangerous and irritating poisons that cause these rheumatic symptoms which every year make thousands helpless. What you need is RU-MA, the new internal medicine, and need it right now.

RU-MA acts on the blood, liver and kidneys and helps expel these dangerous poisons from the system through the natural channel of elimination. Only an internal remedy can do this; that's why external treatments only give temporary relief.

No long waiting for your suffering to stop—RU MA eases pain first day and is one remedy that rheumatic sufferers can depend upon as a safe and quick relief from their stiffening, crippling lameness and torturing pain.

We have so much confidence in RU-MA that we offer a $1.00 bottle to any rheumatic sufferer with guarantee of money-back if it does not free from all aches and pains of rheumatism.

MILK DRIVERS AGREE TO VOTE ON $5 PAY CUT

After listening to pleas of their leaders that they accept a $5 weekly wage cut Chicago milk wagon drivers at a meeting in Carmen's hall, Van Buren street and Ashland boulevard, last night, agreed to consider and vote on the proposal at their next meeting, probably two weeks hence.

The drivers rejected a proposed $10 reduction two weeks ago. Their present basic weekly pay is $45. Indications at last night's meeting were that the drivers might accept the $5 cut. The price of milk in Chicago would then probably be reduced to 9 cents a quart, it was said.

Fitchie Asks Acceptance.

"The milk industry must be put back on an orderly basis," Robert Fitchie, president of the union, told the men. "In order to cope with the cut price outfits the milk dealers must cut the price of milk. If you accept the wage cut this undoubtedly will be done."

Other leaders followed with similar pleas.

Demands of the milk dealers for lower distribution costs to permit a reduction in the retail price of milk were presented at a midday conference to officials of the wagon drivers' union and to L. G. Goudie, president of the teamsters' joint council of the International Bortherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs.

Farmers to Take Cut.

At the close of the conference, held behind closed doors at the La Salle hotel, Dr. F. D. Walmsley, president of Borden's Farm Products company, spokesman for the dealers, said that "the entire question was thoroughly discussed without conclusions being reached."

If the drivers accept a wage cut, this will reduce distribution costs of milk by one cent a quart, it was pointed out. Farmers have offered to help by matching any reduction in the cost of distribution, adding another cent to the reduction, making a total of two cents a quart reduction from the present retail price of 11 cents a quart.

Force Hospital Clerk Into Vault and Take $50

Three gunmen early last evening entered the Alexian Brothers hospital at 1200 Belden avenue, and after forcing Brother Arcemius, receiving clerk, into a vault in the hospital office, fled with $50. Patients and other attendants of the institution were unaware of the robbery until Brother Arcemius emerged and told what had happened.

JOHNSON HEARS HIS FIRST CASES AS A U. S. JUDGE

Federal Judge George E. Q. Johnson heard his first criminal cases in the federal building yesterday.

He sentenced Lawrence Lucas, 23 years old, who was charged with selling liquor to prohibition agents, to one hour in custody of the marshal. Lucas pleaded guilty and said that it was his first offense. He was arrested late in October in front of 4514 Langley avenue, where prohibition agents posing as customers had asked him to deliver gin. He was unable to make bond and had been in jail for 13 days awaiting arraignment.

Louis Steininger, 19 years old, and Robert Seiders, 27 years old, both of 2502 Keystone avenue, North Riverside, were arraigned on a charge of operating a still at 3121 South Harlem avenue, Berwyn. Steininger was sentenced to 90 days in jail by Judge Johnson, who then suspended sentence for probation of one year. Seiders' case was continued.

Fulton County School Taxes Off in 22 Districts, Cut in 49

CAFE WORKERS' UNION ACCUSED OF CONSPIRACY

Warrants charging seven officers and employés of the Chicago branch of the Hotel and Restaurant Employés and Beverage Dispensers International alliance with conspiracy, were obtained yesterday before Municipal Judge Freeman L. Fairbank by Gus Terzakis, president of the American Restaurant association.

The association is composed of about 900 restaurant owners in the Chicago area. Terzakis charged that the heads of the restaurant employés union have been conducting a campaign of intimidation against his associates since Sept. 1 in an attempt to force them to unionize their employés.

The men named in the warrants are George B. McLane, secretary; J. C. Staggenburg, Daniel Poulas, Frank Neuberger, William McKeeding, Walter Tryos and Peter Premas. Attorney Rocco De Stefano, representing the restaurant owners, said that he will ask State's Attorney Elect Courtney to prosecute the union leaders as soon as he takes office next month.

Lieut. John Tracey and his detective squad later arrested Tryos and McKeeding, both of whom said they lived at 4363 Archer avenue. Tryos was seized at 22d street and Michigan avenue. Gaston Ramot, 4639 Magnolia avenue, and Gustav Drowing, said to be attempting to prevent patrons from entering a restaurant near that intersection, were also arrested.

Tannery Burns in East; Loss Placed at $500,000

Peabody, Mass., Nov. 10.—(AP)—A four story tannery occupied by the Amdur-Limon company was destroyed tonight by fire of undetermined origin. Fire officials estimated the damage at $500,000.

No More Piles

How to End Terrible Agony Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Your itching, bleeding or protruding Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of success in even the most stubborn cases that Walgreen's advise every sufferer to get a bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets today. They must end your Pile agony or money back.

Fat Men

I don't care how fat you are or how much you hate to get out and walk a couple of miles. If you will take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast for 4 weeks and cut down on pastries, sugar and fatty meats—

You will feel so good—so energetic and the urge for activity will be so great that you will immensely enjoy a daily walk of several miles—and lose fat.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings.

Just try one bottle of Kruschen Salts; it will last you 4 weeks and costs but a trifle. After you have taken one bottle the old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll enjoy work—you'll sleep like a top and by reducing surplus fat probably live years longer.

A man from Richmond Hill, N. Y., writes: "After 2 bottles of Kruschen, I've removed 3 inches from my belt, feel 25% more activ , mind is clearer, eruptions have disappeared. Am 46 yrs. old and feel 20 yrs. younger. I get up feeling 100%. Kruschen sure is great!"

To take off fat harmlessly and SAFELY, take as directed above—don't worry—it's the safe way to reduce.

But be sure for your health's sake that you ask for and get Kruschen Salts. Get them at any drugstore in the world and if the results one bottle brings—do not joyfully satisfy you—why, money back.

Crankcase Drain Cost Is Small

What does this statement mean to you, Mr. Motorist?

It means that the first fifty seconds after you start your motor is the danger period. That is when slow-flowing oils leave your engine unlubricated—permit metal-to-metal contact!

In that short danger period, motors suffer more damage than in hundreds of miles of driving.

Play safe. Change now to correct winter grade Iso=Vis Motor Oil for your car. For even at Zero, winter grades of Iso=Vis flow instantly. It lasts longer—does not thin out in the crankcase. And it pays for itself a hundred times over in the repair bills it prevents.

CUBAN HURRICANE KILLS 1,000; LAYS CITIES IN RUINS

Nine were killed at Florida, Camaguey province, 40 were injured, 500 homes and 2 hotels were demolished. One was killed at Hongolosongo, Oriente province.

A score of fishing craft sank in Manzanillo harbor. In the town ten were killed and thirty-eight injured.

It is known that Yara and Estrada, in Oriente province, suffered heavily, but no official reports have been received. The Pan-American Airways radio station at Nuevitas was destroyed. Two were killed at Caibarien, Santa Clara.

Gunboat Nearly Sinks.

The navy gunboat Yara, which narrowly missed sinking yesterday, arrived at Nuevitas this afternoon after fighting 150 mile an hour gales.

Firemen, public works employés, police, and citizens' squads are working day and night in the storm area to administer relief and restore some shelter, services, and communications. Hospitals were set up today throughout the zone.

Two relief trains carried food, army tents, blankets, and medicines from Havana to Santa Clara and Camaguey provinces this morning. The Red Cross had collected $150,000 in a relief fund today. An American Red Cross offer of assistance was received and will be accepted.

Property destruction included 2,231,000 bags of stored sugar which belonged to the National Sugar Exporting corporation, and formed part of the sugar segregated as a guarantee for $42,000,000 bonds issued under the Chadbourne-Gutierrez stabilization plan.

Bahama Isle Hit.

NASSAU, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Reports from Long island, in the Bahamas, today said a hurricane struck the island last night, destroying barns and damaging homes and public buildings. Crops also were damaged.

16 Die in Italian Storms.

REGGIO DI CALABRIA, Italy, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Sixteen persons were known to have been killed in the province of Reggio di Calabria as a result of storms which swept the toe of the Italian peninsula. Most of the victims were caught in the collapse of houses undermined by heavy rains and flood waters. Nine of the dead were in the village of Grotteria and seven in Mammola.

GALE DAMAGE HEAVY

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—A northeasterly gale which pounded the eastern seaboard Wednesday night and this morning caused millions of dollars' worth of damage to shore communities. Waterfront sections of Manhattan, Queens, and State Island were flooded with water from a few inches to four feet in depth when the fifty mile wind drove tons of water above the docks and seawalls.

Long Island towns suffered heavily from the effects of the wind, rain, and exceptionally high tide, and Westchester reported $500,000 damage, including the destruction of Mamaroneck's new $10,000 dock.

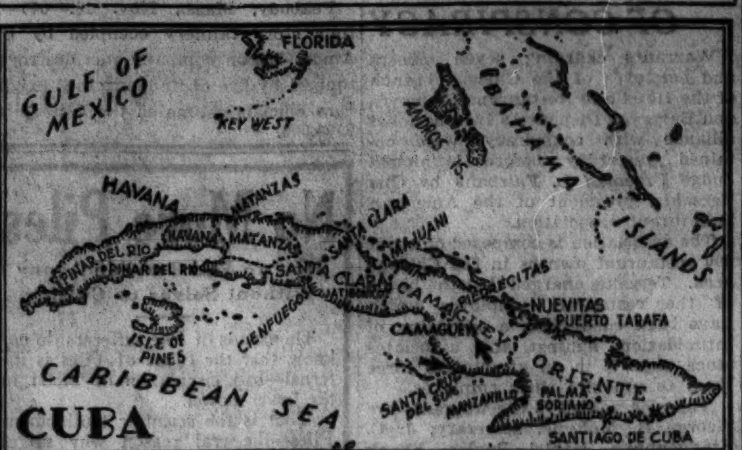
Thousand Are Delayed.

Tousands of commuters were delayed when transportation services were crippled and hundreds of homes were plunged in darkness when lighting wires were wrenched down by the wind.

In New England states, sea and wind caused a long toll of damage and destruction. Connecticut communities along Long Island sound reported floods from four to six feet deep. At Boston shipping was stopped and schools suspended for the day. In Rhode Islan' five cottages were swept out to sea at Westerly and six others destroyed and at Charlestown, R. I., 15 cottages were wrecked.

In New York and vicinity hundreds of cellars were flooded, water backed up in sewers and traffic churned through streets running curb deep. Driven by the lashing wind, the water piled up the North and East rivers, splashing over the docks and sea walls and washing into marginal streets. Hundreds of workers and engineers were kept busy draining off the flood waters through storm sewers.

WHERE HURRICANE TOOK 1,000 LIVES



Arrows indicate point where greatest damage was done in Cuban hurricane. A wall of water 20 feet high swept over Santa Cruz del Sur, killing hundreds. At Camaguey, capital of the province, many big buildings were blown down.

$100,000 REFUND ENDS BOULEVARD LIGHTING SUIT

Judge Denis E. Sullivan of the Superior court yesterday signed an order settling a taxpayer's suit brought against the U. S. A. Construction company, lighting contractors.

Under the settlement the sanitary district is to profit to the extent of $100,000. Of this, $10,000 is to be paid at once in cash. A debt of the district to the company, $53,000, will be erased, and $37,000 will be paid in the next two years.

The company has a contract to install the lighting system for the million dollar bridle path along McCormick boulevard. The contract price was $727,000. In the suit, brought in 1930, it was alleged that plans and specifications for the work were not displayed, as required by law, and that the advertising for bids had not been started ten days before acceptances were closed. This also is required by law.

WOMAN KILLED UNDER A TRAIN; SUSPECT SUICIDE

Miss Nellie Fetter, 44 years old, of 377 Walnut avenue, Elgin, was killed last evening when she fell or leaped under the wheels of a Rock Island passenger train at the Blue Island station, Grove and Vermont streets.

According to her brother, T. A. Fetter of 6131 Northwest highway, Miss Fetter had been in poor health for a long time. She left her home in Elgin yesterday to visit in Chicago. Residents of Blue Island said she had been around the railroad station for several hours and appeared, shortly before her death, to be distracted.

Notes found on the body indicated that Miss Fetter was despondent over her condition and intended to commit suicide.

Mrs. McLaughlin Wins Dog Haven Tax Fight

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin was relieved of the necessity of paying $150 in 1931 taxes on her dog haven, Orphans of the Storm, in Deerfield, by a ruling yesterday of Judge Perry L. Persons of Lake county. The court held that the dog haven is a charitable institution and non-taxable. Mrs. McLaughlin had argued that the institution was not operated for profit and cost several thousand dollars each year. Frank Stanton, chairman of the Lake county board of review, said that the board would follow the court ruling.

James Wilson, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in Pontiac reformatory; Rodger Williams, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Salvatore Vichion and Martin Speros, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; John Krisak, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Mike Gamble, confidence game, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Louis Mather, false pretenses, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary; Harold Tashman, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry Lewis.

Michael Gambell, alias James Hall, alias Michael Gardner, who formerly operated second hand automobile salesrooms throughout the city, was convicted in the Criminal court yesterday of operating a confidence game. He was sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary.

Gambell is charged with fleecing his victims by advertising in THE TRIBUNE that he would buy second hand automobiles for cash. When an automobile was taken to his salesroom, he would make a small cash payment and promise to pay the balance within a short time. In some cases, it is charged, he did not even make the initial cash payment.

By the time the notes matured Gambell would have moved. His last known place of business was under the name of the Hall Motor Sales, 3245 West North avenue. According to the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, which represented THE TRIBUNE in the arrest and prosecution of Gambell, the latter operated previously in Des Moines, Ia., Fort Wayne and Indianapolis, Ind.

JAPAN'S PROBLEM BRINGS TEST OF LEAGUE, SAYS SZE

Chinese Statesman Sees Danger of War.

Dr. Alfred Sze, who represented China at Geneva when the league was debating the Sino-Japanese situation, spoke yesterday at a luncheon of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the Palmer house. He said that the league cannot consistently retain Japan as a member unless that country relinquishes its position in Chinese territory and makes recompense for damage already done.

On Nov. 21 the council of the league is to take up the report issued by the Lytton commission appointed by the league to investigate the Sino-Japanese situation. Dr. Sze pointed out that his country has agreed to cooperate fully with the league in settling the dispute by arbitration, but said that he is not sure what Japan will do if the council makes recommendations unfavorable to that nation.

Important Test for League.

He said that the league faces its big test and that if Japan is allowed to persist in its policy without censure no small nation has any assurance that its treaties will respected.

He sketched the situation in the far east, indicating that it is full of possibilities of international strife. He said that Japan has dropped all pretense of merely guarding railroad communications in Manchuria and has pushed its military forces far into the hinterlands so that not a trace of Chinese authority remains. Manchuria has become the Republic of Manchukuo, ruled by a puppet government, he declared.

In Conflict with Russia.

In addition to the antagonism which Japan has aroused in China, it has also plunged into a conflict of interests with Russia, Dr. Sze said.

Japan's only attempts to give moral justification to its actions have been based on treaties signed after the 21 demands of 1915 had been forced upon China by threat of war, the lecturer said. Treaties signed under such pressure have no validity, he added.

He said that in the far east a situation has been developing which the league of nations thus far has been unable to remedy or even to check.

WINS TWO SUITS

[Acme Photo.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Pauline Starke, actress, spent a highly successful day in court, winning two law suits which made her $28,050 richer, on paper. In the first, Superior Judge Marshall McComb rendered a judgment approving her foreclosure of a mortgage against her ex-husband, Jack White, producer of movie comedies. The mortgage was foreclosed to cover payment to Miss Starke of a promissory note for $22,000 made out by White when the couple divided their community property. In her other action Miss Starke won court legalization of a decision by the motion picture academy conciliation committee, which awarded her $6,050 in salary claims against James Cruze, movie director and producer.

Hundreds of millions of pairs of Interwoven Socks have gone forth to pleased and happy wearers in ever increasing popularity.

The motto of their maker is: "Above All Else Reliability" . . . and through good times and bad . . . through war and through peace (if that's what you call it) the absolute uniformity of quality has been constantly maintained . . . without a single let-down.

There's never any manipulation of materials or juggling of standards with Interwoven Socks.

Interwoven has brought out more new improvements than all other sock manufacturers combined.

That's why Interwoven is the largest manufacturer of men's hosiery in existence and Interwoven the most used of all men's Socks.

If you don't happen to be one of of the many million wearers of this product . . . won't you ask your dealer to show you some of the hundreds of styles in which Interwoven Socks are made in Silks, Lisles and Wools.

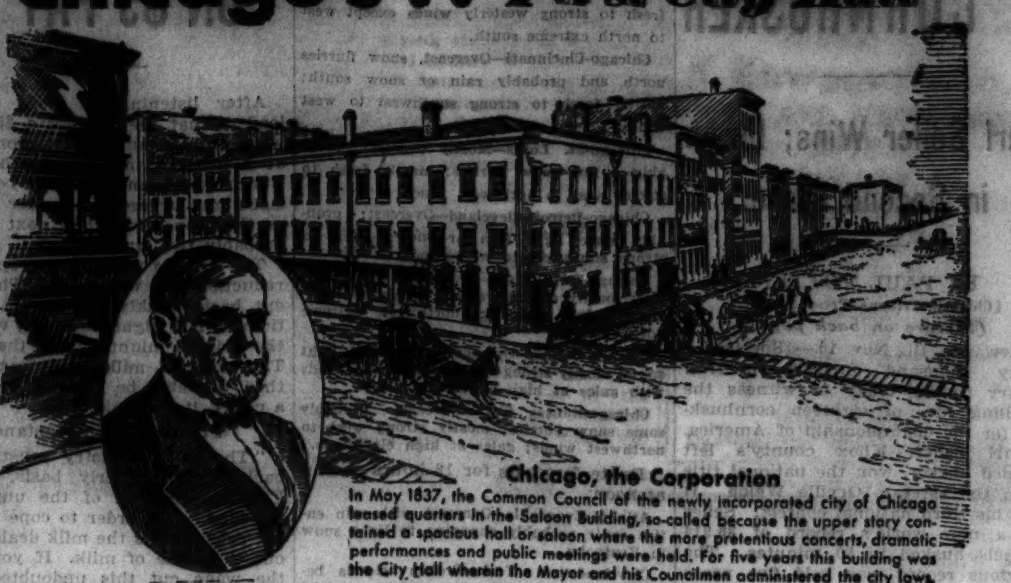
Chicago's . . First City Hall



Chicago, the Corporation

In May 1837, the Common Council of the newly incorporated city of Chicago leased quarters in the Saloon Building, so-called because the upper story contained a spacious hall or saloon where the more pretentious concerts, dramatic performances and public meetings were held. For five years this building was the City Hall wherein the Mayor and his Councilmen administered the city laws.
(From an authentic print)

The First Mayor

William B. Ogden, first mayor of Chicago, was born June 15, 1805 in Delaware County, New York. As railroad and canal builder, lumber and iron king, college and bank president, land owner and citizen, he gave a lifetime of service and devotion to the city.

Imported

Let's make it a gay, old-fashioned holiday, warm with hospitality and good cheer . . . Here's how!

HOLLOWAY'S
LONDON DRY

The only genuine imported distilled gin (non-alcoholic). The same as of old except minus the 45 per cent alcohol, to comply with the law.

"NUYENS" VERMOUTH

For delicious dry cocktails, use this French vermouth, made and bottled in France. Non-alcoholic but with the real matchless zest.

"NUYENS" GRENADINE

For cocktails, punches and other mixed drinks, you need this famous flavouring syrup, made in France since 1802. It tastes better and goes further.

DYKAREE
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Here's the secret of the delightful Bacardi flavoured cocktail . . . 1 part lime or lemon juice, 1 of Dykaree, 3 of Holloway's London Dry: shake with ice.

SOLVE LEGEND OF MAGIC ARMIES IN MEXICAN TOMB

Tunnels Used in Wars 500 Years Ago Explored.

OAXACA CITY, Mexico, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The exploration of an ancient "tunnel of the dead" under Monte Alban today was apparently helping solve a Zapotec legend of miracle armies that appeared or disappeared at will.

The legend is that more than 500 years ago, during the Mixtec-Zapotec wars for control of this section of Mexico, there were many battles around Monte Alban, the center of Zapotecan culture.

The tale relates that the Zapotec armies, when hard pressed, often disappeared as if by magic and reappeared at the enemy's rear, or wherever convenient to surprise him.

Mouths of Tunnels Small.

Dr. Alfonso Caso, government archæologist, discovered the "tunnel of the dead" early this week, his third such discovery in recent months.

He noted today that the mouths of these tunnels are very difficult to find and the tunnels themselves are very small near their entrances, becoming larger deep under the mountainside.

His tracings of the tunnels to date indicate they may all be connected under Monte Alban, and the whole territory literally honeycombed with these engineering works of the ancients. If so, the mystery of their original use would be solved and it would be clear that they were used to transport Zapotec troops in secret, so they could appear where needed.

Skeleton Is Found.

The third tunnel, it was found yesterday, was later used as a burial tomb for warriors of some race, probably the Mixtecs who finally won Monte Alban. Yesterday a skeleton was found, and with it small quantities of gold, red and white onyx beads, and an ornate funeral urn. Other skeletons were found earlier in the week.

Meanwhile work proceeded on main "tomb No. 10," which Dr. Case believes may yield great treasures, like those taken from tunnel No. 7 in January. The January find was hailed as the greatest in America.

The archæologists are unable to find an entrance to tunnel No. 10. The plaster walls and outer floor work that characterize all these Mixtec tombs are proving difficult material, and work must be slow to prevent destruction of rare art.

INSULL 73 TODAY; WILL HAVE PARTY IN THE HOSPITAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Greece, Nov. 10.—Under guard in his hospital prison, Samuel Insull will celebrate his 73d birthday tomorrow. It will be also a week's anniversary of his arrest by Athenian police to await extradition proceedings on his indictment for embezzlement and grand larceny by a Chicago grand jury.

Insull's friends in Athens bought a large birthday cake with 73 candles which will be presented to him as a surprise tomorrow afternoon. The Greco-American club, in which Insull's interpreter, Peter Vanech, is a power, will send him flowers. There will be a tea party at the hospital.

Arthur D. Page, Insull's young British lawyer, arrived in Athens unexpectedly again today with a fat brief case full of papers for Insull to read and sign. Page and Insull had tea together and talked for a good part of the afternoon.

Divorce Parts Vivian Duncan and Mate

VIVIAN (EVA) DUNCAN, ACTRESS, VICTOR IN HER MARRIAGE SUIT

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Vivian ["Eva"] Duncan, actress, won an uncontested interlocutory divorce decree, a property settlement, and custody of 16 months old Evelyn Rosetta Asther, from Nils Asther, Swedish actor, in the Superior court today.

Miss Duncan testified her domestic troubles started when Asther brought his mother to their home. "My husband and his mother quarreled so much in Swedish that he finally moved out of our home to a hotel," she said.

In the property settlement Miss Duncan receives $25,000 for support of herself and her child, to be paid $500 a month. The child is barred from the stage or films until she is 18.

SWANSON PUTS INSULL MOVES UP TO COURTNEY

State's Attorney Swanson said yesterday that no additional indictments will be sought in the Insull cases during the remainder of his term, which expires Dec. 5.

The prosecutor said he did not wish to undertake anything further that would have to be left to his successor, Thomas J. Courtney, for conclusion. Extradition proceedings against Samuel and Martin J. Insull, however, will be carried on, Mr. Swanson said, for they are already under indictment on charges of embezzlement and larceny.

A stenographic error in a deposition taken from Oliver E. McCormick, treasurer of Middle West Utilities, was corrected yesterday and the document, after being sworn again, was mailed to Washington, where Assistant State's Attorneys Charles Bellows and Andrew Vlachos obtained a presidential warrant for Samuel Insull. The prosecutors are now on their way to Greece, but the deposition will be forwarded to them.

Assistant State's Attorney John Hampton said he would like to question Samuel Insull Jr., who has just returned to Chicago, about some of the transactions of the Insull companies, but that he would consult State's Attorney Swanson before attempting to do this.

VERDICT ON WIFE'S SUICIDE.

350 BOLIVIANS SLAIN IN BATTLE IN GRAN CHACO

Paraguay Claims Attack Was Repulsed.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Nov. 10.—(AP)—A Bolivian counter attack in the Saavedra sector of the Gran Chaco, in which 3,000 men were engaged, was repulsed, a ministry of war communique said today. Bolivian casualties were placed at 350 soldiers and four officers killed.

The communique said 300 rifles, 14 machine guns and numerous prisoners had been captured. It said that Paraguayan casualties were insignificant.

Paraguay Opens Drive.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Fighting on the southern Gran Chaco jungle battlefront was intensified today as Paraguayan troops sought to carry the forts held by Bolivians in the Munoz area in the hope of concluding the Chaco campaign.

The Paraguayan army feels that if the Munoz area is captured the Bolivians would be expelled from territory tributary to central Paraguay.

Aim at Bolivian Headquarters.

This area embraces the Bolivian forts of Saavedra, Aguarica, Murgi, and finally Munoz. At Munoz is the Bolivian general staff headquarters, containing an airport, a radio station, and ample well water.

To the north the Paraguayans have already severed the only Bolivian supply line to Munoz from that direction. Since the rainy season has set in, the other Bolivian road along the Pilcomayo river has been inundated.

Dispatches from La Paz today said the Bolivian troops were maintaining their positions at Forts Saavedra and Auga Rica under heavy Paraguayan attacks.

Brazil Rushes Warships.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The ministry of marine today ordered the cruiser Floriano to proceed immediately from Manaos to the boundary waters between Colombia and Peru. The government has been unable to confirm reports of a naval engagement between Colombian and Peruvian vessels at Putumayo, but the Floriano will protect the neutrality of Brazilian waters, of which the Putumayo river is a tributary.

RUSSIA TO BURY STALIN'S WIFE IN OLD MONASTERY

MOSCOW, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Mme. Joseph Stalin, wife of the soviet Russian dictator, who died on Tuesday night, will be buried tomorrow in the ancient Novodevichi monastery, where lie the first wife of Peter the Great, the wife and daughter of Boris Gudunov, and Chekhov, the novelist.

Mme. Stalin's death brought her greater prominence than she ever would permit in life. The body lay today in a red coffin in the lofty hall of the central executive committee building opposite the tomb of Lenin and only a block away from the Kremlin.

As the day wore on the crowd of people in Red square increased, and by early evening a long line four abreast was waiting to walk slowly past the bier of Mme. Stalin. Two middle-aged women, well dressed, apparently close relative of Stalin's wife, sat for more than an hour on a bench in front of the coffin weeping as the slowly moving line of persons filed by.

Young Bandits Take $539 from Currency Exchange

Four youthful bandits took $539 yesterday in a robbery of the Morgan Park Currency exchange, situated in the building of the closed Morgan Park Trust and Savings bank at 1987 West 111th street. The robbers, two of them armed, threatened James C. Campbell and Sydney B. Rushton, the owners, and four customers with revolvers. They escaped in an automobile driven by a fifth man. The robbers were nervous, Rushton said, and left a trail of silver coins from the exchange to their automobile.

Aqueduct Work to Start; Buildings Bid Is Accepted

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—A $35,000 bid on the first piece of actual construction work in connection with the 220 million dollar Colorado river aqueduct project was accepted today by directors of the metropolitan water district. An office headquarters and a truck garage will be constructed in Banning.

New 2 Way Mistol Treatment for Colds

Just Ailing Along

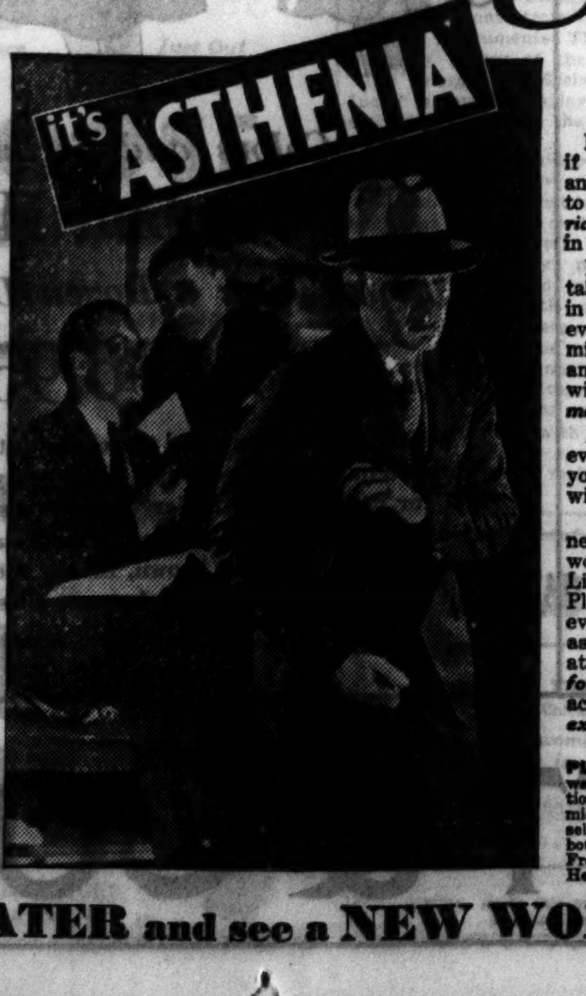
Something was wrong with him.. but he couldn't define it. He was low mentally and physically His mind didn't click. He lacked his old-time pep He was irritable and sullen. It would have been better to be downright sick than to go on like this just ailing along.. wondering and worrying.

Yet the cause of his condition was not at all mysterious. His physician would have recognized the symptoms instantly Without knowing it, he had fallen victim to that modern malady which doctors call ASTHENIA*.

Without knowing it—that's the disarming thing about this insidious ailment. It drags you down . . it slows your mind . it robs you of your joys and pleasures. Yet all the while you hardly realize you are slipping.

Millions are in just that plight today. They toss and turn at night . . wake up with a headache . . drag through the day feeling dull, depressed and in constant fear that something serious is wrong with them.

Are you a victim of this health-destroying blight? Don't think because you're "regular" that you're immune. Physicians will tell you that daily elimination not only must be "regular" . . it must be complete. Otherwise poisons gradually accumulate . . bred by millions of micro-organisms in the digestive tract. Little by little these poisons seep into the blood stream. Then comes that half-alive feeling . . the danger signal of ASTHENIA.



If you feel tired, listless, irritable.. if your work weighs you down like an unbearable burden, decide today to rid yourself of Asthenia and stay rid of it! You can do so easily and in 10 days' time.

Buy a bottle of Pluto Water and take it as directed—one-fifth glass in four-fifths glass of hot water—every morning for 10 mornings. Don't miss a day—for 10 days. You'll be amazed how this gentle treatment will change your entire viewpoint . . make you see a new world in ten days!

After that take Pluto Water every Sunday morning regularly, and you'll find that you do everything with new vim and pleasure.

Then you'll understand why for nearly 90 years, from all over the world, people have traveled to French Lick Springs for this famous 10 day Pluto treatment . . why physicians everywhere recommend Pluto Water as a mild, agreeable and effective laxative—non-irritating and non-habit-forming. Economical too . for by actual test Pluto Water is the least expensive laxative that you can take.

PLUTO WATER ends *ASTHENIA the want or loss of strength . debility . diminution of the vital forces—often due to intestinal micro-organisms. Pluto Water the biggest selling Laxative Mineral Water in the world is bottled and sealed at French Lick Springs Hotel, French Lick, Indiana America's Greatest Health Resort. In 2 sizes 20c and 45c.

GENTLE EFFECTIVE AGREEABLE

When taken as directed one fifth glass Pluto to four-fifths glass hot water Pluto Water is virtually tasteless. It's non irritating and non-habit-forming.

Dinny Appears in New Novel by Galsworthy

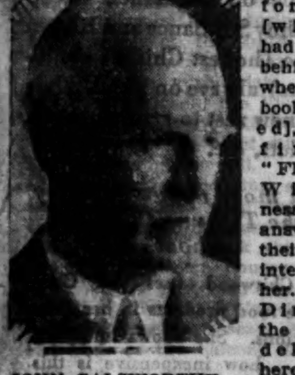
"Flowering Wilderness" Is Hard to Swallow.

It will be the best possible news to every one who reads this page that yesterday when the Nobel award for literature was made it went to John Galsworthy. The addition of that brilliant name to the Nobel prize winners is an honor not only to Mr. Galsworthy but to the roster of the literary great.—F. B.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Flowering Wilderness," by John Galsworthy. [Scribners.] Published today.

READERS of "Maid in Waiting" who were sure that something more of Dinny Cherrell's life was in waiting for them, just as life was all before her [whatever had been behind her when that book ended], will find in "Flowering Wilderness" the answer to their eager interest in her. In it Dinny is the same delightful heroine of "Maid in Waiting" with the added grace of ten years and love. The ten years have done little to her, as the book opens, but love does much—too much, for Dinny is the sort of person who loves no matter how wisely, still too well.



JOHN GALSWORTHY.

"Flowering Wilderness" is the story of Dinny and her love for Wilfrid Desert who was best man at Michael's wedding, who loved Fleur in "The White Monkey," and went into the east to forget her. As this book opens, he has just returned to England with a sheaf of poems in his pocket, the result of those years of exile.

During those years he suffered a strange experience. He was forced, at the point of a gun, to choose between retaining his Christianity and becoming a Moslem. A fanatic chieftain under a vow to convert gave him that choice, meanwhile almost pleading with him not to choose death. To Wilfrid Christianity was no living emotion, but, after the war and disillusionment and a deep sense that life was NOT cheap, that it should not be spilt like water from an overfull bucket, the desire to live WAS important. He chose life and conversion, to death and a gesture.

Out of his choice, being a poet, he made a poem, and, since it was a tremendous emotional experience to him, the poem was better than anything he had ever done. He chose, being a poet, and being confronted with rumors of the incident, to publish the poem as his answer to the accusations of the solid front of Englishness that he was a coward. The results of his action—the way that the world looked upon rather than Wilfrid's own convictions about the original gesture in the near east and the subsequent gesture in England—form the substance of "Flowering Wilderness."

Mr. Galsworthy is certainly a master novelist. Never, it seems to me, has that fact been more obvious than in this book, for the material of it is—at least to American readers—almost too much of a tempest in a teapot to be realistic. That lives should be wrecked, that human beings should die (spiritually if not physically) for gestures no more important that Wilfrid's and fine, long novels written about it is a little like the famous remark of the northerner about sugar cane. When asked how he liked sugar cane he said, "It tastes good, but it's hell to swallow." [Trying actually to eat sugar cane which was never intended for whole consumption is like trying to swallow a cross between bamboo and blotting paper.]

That inelegant phrase more aptly describes "Flowering Wilderness" than any I could make up out of Roget's Thesaurus. The book certainly "tastes good." It has all of Mr. Galsworthy's irresistible charm of manner and technique. It is a beautifully succulent article, with every detail perfect in the special perfection which Mr. Galsworth's genius makes inimitable.

It has all of the rich flavor of family life and family solidarity and the English scene that is peculiar to Mr. Galsworthy's records of those much recorded phenomena. It has "taste" in that rare sense in modern novels, "good taste." It has every possible quality of allurement in its manner. But it is, on the other hand, almost impossible to swallow.

Not that lives are not wrecked by even less fragile cobwebs than Wilfrid's apostasy. But the lives in "Flowering Wilderness" are not the sort to go for trifles. The reader has, somehow—or at least this reader had—a feeling that the author didn't himself wholly believe in the power of the cobweb to kill the snake—as it were. We know—it wasn't so many weeks ago that pictures in the papers proved to us—that a spider's web can kill a snake. But the web in "Flowering Wilderness" isn't strong enough or the snake is too big for such phenomenal results. At least, if it IS strong enough, Mr. Galsworthy was not successful in convincing this reader of its tragic power.

Perhaps—like the libel suit in "The Silver Spoon," which was so alien to American mores, the reaction to Wilfrid's gestures would disrupt England, and "Flowering Wilderness" is not all sugar cane to the English but good red roast beef—something that is native and nourishing. Perhaps "Flowering Wilderness" is brilliant social interpretation, and only our colonial remoteness makes it so, but I reiterate that no matter how thoroughly alluring the taste of "Flowering Wilderness" it IS hard to swallow.

John Galsworthy Is Awarded Nobel Literature Prize for 1932

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 10.—John Galsworthy, British novelist and playwright, who is the author of "The Forsyte Saga," today was announced as the winner of the 1932 Nobel prize for literature. He thus became the third Briton to win the coveted honor since the awards were established in 1901 under the will of Alfred B. Nobel, Swedish scientist. Rudyard Kipling won the prize in 1907 and George Bernard Shaw in 1925.

The only American winner of the Nobel prize for literature is Sinclair Lewis. He received the award in 1930. Erik A. Karlfeldt of Sweden was the winner last year.

Galsworthy, who is now 65 years old, developed his literary powers comparatively late in life. It was not until he was 31 years old, in 1898, that his first novel, "Jocelyn," was published. He had been educated at Harrow and Oxford to become a lawyer.

"I did not begin to write novels until I had forgotten all I had learned at school and college," he once said.

Five years before the appearance of his first novel he had met Joseph Conrad on a voyage to the south seas. Conrad, who was the ship's first officer, was just beginning to write and the two men talked considerably of literature.

Galsworthy first attracted general attention in 1904 with "The Island of Pharisees." This novel was the first of his many works dealing with social problems, including such dramas as "Strife," which was published in 1909, and "Justice," in 1910. The latter is credited with causing drastic reforms in the British penal system.

It was said of his writing on social problems that he was not "painfully censorious," but "painfully observant."

The most famous of his writings is the series of novels comprising "The Forsyte Saga," which tells the history of the Forsyte family in England and America.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 10.—The Swidish Academy of Science tonight decided to award Dr. Irving Langmuir, Pittsburgh university, the 1932 Nobel prize in chemistry for his researches concerning surface chemistry. The Nobel prizes for physics were reserved to next year.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—(AP)—The 5,000 franc novel prize, awarded annually by the French academy, was presented today to Jacques Chardonne, son of the former Anna Haviland of New York, a member of the famous china manufacturing family.

M. Chardonne, whose real name is Boutelleau, received the award for his novel "Claire."

Stock Dream Comes True at Great Concert

Claire Dux Is Soloist for Strauss Evening.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Frederick Stock had a vision last summer. It was that a full program of the works of Richard Strauss to be played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra would be not only unusual but delectable. It continued that to induce Claire Dux to appear as soprano soloist would be one of its most delectable features.

The dream became a reality last night at Orchestra hall. It was all that he thought it was going to be. Though it did not work out in detail quite as he had planned, it was as delightful a program as has been put on in years. Mme. Dux, for example, had planned to sing some extracts from the opera "Elektra," not yet heard here. But a few days ago there was a whisper to the effect that there was trouble in getting the orchestrations. So she sang two groups of songs, and perhaps it was as well.

For Strauss, among his other achievements, has been a writer of love songs beyond compare, and the longer you hear Claire Dux sing them the more incomparable they become. She is a marvel, and something of a mystery as well. She never raises her voice loudly enough so you feel the slightest effort about what she is doing. She was never in all her concert career known to indulge in any sort of a trick. She just stands up there and breaks your heart with the sheer beauty of her singing.

That is all. It is quite enough. Here is the spell that works quite as intensely in the calm serenity of "Morgen" as in the purple fervors of "Caecilie." She is perhaps the only singer today who can become a complete hypnotist with a song of quiet mood.

The audience went mad over her, and this department gladly follows the majority report. If there had been any way of breaking the no encore rule at the symphony concerts it would have been broken last night. To make the record complete, her first group, in addition to "Caecilie," included "Freundliche Vision" and "Wiegenlied," and the second, in addition to "Morgen," "Heimkehr" and "Staendchen."

And Mr. Stock, as is his custom when facing an inspiriting task, became an unforgettable master of music. His part of the program was to present Strauss as he has been at various periods of his life and in various moods. First, there were three movements from the early suite for wind instruments. Then there was the jolly humor of the music from "Der Buerger als Edelmann." "Don Juan," a famous display piece of the orchestra, concluded the half.

After the intermission came the Dance of the Seven Veils from "Salome," a work that in recent years has come to sound curiously unmodern and rather pretty rather than terrorizing. Finally most of the waltzes were picked up from "Der Rosenkavalier" with a gesture as if Strauss had been saying that though he was a son of Munich and not Vienna, and though he was not related to the Strauss family of Vienna, he could on occasion write Viennese waltzes with the best of them.

He came close to making his claim good, too.

MINUTE MYSTERY

CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H · A · RIPLEY

Copyright 1932: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

BLOOD AND RED INK.

"Kindly take down these notes, Jean," Prof. Fordney requested his secretary. I'll write them up later for the case book. It is the Tilden affair you read about in the papers yesterday."

"His courage had failed him. That he knew he could never stage a comeback and that he was going to end it. The scrap of paper on which it was written had been torn through the center of a blood spot from a letterhead lying on the desk at which he sat. His left cheek rested on his left arm while the right dangled at his side. On the floor by the chair lay the gun with which he had been shot through the right temple."

"What about motive, professor?"

"He was in ill health and had suffered heavy financial losses. A few days ago, Gaston, his business partner swindled him out of his few remaining dollars.

"Blood and red ink from a bottle which had been overturned had spattered the papers on the desk.

"He was found by Hastings, a friend, who had dropped in for a cocktail before dinner. Hastings said he had raised Tilden's head in order to use the telephone in notifying the police. Claims he touched nothing else. The newly made scratches on the window sill indicated the murderer's exit."

"Murderer!" gasped Jean. "I thought it was suicide!"

"Why, no. You see that . . ."

WHAT TOLD THE PROFESSOR IT WAS MURDER?

Right Music Becomes Joy to Children

Suitable Selections Are Listed Today.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Music for the small boy or girl is a subject which many mothers are interested in. But it is also one which puzzles them, and they write to me for suggestions.

They know that little children need simple rhythms and tunes and words that need no effort of memory to master.

There are some splendid books of songs for young children—some of modern trend, some containing traditional songs like Frère Jacques and the nursery rhymes. A leaflet containing some of the names of authors and prices will be sent by us on request, for a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

But in these days of cutting corners and doing violent stretching exercises to make ends meet, not every one can buy a book at $2 or $3—or always find one at the library.

For these mothers mention was made some weeks ago of a booklet which costs only 5 cents a copy. A number of mothers wrote asking me to mail the little book to them. They misunderstood my statement about it, which contained this information: The booklet is called "Songs and Rhythms for the Child in the Home," is mailed by the College of Agriculture of Madison, Wis., and costs 5 cents a copy.

This little paper covered book contains also the lists of phonograph records for listening, which so many mothers have asked me for recently. For their immediate convenience, I shall give as many as I have remaining space for today—others will be found in the booklet.

Mrs. Breckinridge to Visit City to Aid Frontier Nurse Service

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Frontier Nursing Service, which branched out in Chicago in such a big way last year, has been a little slow about resuming its activities here this fall, but with the arrival next week of Mrs. Mary Breckinridge, director and founder, the Chicago office will begin humming again and the Chicago committee will get busy.

Mrs. Breckinridge, who, by the way, is still wearing a brace as the result of the accident in which she suffered a broken back last year, is to arrive from Kentucky next Tuesday and will remain until Friday evening. Undoubtedly the popular lady's numerous friends will want to entertain for her, and if she will permit it there will be a round of luncheons and dinners for her during her stay.

One thing which she is sure to attend is a meeting of the Chicago committee of the nursing service, to be held on Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Frederic W. Upham. Mrs. Upham had planned to make this an afternoon meeting at tea time, but changed the hour because the Friends of Opera memorial concert for Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick is to be held that same afternoon.

Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. William A. Pusey, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mrs. Charles S. Frost, Mrs. Cornelius M. Trowbridge, Mrs. Harold Eldridge, Mrs. Waller Borden, and numerous other prominent women compose the Chicago committee.

Chicago Office Is Reopened.

The Frontier Nursing office was reopened this week and Mrs. John C. Gardner is in charge again. Interest in the association's work is growing rapidly here and many of the débutantes and older girls are clamoring to be put on the list of volunteers who help with the work by galloping over the Kentucky mountains on horseback as couriers.

The service is pointing right now to the outcome of a survey made by Dr. Louis Dublin, statistician for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. Dr. Dublin has found that out of the first 1,000 maternity cases handled by the service nurses and doctors there has not been one death due to childbirth.

The society has committees and offices in the east and is establishing more of them in the middle west. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is an active member of the New York committee and Mrs. Henry Ford is a prominent worker for the Detroit group.

Red White and Blue Dance Tonight.

There is every indication that the Red, White, and Blue club supper dance this evening at the Hotel Sherman will attract a great many of the town's fashionables who wish to celebrate Armistice night. The feature of the evening will be that much talked of Architects' fashion show, with professional manikins modeling gowns designed by prominent architects.

The designers say they believe these gowns will be an indication of fashions for 1933, when they hope the Chicago Century of Progress will influence fashions all over the world.

A number of stage and radio stars have promised to attend the ball and there will be debutantes to sell cigarets and flowers. Mrs. Ernest Byfield is chairman of the debutante committee, which includes the Misses Barbara Eldridge, Eleanor Litsinger,

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

A first floor lavatory is an asset de luxe, especially where there are small children in the home. Amazing how we can discover space for one sometimes, under the stairs perhaps or in some closet. Such a lavatory need not be spacious to serve the family needs. It can be as small as two feet six inches by five feet six inches. Plumbing fixtures are obtainable for even the smallest of lavatories. Such an improvement adds automatically to the value of a house—and to its comfort and convenience as well.

TASTY RECIPES FOR MEN WHO LIKE TO COOK

Intriguing to Appetites of Those Who Don't.

BY MARY MEADE.

If it has not yet happened to you have patience—it will.

Some day after a strenuously contested battle with a group of contract fans you will return home—and suddenly realize with a sinking in the pit of the stomach that there is no dinner. No roast in the oven; no salad in the refrigerator; no vegetables on the stove—nothing.

You can see in vision the family encircling the front door panting for food. Already you can feel the shocked disappointment in the eyes of the best man in the world. Tragedy.

Food! What a Relief!

But as you open the door, guiltily, that feeling of panic gives way to amazement, incredulity, delight, and relief. It smells like—it is food! As you speed kitchenward, casting hat and coat to the surrounding furniture, alert nostrils discover a savory, meaty whiff, a teasing trace of onions, something that could be nothing else than golden brown biscuits, and finally the undeniable aroma of amber coffee. And with the kitchen door flung wide the answer appears. Billy senior, swathed in pink gingham ruffles and blushing moistly over a vast skillet of steaming mystery, signals an absorbed greeting and suggests that you see about those biscuits which should be done by now.

For most men can cook—and like it—though some have yet to discover this hidden strength in their makeup. What they need is more chance to air and cultivate their talents.

Often enough a de luxe hash is the particular triumph of the male. Or he may be depended upon to officiate whenever hunter's stew, fried fish, chili con carne, gingerbread, waffles, or chocolate fudge seems the appropriate gesture.

Necessity Starts Them.

Often enough it's the necessity which inaugurates the first male cooking ventures, but if the husband in question seems a bit backward in coming forward, try a few suggestions to set the ball rolling. Dishes which are especial favorites are good starters. A good recipe, a few casual tips, and then a strict hands-off policy should be the rule. While the absorbed pupil is making dirty dishes and creating his first work of art, side dishes, accessories, and table setting may be handled by the deposed cook.

The following recipes were recommended to me by three men who make no claim to the roll of cooks, but do simply love to "putter around in the kitchen."

STUFFED BEEF ROLL A LA HUSBAND.

Purchase one large thin slice of beef round, wipe with a damp cloth, and over it spread a mixture of one and two-thirds cups chopped, cooked spaghetti, two tablespoons finely minced onion, one teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one tablespoon chopped celery leaves, grated rind of one-half lemon, three-quarters teaspoon poultry seasoning, and one slice of minced bacon. Spread the mixture clear to the meat's edge, then roll up carefully and tie with twine. Dust the roll with flour and salt and brown in a hot pan in a little fat. Now place the meat in a casserole and over it pour two cups of strained canned tomatoes. Cover and bake in a slow oven (330 degrees F.) two hours or until tender. When ready to serve place the roll on a hot plate and remove the twine. Skim off excess fat from the liquor and thicken the juices with a thin flour and water paste. Place in a gravy boat and serve with the roll.

BACHELOR'S HASH.

At least that was the name under which it started life, but by now it has filled in at so many family dinners and drawn applause from so many guests that the title is a bit of a misnomer. Anyway, let him try this on the family:

3 medium sized carrots
1 pound round or sirloin steak
3 medium sized potatoes
3 medium sized onions
1¼ cups of milk
1 teaspoon salt
1-3 cup minced parsley
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups stale but not dry bread crumbs
3 tablespoons melted butter

Put the meat, potatoes, onions, and carrots through the coarse blade of the meat grinder and mix well. Add all the remaining ingredients except the butter and bread crumbs. Turn the mixture into a greased dish. Blend the butter and bread crumbs and use to cover the top. Place in a moderately hot oven and bake sixty to seventy minutes. This is delicious served with a spicy tomato sauce.

Old Cook Book Generous with Suggestions, Advice on Game

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

A rustle in the corn shocks . . . a chirrup from the thicket . . . a honking high overhead . . . and sweeping across the hunter's moon the shadows of migrating wings.

Conversation among the males of the family has resolved itself to rifles and ramrods, hunting licenses, rubber boots, fleece lined jackets, spaniels and setters, decoys and blinds. And for this short fall season the game bag's yield governs our dinner menus.

Confronting us on the kitchen table is a brace of grouse, a handsome pair of mallard ducks, or cottontails, or a parcel of quail. We turn the pages of an old cookbook. Shades of colonial dames, white capped and kerchiefed, gather at our elbows, whispering reminiscently of earlier autumns when wild game and Indian maize were the foods that sustained the New England Pilgrims; they are generous with advice and suggestions.

Things to Remember.

Have we remembered that the game bird, after it has been drawn, should be trussed and hung until tender, in cool weather for a period varying from three days to a fortnight? That ducks, geese, and wild turkeys may be singed to remove the pin feathers, but no game fowl must ever be scalded before plucking? That for perfection of flavor dark fleshed birds should be cooked rare and the light fleshed well cooked?

Puritan and proper, these colonial housewives—but for all the austere simplicity, culinary and otherwise, which their convictions demanded, we are reminded that their tradition of cookery was a rich development from feudal times when rollicking lords of a merry realm feasted sumptuously on the flesh of the hunt and sparkling vintage, and their hospitable banquet halls were the theme of song and story.

Among the old recipes gathered by Florence White, authority on the folk cookery of England, is one for a loaf of mushrooms and partridges or rabbits which might well have changed hands over many a back fence in Boston three decades before the Liberty bell rang in the rebellion. It follows:

"Ingredients—bread, a round loaf, a hash of partridges or rabbits; milk; egg; mushrooms, a handful; ham, 3 ounces; milk sauce.

Brush with Beaten Egg.

"Cut a piece off the top of the loaf for a lid," go the instructions. "Rasp the outside to remove the hard crust and take all the crumb out from the inside, leaving a thin shell. Brush the outside of the loaf all over with beaten egg. Put it in the oven to crisp and color delicately. Keep hot. While this is being done peel some mushrooms and put them in a dish, cover with milk and put the lid on.

"Bake for half an hour. Drain off the milk, add a little brown gravy and make into a sauce in the usual way with butter and flour. Add the mushrooms to the sauce and keep hot. Have the partridge or rabbit hash very hot, the baked shell of the loaf just ready on a hot dish. Fill it with the hot hash, put on the lid of the loaf and pour the mushrooms and sauce into the dish around the loaf. Serve very hot."

To make the "hash" we are instructed to "swell rice gently with milk or water seasoned with salt. Fill a pie dish with pieces of cooked game, pouring over them some good, well seasoned stock or gravy. Cover with a thick layer of the rice nicely domed. Dust this over thickly with finely grated bread crubs. Sprinkle with oiled butter and bake in a good oven till hot through and nicely browned. The baking time is 45 minutes."

Smallest of Game Birds.

Smallest of the game birds is the reedbird, known in this section as the railbird, in the south as the ricebird, and in Europe as the ortolan. From Dorsetshire comes Miss White's recipe for their preparation.

"Hang the birds till quite tender. Pluck, singe, and truss like quail, but do not draw them. Bind a vine leaf around each bird, fix them on a spit [or on the hooks of a game oven] and roast in front of a clear fire. Put in the pan under each bird a slice of toast and baste them continually with butter. When the birds are cooked place them on a hot dish with a piece of the toast under each, and serve with wine sauce.

"Wine sauce for ortolans should be made by putting in a stewpan a sufficient quantity of clear stock, a few strips of thinly pared orange peel and the juice of the orange, a few basil leaves, and a wineglassful of port or claret. Season with salt and pepper and boil gently for 15 minutes, then strain and serve."

"Snipes," said Mary Eaton of Bungay, Suffock, "in 1823, will keep several days, and should be roasted without drawing and then served on toast. Butter only should be eaten with them, as gravy takes from the fine flavor. The thigh and back are most esteemed."

Maj. Hugh. B. C. Pollard who compiled the "Sportsman's Cookery Book," suggests whortleberries [huckleberries] as a stuffing for grouse. Because they are dry birds, generous larding with fat bacon or salt pork is advisable. While grouse are roasting they should be frequently basted. Fried bread crumbs, bread sauce, brown gravy and watercress are the usual accompaniments.

How to Make Sauce.

The cooks of old England make bread sauce by boiling together for five minutes, and stirring constantly during the process, two ounces of breadcrumbs, a peeled shallot [a small onion may be substituted], cayenne pepper, salt, ½ pint of milk and ¼ ounce of butter. After the boiling period the shallot [or onion] is removed and a little cream added. The sauce is served very hot.

The mallard duck, emphatically declares the finest authority on cooking we know, demands an accompaniment of wild rice. Wild ducks, she says, should not be roasted with a stuffing. Pluck, singe to remove the pin feathers, draw them carefully, wash them thoroughly—but do not soak them—in cold water. Insert a cloth in the cavity and wipe the inside dry, then rub in ground ginger.

To absorb the strong "wild" flavor, she recommends that a whole peeled apple, a whole onion—either or both—and a stalk or two of celery be placed in the cavity also, these to be removed when the birds are cooked. Smear the outside of the ducks generously with soft butter and sprinkle with paprika before placing them in the oven. Baste them every ten minutes while they are roasting, and remove when they are a rich golden brown.

The wild rice should be cleaned carefully and soaked for twenty minutes, then cooked in a double boiler until tender, correct proportions being one cup of rice to two cups of boiling salted water.

FOOD FADS OFTEN INJURIOUS; FEW RULES INFLEXIBLE

Learn Simple Principles, Then Enjoy Meal.

New York, Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The layman should learn a few simple food principles and stick to them and from that point on should concentrate on food enjoyment, according to Dr. Earl Bond of the Institute of the Pennsylvania hospital, Philadelphia, speaking before the American Dietetic association today at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Fad diets, Dr. Bond said, have contributed as much to human ills perhaps as scientific diets have contributed to physical wellbeing. This is especially true, he said, in the case of children. Dr. Bond warned against forcible feeding of children, a modern device of the well-meaning parent which often accomplishes more harm than good.

"Children become food prejudiced very early in life," he said. "Do not make them too food conscious. Stick to a few simple principles of diet, but for heaven's sake let us not remove from eating its pleasurable function. Many people are becoming so mentally concerned with diet fads that they are actually suffering from mental malnutrition. I know of one case where a gastric ulcer in a young woman was caused entirely by an unhappy love affair.

Creates Lifelong Dislike.

"It is possible," Dr. Bond said, "if spinach and carrots are introduced in a child's diet at an unfortunate moment, as perhaps during a severe thunderstorm, that the child may forever dislike these foods and forcible feeding of them will seriously upset the child's mental conditon and react therefore in its physical condition as well, causing serious digestive and other physical disturbances.

Dr. Bond warned especialy against certain recent food fads, which stress only the eating of certain related foods at one particular meal. Men worried with business responsibilities should be particularly careful about when they eat. Eating in a worried mental state may cause serious upsets, and women can do a lot to make eating pleasurable for men, he insisted.

Individual Intolerance.

Dr. Maximilian A. Ramirez of New York city, although unable to be present in person, presented a food paper to the convention on the same general theme, "Food Sensitization and Tolerance," in which were given the results on a number of patients on actual cases of food intolerance. The best of foods may be intolerant to certain individuals, and this intolerance may even be inherited, he said, just as sensitivity to certain pollens resulting in hay fever are inherent in the nature of some individuals.

Cases that have been diagnosed as appendicitis have proven, when the perfectly intact appendix was removed, to have been caused merely by food hyper-sensitivity.

NATIONAL HONEY WEEK OBSERVED; OLDEST SWEET

The oldest sweet known to mankind is being honored in Chicago's food shops this week in what is known as national honey week. Twenty thousand trips from flower to hive are represented in one pound of this bee product, according to experiments. Each teaspoon of honey represents the life work of a hundred bees.

The product is sold in the original comb and also as extracted honey. Even in biblical days honey was extracted from the comb before serving on the table, because in many countries it was customary to pay off taxes by offering beeswax, suitable for making candles.

In using honey in cookery, it is usual to consider honey about one-fifth water. Recipes should be adjusted so that the amount of liquid is reduced one-fifth cup for every cup of honey used, according to the American Honey institute.

SENDING MAINE POTATOES SOUTH TO TEST HEALTH

The potato family has been doing some traveling this fall in addition to its usual route to market. Several thousand carefully selected tubers, grown at Presque Isle, Maine, have been cut into four pieces, two parts of each potato sent to test plots at Houma, La., and the rest retained in storage at Presque Isle.

The reason for this elaborate handling of potatoes in pieces is to test for disease free types in the south and then grow in Maine more supplies of the desirable tubers, indexed when they were cut this fall. Mosaic, leaf roll, and spindle tuber are among the defects of seed stock at present, the specialists report.

Chicago Assured of Good Supply of Winter Lettuce

Chicago' winter supply of head lettuce is being cultivated in the south. From the Imperial valley in California come reports indicating that by December lettuce will be as plentiful or more so than a year ago when a crop of good quality was being shipped northward for sandwich and salad use.

LARGE SQUASH BEST EVEN IF SHELL IS HARD

Easily Prepared After Armor Is Removed.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

"Hard shell squashes, wash, split and cook in the shell."

If Old Mother Hubbard had but known how simple it is to keep the cupboard from taking on a barren aspect by going shopping for a Hubbard squash maybe there would be one less nursery rhyme.

Wholesale produce dealers in moments of handing out frank advice inform housewives that the large squash usually is the best. The reason is logical and somewhat obvious, for the large squash is one that has matured or become more nearly so than the smaller squashes even if these come from the same vines.

Sold on Pound Basis.

From another source, that of a rather ancient cook book, comes the admonition that in selecting a squash the vegetable should be "heavy in proportion to size," so that one will find a thick meated layer of edible vegetable inside. As for the price, the pound basis is usual for the Hubbard variety, although the smaller acorn and marrow squash are seldom sold that way. About three cents a pound for the large Hubbards is considered a fair retail price.

Experience has shown most kitchen experts that a squash sometimes presents a problem after the whole vegetable has been washed. How to split the hard shell? The more mature the squash, and thus the better, the harder the shell. A sharp knife of suitable size or a hatchet of old or new vintage will do the best job.

From then on the preparation of the squash is one of the simplest bits of cookery that can be devised. Baking whole in the half shell is a 50 minute job for the oven after the seeds and stringy portion have been removed from the center. After the baking the soft squash meat can be scraped out and mashed and seasoned with butter, salt and pepper for serving.

Also May Be Steamed.

Another similar practice is to cut the squash, raw, into squares of suitable size and remove the seeds and strings. Place in a dripping pan with a half teaspoon of molasses and half teaspoon of butter on each square, bake 50 minutes or until soft and serve in the shell.

If using the oven is not on the day's schedule, then squash can still be on the day's menu by serving it steamed. The cooking is done by steaming the cut portions after the shell is removed or boiling in salted water for 20 minutes or until tender. The squash is mashed and to it is added a half cup of milk, a tablespoon of butter and salt and pepper.

INDIANA PICKS ONION, POTATO GROWING CHAMPS

Winner of Last Year Repeats.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Hoosierdom's onion and potato growing champions, most of whom made their records on the muck lands of northern Indiana, were honored here tonight at the annual banquet of the Northern Indiana Muck Crops show, when they received medals for high crop production records.

Whitney K. Gast of Akron, state champion potato grower last year, won the title again this year with a yield of 569.71 bushels per acre, the highest ever reported in the state and more than 60 bushels per acre above his record last year. Second place went to Dr. H. R. Stauffer of Nappanee, who had a measured yield of 518.2 bushels per acre.

The third highest yield in the state went to Miss Ruth Varner of Hamilton, Steuben county, who had an official yield of 446.89 bushels per acre. Miss Varner also scored high in the onion growing contest with a yield of 831 bushels per acre, and won medals in both events.

Others with potato yields exceeding 300 bushels per acre, who won medals for their work, follow: Jay Nodine, Auburn, 355.9 bushels; Clive Ayres, Waterloo, 340.16 bushels; Charles Brucker, Monterey, 346.6 bushels; Omer Peters, Vallonia, 378.3 bushels; C. C. Van Hoy, Loogootee, 356 bushels; Randolph Adams, Martinsville, 336.62 bushels; Earl Hill, Albion, 404 bushels; Thomas Kimmel, Albion, 304 bushels, and Kenneth L. Virtue, Frankfort, 310 bushels.

A. Pierce and A. Milnar of Kimmell in Noble county, with a yield of 1,030 bushels per acre, drew the state championship among onion producers. Second place went to Carl Johnston and A. Milnar, also of Kimmell, with a yield of 1,004 bushels per acre.

A SALMON LOAF HOLDS THE STAGE AT COOK SCHOOL

Women Rush to Capture Seats in Class.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

It's a safe bet that many a north side husband went home last night anticipating a nice thick, juick steak and found instead a big pink salmon loaf garnished with parsley and hard boiled eggs. And it's also a safe bet that every one of these husbands liked it.

Yesterday at the third north side meeting of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE School of Cookery at the Aragon ballroom, 1100 Lawrence avenue, Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood, home economist and food authority, turned a can of salmon into a dish fit for a king. Five thousand housewives were on hand to learn her culinary magic.

School to Close Today.

Today the School of Cookery will reach its climax in the final session at the Aragon ballroom, the last of twelve classes held during the last three weeks on the south, west, and north sides. Armistice day will be celebrated with appropriate ceremonies and Donald Meek, the Vice President in the current play, “Of Thee I Sing,” will be one of the chief attractions on the entertainment bill.

Phil Maxwell, cooking school master of ceremonies, predicted last night that crowds would jam the Aragon doors before 9 o'clock this morning, the hour at which housewives began to arrive for yesterday's session. One cook was there at 8 o'clock to insure herself a front row seat. Standing in the back of the balcony the day before, she had missed out on the recipe for a cake frosting “that isn't sticky or crumbly.”

Explains Salmon Recipe.

Mrs. Chitwood began the preparation of the salmon.

“Sometimes it's done with codfish,” she said, “but that takes too long to clean and boil. With salmon you can spend the afternoon playing contract and still win the praise of every member of the family.

“Crumble a dozen crackers — you don't need a rolling pin, just your hands. Add these to the sweet milk. Then slice the eggs (3 hard boiled ones) and add them to a can of salmon. Be careful not to break them too much, for that detracts from the attractiveness of the loaf.

“Now mix all of these ingredients, pour them into a greased baking dish, dot with butter and a few of the cracker crumbs, and pop the loaf into a 400 degree oven.”

Explaining that this is a light dish compared with roast beef or roast pork, Mrs. Chitwood recommended for the rest of the menu a beef broth— not the old fashioned kind with a soup bone and 15 varieties of vegetables requiring two and a half hours to boil— a peach and cream cheese salad, and a sirup nut pie.

For Pineapple Delight.

For those who prefer a frozen dessert rather than a sirup nut pie, Mrs. Chitwood had a recipe for frozen pineapple delight.

“It's a time saver, and especially practical when company drops in at the last minute,” she explained. “Every one has some canned fruit and vanilla wafers on the pantry shelf and a bottle of cream in the icebox. If there are no nuts handy, just use whole bran instead.

“This recipe calls for a can of crushed pineapple, a half pound of vanilla wafers, two cups of heavy cream, a half cup of sugar, and a half cup of nutmeats. Break up the wafers and add them to the cream along with the nuts and pineapple. Put the mixture into a serving tray and place this in a freezing compartment for an hour and a half.”

Magician on Program.

There was magic in a derby hat yesterday as well as in Mrs. Chitwood's kitchen. For Harlan Tarbell, a magician who lives in Elmhurst, pulled colored noodles out of his hat with a wave of a magic wand. Richard De Young, Chicago choral director, led community singing, and Miss Estelle Bernstein, accompanied by Miss Bobby Bloom, sang a group of songs.

The tap dance of young Joan Bennett and the military dance done by Billy Trusk and Tommy Shanahan, all students at the Murray Browne Dance studios, drew a round of applause. Edward Grabinski, tenor, sang several numbers.

Mary Meade, TRIBUNE cooking editor, introduced Mrs. Chitwood. Herma Clark, author of the current play, “When Chicago Was Young,” appeared with Joyce Sullivan and Dolores Anderson, both members of the cast. Genevieve Forbes Herrick, a member of the Washington bureau of THE TRIBUNE, and Kathleen McLaughlin, reporter, spoke briefly during the intermission.

THOSE ENDS OF STEAK MAY BE SALVAGED NOW

As Hamburger Patties They Adorn the Dish.

BY MABEL BRYANT.

One feels repaid when a leftover is converted into a dish that brings forth such remarks as “Repeat on this any time you wish.” There is nothing that takes the place of porterhouse or sirloin steak cuts for company dinner. Roasts go farther to be sure, but if the dinner is for fewer than six, the steak is par excellence.

The sirloin is more practicable of the two, as it can be served to better advantage. But there is the end one always hesitates to serve, for as a rule it is stringy. Porterhouse is, as every one knows, the de luxe of beef cuts, but no one cares for the end, or tail, as it is commonly called. What to do to make it tasty is the question.

Have the Ends Ground.

Well, we know some ways to make that part of the steak into delectable dishes that never fail to ring the bell. If you don't care to try the following tasty recipes, when you are purchasing your next porterhouse steak, have the butcher cut off the end and run it through the meat grinder. The result will be at least two nice hamburger patties which may be broiled with the steak. If one has time, however, the following method is excellent when the busy housewife's tasks are confined to the kitchen for the afternoon.

STEAK ENCASSEROLE.

1 porterhouse or sirloin steak end
2 large onions
4 large green peppers
4 medium size tomatoes
4 medium size potatoes
1 cup water
2 bullion beef cubes
Seasoning

Into quart size casserole lay raw steak end dredged lightly with flour, pepper and salt. Cover with sliced onions, cup of water and the dissolved bouillon cubes. Cover and cook in moderate oven for half hour. At end of that time lay on top of sliced onions the green peppers that have been cut open at top and the seeds and white veins removed without breaking their shape. Cover and return to oven for another half hour. At the end of that time add tomatoes with stem end removed but left whole. Replace in oven.

At end of next half hour add pared potatoes and let cook gently until they are soft. Remove lid from casserole and let potatoes get a nice brown. Take from oven and arrange on platter. Thicken gravy slightly and pour over all. You will agree with us that this is a most tasty dish.

Croquettes Are Another Method.

Croquettes are another method of masquerading left over steak ends or cuts of roast beef. Even soup meat may be used with good results. It is delicious for an easy luncheon dish, and, we might add—not so bad for dinner. Try the following method rules in the preparation of them:

BEEF CROQUETTES.

1 small onion.
2 or 3 sprigs parsley.
1 tablespoon catsup.
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.
2 crackers.
1 tablespoon cream.
1 egg.
Seasoning.

Chop the meat, onion and parsley very fine. Add crackers, broken up fine, also catsup, Worcestershire sauce, cream and seasoning. Mix well, and add egg well beaten. [The egg holds all ingredients together]. Form in little patties and fry in deep beef fat.

CHEMISTS URGE USE OF APPLE JUICE AS CARBONATED DRINK

Agriculturally minded chemists continue to urge the commercial possibilities of using apple juice as a carbonated beverage. Incidentally this would use up surplus apples and benefit fruit industries of such northern states as New York, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Illinois and Washington and Oregon, according to the chemists.

The juice should be processed so as to be more attractive, declares D. C. Carpenter, New York state college chemist. Clarifying, sterilizing and carbonating would be three important steps which he considers practical in commercial methods.

WISCONSIN HAS ABOUT 180,000 TURKEY CROP

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—[Special.] —Wisconsin's share of Uncle Sam's 18,000,000 turkey crop for 1932 is about 180,000 turkeys, according to the crop reporting service. A total of 8,584 farms raise practically all of the Badger state turkeys.

About 63 per cent of Wisconsin's crop will be ready for Thanksgiving this year and 30 per cent will be ready for the Christmas market.

The national turkey crop this year is one of the largest ever raised, the estimates giving an increase of 13 per cent over the 1931 total. Increases were general in nearly all regions, but cold storage holdings on Oct. 1 were smaller than a year ago.

Conditions during the spring months were generally unfavorable for farm hatching and early losses were above average, but the summer and fall were favorable for raising young turkeys.

Shoulder of Veal, Chops Recommended as Buys

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on maketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states:

“Shoulder of veal for roasting and veal chops for frying are recommended as economical buys in Chicago retail meat stores over the coming weekend. The various cuts of lamb also are selling at unusually low levels at the present time.”

SEERESS DIES AS BROADCASTER WHO GAINED FAME

Claimed She Predicted Disastrous Fire.

New York, Nov. 10. — [Special.] — Evangeline Adams, astrologer, who claimed to have predicted the disastrous Windsor hotel fire and the death of King Edward VII. of England, died today of heart disease in her studio apartment in Carnegie hall at the age of 59. Her death was attributed to heart disease. She had been seriously ill only three days. Her husband, George Jordan Jr., a former pupil to whom she was married in 1923, was at her bedside.

The death of Miss Adams will be a shock to thousands of radio listeners. She began to broadcast on April 23, 1930, and three months later she announced that she had received 150,000 requests for horoscopes. In January, 1931, when she was talking three times a week over the WABC network, her representative stated that she received thousands of requests for horoscopes as the result of an advertisement.

Miss Adams said that she was a descendant of President John Quincy Adams. She studied astrology under J. Hebner Smith, later doing research in "Eastern Lore." She called herself the originator of the Adams philosophy, "a compound of truths of all truths, applied in the light of an intelligent optimism to the requirements of western every day life."

She published her autobiography in 1926, "Astrology, Your Place in the Sun," in 1928.

Vote of Dead Man, Cast Legally, Ordered Counted

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The vote of a dead man was counted in the presidential election that was held legally cast. Fred W. Calvert, the victim of an automobile accident last Thursday, had previously sent in his ballot by mail to Norfolk. A Republican watcher challenged the ballot on the ground that a "dead man cannot vote." The judges, however, ruled the ballot had been legally cast when placed in the mails by Calvert and ordered it counted.

HARRY N. TAYLOR, LEADER IN COAL INDUSTRY, IS DEAD

Harry N. Taylor, 67 years old, of New York, a leader in the nation's coal industry for many years, died yesterday of heart disease in the Medinah Athletic club. He suffered an attack ten days ago while inspecting coal properties near Danville and came to Chicago, where his condition grew steadily worse.

Mr. Taylor was chairman of the board of the United Electric Coal companies and of the Penn Anthracite Mining company. He had been identified with the industry for 50 years. Every President from Theodore Roosevelt to President Hoover had called him to the White House to aid in settling strikes, friends said.

The confidence placed in him by organized labor was founded when he joined with John Mitchell, first president of the United Mine Workers of America, and Samuel Gompers, in the movement which resulted in the formation of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Taylor served as assistant fuel administrator in Washington during the war. In 1920 he joined with Alfred E. Smith and George F. Getz to establish the United States Distributing corporation, and later became president and chairman of the board.

His second wife, Mrs. Gertrude N. Taylor, and two children, by his first marriage, Harry J. Taylor of New York, and Mrs. Raymond J. Hurley of Chicago, were at Mr. Taylor's bedside when he died. Mrs. Taylor and young Taylor flew from New York last Tuesday.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday at the Graceland cemetery chapel.

Mr. Taylor was one of the oldest members of the Chicago club and the Chicago Athletic association.

HE CAN'T DO IT AS LONG!

Bowser gives only a short-lived performance on two legs. Nature provided him with four because of a fundamental principle in the scheme of things. Imagine a table or a chair with only two legs! Balance would be impossible!

It's the four-square support of the vital elements in Eveready Raytheons that guards the balance of their delicately assembled parts and insures their performance life. Four pillars! All other tubes have only two. Inspect them. See for yourself. And then—remember the four-support principle. It's your own feet, too, heel, toe arrangement that keeps you upright. With legs alone you'd be a man on stilts!

Bowser will demonstrate four-pillar tubes.

Head of Nurse Service Will Visit Chicago

Mrs. Breckinridge Will Meet Leaders.

Among those who are giving dinner parties and afterward going on to the supper dance, which is to begin at 9 o'clock, are Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, who will have a dinner for Lady Faith Montague; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Yager, whose guests will include Mrs. Jacob Baur, Senator and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, Miss Lucy Martin, Ove Vett, and Howard Whitehouse; Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, who will have a party of ten; Mrs. Charles K. Corsant, who will be hostess to a group of eight, and Robert Rasmussen, whose guests will include Miss Betty Offield, Miss Ann Elizabeth Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond O. Mitchell, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Hagey.

A number of tables have been taken for Dutch treat parties. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Ripple and Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman will be at a table for eight guests; the Thomas R. Gowenlocks, the Jay Frederick Reeves, the Thorne Donnelleys, and the Frank Wartons will be together; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. O'Neill Ryan, and the Edward L. Herseys will form another group. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fifield—the latter is general chairman of the dance—have reserved a table for fourteen guests.

The proceeds of the ball will go to carry on the work of the Red, White, and Blue settlement this winter.

Edna Doering Debut Today.

Miss Edna Mary Doering will be presented to society this afternoon by her grandmother, Mrs. Edward T. Jeffery, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund J. Doering Jr., at a reception and tea at their residence at 1344 Astor street. Tomorrow evening Mr. and Mrs. Doering will give a small dinner dance for their daughter at the Blackstone hotel.

The first of the junior subscription dances which will be held every other Friday throughout the winter for the school boys and girls from 14 to about 17 years of age will be held tonight at the Fortnightly club. Mrs. Nelson Thomasson Jr., Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, Mrs. Stanley Rickcords, Mrs. Walter E. Faithorn, and Mrs. William N. Pelouze are members of the sponsoring committee.

Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett, who shares the beauty spots she finds on her travels with the people who stay at home, is to show for the first time tonight the moving pictures she made on her trip abroad last summer.

"Enchanting Majorca and Glorious Switzerland" is the title, and the working girl members of the Central Eleanor club, of which Miss Bartlett is chairman, are to have the first view of them at an Armistice day celebration in their clubrooms in the Stevens building. Miss Bartlett will undoubtedly show her pictures for other organizations, although no other definite dates have been set as yet.

Society at Dux Concert

Mme. Claire Dux's admirers and friends in the audience at last night's symphony concert certainly did their best to persuade Mr. Stock to make an exception to the rule "encores not permitted," so enthusiastically did they applaud after the last of the six songs she contributed to the Strauss program.

But no encore was forthcoming in spite of their insistence, much to the regret of all, especially those who think that no rule is so ironclad that it cannot be broken on such an occasion.

Mme. Dux, who is the wife of Charles H. Swift, is tremendously popular in social and musical circles and when she sings here society turns out en masse to hear her. In last night's audience were Mr. Swift, of course, with the Frederic Woodwards, the Charles B. Goodspeeds, Mrs. Walter Borden, Mr. and Mrs. Leeds Mitchell, John A. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, the Walter Paepckes, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, the William M. Spencers, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Augustus S. Peabody, Arthur Heun, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, the Henry Bartholomays and their daughter, Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, and the Countess Margit Bethlen for whom they had entertained at dinner before the concert; Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Pike, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, Miss Marie Rozet, Mr. and Mrs. William P. Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wolfe and scores of others.

Sydney H. Heap, with Parker Bryant, Frederick Poole Jr., and Thomas Seyster—the latter three are to be best man and ushers, respectively, at the wedding tomorrow of Miss Virginia Skinkle to Mr. Heap—are to be hosts at a dinner party at the Tavern this evening for Miss Skinkle and her matron of honor, Mrs. Otis Chatfield-Taylor of New York. Mrs. Chatfield-Taylor arrived in Chicago yesterday to be the guest of Miss Virjean Richey over the week-end.

W. C. Fairbank to Reopen Home.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Fairbank and their daughter, Miss Cornelia Fairbank, who spent only a short time in Chicago this fall after their return from Europe, are still at their Indianapolis residence, but they plan to reopen their Chicago apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive the latter part of this month.

Lady Faith Montague is to arrive in Chicago today for a 10 day visit with her friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Herman Gade have ordered furniture put in winter coverings and treasures stored away at their beautiful Château de Mesnil at St. Denis, France, where they gave a series of Sunday luncheons during the summer and fall. With their daughter, Miss Alice Gade, they intend to spend a good part of the winter in Athens visiting their son, Herman Gade Jr., secretary to the American legation in Greece.

Mrs. Alexander H. Revell, who has been with her son, Alexander Jr., and his family in Lake Forest, has moved in to the Drake hotel for the winter months.

Mrs. Henry C. Olcott and Miss Marion Olcott have returned to their apartment at 325 Fullerton parkway from several months in Connecticut.

Mrs. Richard Buchanan of New York is the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Burridge D. Butler, in Hinsdale. The Butlers will leave in about three weeks for their winter residence just out of Phoenix in Arizona and they are hoping to persuade Mrs. Buchanan to accompany them.

The Frederick Dorsey Montgomerys have moved from 237 East Delaware place to 999 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Montgomery is very busy these days with the dollar drive for the Boys' Shelter club, of which she is the treasurer.

Daughter Born to J. F. Cuneos.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Cuneo of 3300 Sheridan road announce the birth of a daughter on Wednesday evening at the Grant Memorial hospital. Mrs. Cuneo is the former Miss Julia Reed Shepherd of Milwaukee. She is a granddaughter of the late Edward S. Shepherd. The new baby has a 19 month old brother, John F. Cuneo Jr.

Mrs. James Scott Kemper of Winnetka has returned from a two weeks' stay at White Sulphur Springs and a visit in New York last week-end with her children, Rosemary, Mildred and James Jr., who are attending eastern schools.

The Chicago Council of Foreign Relations, which seems to be more active than ever this season, has invitations out for a luncheon for Vithalbhai J. Patel, former lord mayor of Bombay and former president of the Indian legislative assembly, to be held next Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock at the Palmer house. Mr. Patel will speak on "Gandhi and India's Future." The council officers emphasize the timeliness of their luncheon, for on the same day Ramsay MacDonald will open the third Indian round table conference in London.

The Chicago Smith College club has invited the Evanston and north shore alumnæ groups to a luncheon to be held at 12:15 o'clock today at the Cordon club. After luncheon plans for the Smith college exhibit at the Century of Progress will be discussed. Mrs. Sherman L. Aldrich is president of the Chicago club.

The Junior Friends of Art announce a Hungarian program to be held next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Belden-Stratford hotel. Laszlo L. Madgyesy, consul for Hungary, will speak on "Hungarian Art and Music" and Carlo Hatvary will sing old and modern Hungarian songs.

The Country Club of Evanston will hold a "red, white, and blue hop" this evening to celebrate Armistice day. Costumes may be any combination of red, white, and blue.

Vicki Baum Will Lecture Tomorrow in Town Hall Series

Vicki Baum arrived in Chicago yesterday with the news that she feels so much at home in America that she has taken out her first citizenship papers. She is the author of "Grand Hotel."

Miss Baum is to lecture tomorrow morning in the Town Hall series in the Drake hotel.

The novelist's husband, Richard Lert, conductor of the orchestra of the Berlin Statts-Oper, directed at Hollywood bowl last summer. Her two sons are in a military school in Los Angeles.

Women Will Hold Benefit to Rescue Deborah Boys' Club

Plans for a benefit to save the Deborah Boys' club from closing were discussed yesterday by Mrs. C. K. Corsant at a rally of the Deborah Woman's club. The group met in the Congress hotel. A fête to obtain money to run the club will be held at the Congress hotel on Dec. 8 and 9, with Mrs. C. K. Corsant as chairman and Mrs. Joseph Wolf co-chairman of the committee.

Kathryn Evans Makes Formal Bow to Society

Mother Is Hostess at Lovely Tea.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Miss Kathryn Evans made her debut yesterday afternoon at a reception given by her mother, Mrs. Albert Thomas Evans, at their apartment in the Drake Towers, and although the guests at every debut say the flowers are the loveliest they have ever seen, those yesterday really meant it when they said they had never seen such exquisite baskets, for there was a number that were unusual in combination and arrangement.

The debutante, a petite blonde, received with her mother and aunt, Mrs. M. T. McCullough, of Wausau, Wis., in the drawing room, wearing a girlish white lace dress with a silver thread outlining the design and bands of white fox forming short sleeves. Her bouquet was an old fashioned one of sweetheart roses with valley lilies in the center and around the edge.

Mrs. Evans was in beige crêpe with touches of brown, and Mrs. McCullough was in black velvet, and both were wearing orchids. Tea was served across the hall in an apartment which was vacant, and so Mrs. Evans was able to use it for the men's dressing room and the refreshments.

Miss Julia Kramer, smart in bright blue velvet with chinchilla sleeves, and Miss Barbara Eldridge in dark purple crêpe, with a tiny purple cap and puffed three-quarter length sleeves of purple, yellow, and green striped silk, poured during part of the afternoon. The table was lovely with a tall centerpiece of long stemmed pink roses and silver services. The other assisting debutantes were Miss Evans' cousin, Miss Ruth McCullough, and the Misses Helen Marie Castle, Edna Doering, Jane Boyce, Eleanor Litsinger, Ethel Dixon, and Betty Whatley.

Gives Tea for Officers' Wives.

A few of the guests at the Evans reception went next door to 209 Lake Shore drive for the tea being given by Mrs. Charles Harrington Chadwick in her beautiful "moderne" apartment for the wives of the officers of the 6th corps area. Numerous officers in army and navy uniforms added color to this tea party just as lots of young men in morning coats and high silk hats added to the picture at the Evans party.

Receiving with Mrs. Chadwick was Mrs. Arthur A. Small, who feels that she belongs to the army although her husband isn't an army officer, because she was an officer's daughter and was born at Fort Leavenworth; Mrs. Frank Parker, wife of the commander of the 6th corps area, and Mrs. Wat T. Cluverius, whose husband is the commandant at the Great Lakes.

There were a few "civilians" at the party, including Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde and Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, who were presiding at the tea and coffee urns when I was in the dining room. The table was lovely, covered with sheer gold lamé and with a bowl of gold color chrysanthemums in the center.

One of the most attractive of the many young wives of officers who were there was Mrs. Morris K. Barroll, whose Greuzelike beauty and charming French accent fascinated every one who met her. She and her husband, Maj. Barroll, have just come here from Washington, where they have been since they were married about eight years ago.

Plaid Scarf and Frock from Worth Given Fur Jacket for Sports Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Subdued and smallish plaided woolens are big items in French sports chic for the winter. Some of the best Paris houses are showing plaid dresses and suits this winter. Among them are Chanel and Worth.

Worth makes one piece woolen frocks in plaided materials and gives them sealskin jackets as wraps. These sports outfits, he tells me, have been selected by some of his smartest private clients to wear for winter sports. Not a little of their chic is due to the fact that a scarf of the plaid woolen appears on the fur jacket.

You can see a Worth model of this kind in the sketch today. The dress is made of a red, black, and brown plaid cassimere woolen. It has a plain, two gore skirt, with the plaid worked diagonally, and a plain bodice, also with the plaid pattern set diagonally. Around the shoulders Worth puts a bias band of the plaid, which is stitched on at the upper side and which suggests a capelet, leaving a yoke above it. A jabot of the material is pinned on the front of this band with a gold pin. Caps at the tops of the sleeves increase the width of the shoulders.

The black sealskin jacket is hip length, with a tailored turnover collar, having two slits in the front through which the plaid wool scarf passes. It is then tucked under the leather belt.

Swagger Fur Coats Carry Low Price Tags

BY RHEA SEEGER.

It's time to snuggle down in swagger coats . . . swagger, swanky fur coats, especially the new seven-eighths models that have suddenly appeared about the best fur shops with sprightly price tags sporting price marks that will take your last gasp.

Buy them now, while these modest prices prevail, for it simply can't happen again, this era of low prices that gives practically every one the grand opportunity of owning a fur coat without slapping another mortgage on the farm.

They are the best companions you could have for a cold season ahead of you . . . they are perfect and most sympathetic partners for a wild breezy day out of doors . . . and they are just what you know you need the most for a wind swept afternoon on the blood congealing seats of any football stadium. High collars be worn in a casual upturned manner, or flattened out around the neckline for cozy comfort when the sun shines and the wind stops biting.

Fur swagger coats, the newest arrivals, are stunning. You can buy them of leopard with plenty of spots, with tuck-in collars with the ends standing perkily at side face attention. You can find a nutria model that is the lightest featherweight imaginable, besides having the new lovely taupe tan shade that can be worn for either sports or daytime and street wear. Sleeves are puffed but with excellent restraint, and the back sections that flare are the best looking and well designed backs in years.

Two pockets with deep capacity are cleverly inserted in a slanting manner and you can have either wool or wool and silk linning. A coat of this design is the most practical, wearable, and without any doubt the best kind of a buy for a value hunting shopper.

If you like kidskin, you'll fall heavily for a snappy daytime ensemble that could be proudly displayed after dark as well. A very new color is sponsored in this ensemble—a blue fawn which is exactly the shade of that flattering color in blue fox skins. Three long bulletlike buttons fasten the coat well to the left side and make it fit snugly and effectively high across the chest.

Two pockets have been so skillfully inserted that even a good pocket hunter would be deceived, and the very good reason for that trick is that this coat can be transformed into a very fetching afternoon ensemble with the aid of a matching muff. This ensemble includes the coat [also of seven-eighths length], the quaint dress parade muff that is flat, with a ruffled or pleated edge and one of the best looking fur hats that have ever been designed.

This hat, with a tiny fur bow perched high on the left side, is a simple little "nothing" of a lid, but with all kinds of zip and chic when you pull it over your skull. It has been fashioned so expertly of matching kidskin [a soft silky supple kidskin that drapes as easily as heavy satin] that you can scarcely believe the hat is of fur. With these three fashionable fur things a soft satin scarf is also included, for wear as an ascot scarf for extra warmth. This satin is of the same shade as the lining of the smart coat.

Beg, borrow, or wheedle the small amount of cash necessary to exchange for these knockout warm outer layers for this coming winter. You'll never have such a good time spending your money for such bargains!

High Necklines Need Softness to Relieve Them

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The necklines this season are trying if one is somewhat beyond the vote casting age.

We just are a comical lot of sheep in the way we tie huge bowknots under our chins because the model with a streamline neck wears one.

One has to be so careful not to look tubby around the neck area this year. Times are depressing enough without a female like me preaching abstinence from fashion's high neck vagaries. But, I ask you, where the chin and jowls are bowed down with fatty tissue and drooping muscle is it a cheering sight to see a bow trying to hold the toppling framework up?

You tie a large bow of fur, or scarf, or heavy coat cloth up tightly under the drooping chin and pull a saucer bonnet down over one eye and the lady has a "bashed in" look that we think she should not wear. Let her crowd her hair down to meet the dress high neckline and the poor dear is lost in a bewilderment of fussiness.

There isn't a new style introduced that can't be compromised with by those of us who were better for a compromise. If we aren't so cleancut around the chin line as we were last voting year we can still keep our heads up and free of impediments. We can let the high neckline be only throat base high. It needn't be chin high. And that inch or two in there makes a heap of difference in the smartness or homeliness of a woman on parade.

Come to think of it, it's in the way a woman carries that head of hers that tips her off as a snappy person, or the opposite. For the lighter carrying, then, the load must be lighter. This year we can take away from the face for the wide, bowed and flowing effects if we haven't the face for closeup dressing.

Now, if you are going in for the high neckline of dress that has no softening touch of white or cream you must let a fluff of adroitly turned wisp of hair do the soft relief work for you. You may, indeed, use a lot of hair curls in this emergency. But do something to unravel the damage done by a tight, hard, unrelieved neckline of frock.

Author Lists Taboos for Young Ladies in Years Before 1914

Allowing him to take a ring off your finger to look at it.

Permitting him to unclasp your bracelet, or, still worse, to inspect your brooch.

Suffering a gentleman to touch your curls.

"The American Keepsake" by Russell Crouse [Doubleday Doran] contains many and delightful revelations of the modes and manners of a past age. The book is a combination of what our mothers and grandmothers used to call "Literary Gift Book," "Fireside Companion," and the "Manual of Etiquette."

There are rules of etiquette as well as various sorts of unconscious commentaries on the age. The book is valuable and significant since it unearths many facts and fancies of a day we can no longer envision psychologically.

Eat Big Meals . . . Fat Goes Quick
Results—or Pay Nothing
"I was so afraid of disappointment that I kept my bottle of BonKora 3 days before I started to take it. Then when the first bottle had been used I weighed myself. I had lost 23 lbs.—from 185 to 162 in 10 days. I had lost 4 inches in bust too; 3½ inches in hips. I wear dresses 4 sizes smaller. My constipation and indigestion have gone, and my skin, which was yellow, has cleared. I feel fine."—Dorothy Hess, 760 E. Baker St., Flint, Mich.
No excuse for being fat. People write that they tried other methods without losing a pound. Then BonKora, the new Battle Creek Reducing Treatment, took off weight quick. One woman lost 41 lbs. in 8 weeks.
It reduces the new "3 stage" way. Triple action; triple speed. Just take a little BonKora daily to remove heavy wastes and moisture from fatty tissues. EAT BIG MEALS of tasty food combinations shown in BonKora package. Avoid much fatty meats and starches. When you reach normal, healthy weight, stop reducing and hold your new slender figure.
No dangerous drugs in BonKora. In fact, the BonKora Treatment builds health while reducing fat the quickest way.
Try It on Money-Back Offer

Diet Didn't Do This!

HAPPY little girl, just bursting with pep, and she has never tasted a "tonic!"
Every child's stomach, liver, and bowels need stimulating at times, but give children something you know all about.
Follow the advice of that famous family physician who gave the world Syrup Pepsin. Stimulate the body's vital organs. Dr. Caldwell's prescription of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh herbs is a mild stimulant that keeps the system from getting sluggish.
If your youngsters don't do well at school, don't play as hard or eat as well as other children do, begin this evening with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This gentle stimulant will soon right things! The bowels will move with better regularity and thoroughness. There won't be so many sick spells or colds. You'll find it just as wonderful for adults, too, in larger spoonfuls!
Get some Syrup Pepsin; protect your household from those bilious days, frequent headaches, and that sluggish state of half-health that means the bowels need stimulating. Keep this preparation in the home to use instead of harsh cathartics that cause chronic constipation if taken too often. You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drug store; they have it all ready in big bottles.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill bred pair, hold a strange influence over her. The three hold nightly seances in the library. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister, Rachel, are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Braselton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to search for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Her body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered. The Tilburys are left Caroline's fortune, on condition they search for the Holy Grail in the ruin of an ancient abbey on the estate, which Caroline believed to be her father's wish. Natasha is arrested. It is learned that the man she'd been meeting secretly was her wastrel brother, Michael, who is wanted for theft and has left the country. News is received of his death. Natasha is brought to trial. There is no proof of guilt. She is freed, though still under suspicion. Neil continues the murder search. A notice appears in newspapers asking the return of an alligator bag, reward offered, no questions asked. Neil suspects Albert Stokes, attendant at the garage where Miss Bundy's car was kept, of stealing the bag. Neil knew the bag contained papers which Tilbury might be anxious to recover. Natasha disappears.

INSTALLMENT LIII.

FOUL PLAY FEARED.

Clattering to the ground floor, Neil shouted to the constable, and, with the amazed officer lumbering behind, swiftly surveyed the back premises. Suddenly from a ramshackle shed sounded a crash of flower pots.

The constable with one swoop threw himself over the wall on to the shambling figure just extricating himself from a mass of débris. Two arms like flails hit out at him wildly.

"Got him, sir! Would you mind lending a hand?"

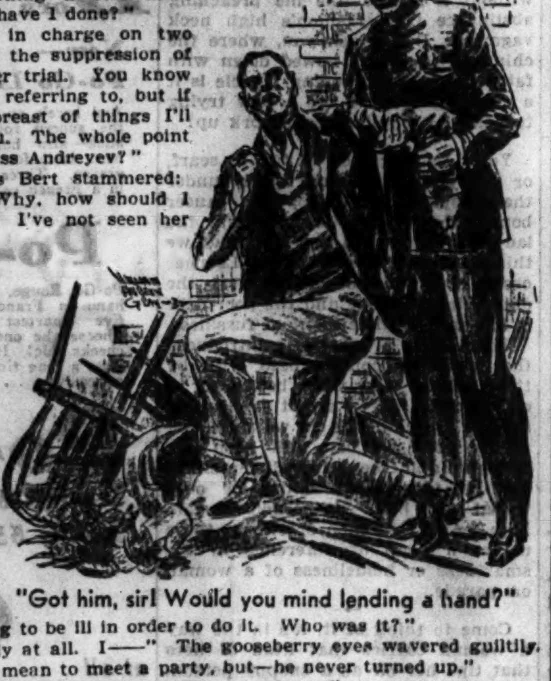
At sight of Neil the violence abruptly ceased and an expression of abject consternation overspread the youth's face. Quite submissively he stumbled back into the kitchen. His greenish pallor and trembling limbs showed his illness to be genuine enough. When Neil shoved him into a chair and stood over him truculently he made no resistance, merely muttering with weak defiance: "You can't pinch me. I've done nothing—see?"

"Then why did you skin off like that?" Neil motioned the officer to withdraw, and left alone with his victim continued in a mollified strain: "Now, then, Stokes, I don't mean you any harm as long as you tell me the truth. One lie, though, and you'll find the bracelets on you."

"What for?"—turning a still more sickly hue. "What have I done?"

"I can give you in charge on two counts—stealing and the suppression of evidence in a murder trial. You know quite well what I'm referring to, but if you make a clean breast of things I'll promise to spare you. The whole point is this: Where is Miss Andreyev?"

In utter blankness Bert stammered: "Miss Andreyev? Why, how should I know where she is? I've not seen her since the trial—so help me."



"Got him, sir! Would you mind lending a hand?"

"She was looking for you yesterday. Didn't she find you?"

"No, sir. They told me she come here, but I never seen her. I swear to God——"

"That will do." Inwardly Neil recoiled from this fresh blow, but he went on determinedly: "All the same, you met some one yesterday. You came home pretending to be ill in order to do it. Who was it?"

"I—it was nobody at all. I——" The gooseberry eyes wavered guiltily. "That is—well, I did mean to meet a party, but—he never turned up."

"Quick—who was it? I'll give you ten seconds——"

"Hold on, sir——" The boy gave a spasmodic gasp. "I've no call to keep anything back. You see, I had a letter from a gentleman in London about a chauffeur's job. He was to come on the four-eighteen train and I was to wait on the platform for him. Well, I waited near on an hour, but I never set eyes on him. Then a chap—that is to say, a gentleman I'm acquainted with—come along—been seeing his wife off to Cornwall. He chats with me a minute, then asks if I'd care to drive up to his place with him and have a look round. It seemed I was wasting my time hanging about any longer, so I went."

"I want the name of this man. Who was he?"

Another doubtful glance, then the hesitating admission. "Mr. Tilbury of Stoke Paulton."

So Neil's guess had been right.

"What happened when you got to Stoke Paulton?"

"We stopped in at the lodge and had a few drinks. Port wine it was—and it turned me queer. The next I knew I was in the house with Mr. Tilbury putting cold water on me. Soon as I come round a bit I footed it home, him not liking to leave the place with nobody there."

"Then the two of you were absolutely alone?"

"And that's all you have to tell," demanded Neil, sick with disappointment.

"That's all, sir. I've been laid up ever since. That port wine done it. I wish to God I'd never seen it—nor him," he muttered under his breath with bitter loathing and something which suggested fear.

The involuntary betrayal told Neil that one thing was fairly sure. If Bert had parted with his treasure he had got little, possibly nothing, for it. As though in answer to his thought, the youth added with a cunning glance: "You mentioned the word stealing just now. Well, I've not taken nothing that didn't belong to me—see? Search me, if you like, turn out that room of mine. You won't find a scrap that's not mine."

Then the bag and its contents had gone from him to Tilbury. Full of despair at the hopelessness of further parley, Neil dismissed him.

"All right, go back to bed—but if this isn't straight goods I warn you what to expect."

"No good, officer. He hasn't seen her. I'll come along with you to the station to see if there's any news."

There was none. Natasha's last known action was the call at Briarcliff Villas twenty-six hours ago.

Neil was abreast of the King's Arms when a voice screeched shrilly: "Mr. Starkey! Mr. Starkey!" It was Mrs. Bebb.

"Thank you kindly, sir. But about this business, sir——" She sank her voice lugubriously. "Am I to understand as 'ow Miss Tasha's gorn and 'opped it?"

"She's missing. That's why I wanted to see you. I'd like to know if anything out of the ordinary has happened up at your place of work, either yesterday or today. Anything, mind, no matter how trifling."

Mrs. Bebb cocked a bleared eye towards the approaching waiter.

"Well, sir, I don't know as I've noticed anything—but I've not been there since 10 o'clock this morning. Now you speak of it, that's out of the ordinary, if you like—'im paying me full wages and giving me the week-end off till Tuesday. The missus gorn, too."

"He's alone, then?"

"Not a soul on the place but 'im. Workmen knocked off, too, till the middle of the week."

"Before you left yesterday—6 o'clock, wasn't it?—did you see any one about, either in the garden or up by the excavation?"

"No, sir, can't say as I saw any one. Early on there was plenty of sightseers prowling over the 'ill, but the last of 'em went before I did. Wait, though—there might've been somebody there, too, because about the time 'e—I can't rightly call 'im the master, sir—come to give me my money, I did 'ear the dogs up in that direction, making no end of a row."

Neil looked at her sharply. "What did it sound like? Were they angry, or—?"

"O, no, sir—pleased, like as if it was some'un they knowed. That's why I noticed it. I says to myself: 'Now, wot's come over them dogs? They 'asn't carried on like that since Miss Tasha went away.'"

He was leaning forward eagerly. "Mrs. Bebb, think hard. You're quite certain you saw nothing? Any sort of car in the lane when you went along to your cottage?"

"Car, sir?" A look of surprised recollection crossed her seamed features. "Why, sir, now you mention it, there was a small car, something like yours, standing close to that there stile at the back. No one in it. Wot 'ave I said? You don't suppose as 'ow——?"

He was out of the door and dashing up the street. A terrible feeling of suffocation had come over him. Natasha—the Alsatians—his car in the lane.

Ten yards away he cannoned into Gisborne, coming to look for him, and poured out a story which the other greeted with troubled disbelief.

"Sheer, utter nonsense! Natasha would never dream of going there. There are hundreds of cars like yours!"

"It was she. I know it. I'm going to get hold of a posse to search the grounds. Let me go, for God's sake! Can't you realize every second is precious?"

"I'll come with you, of course—but the police may decline to assist you. They can't swear out a search warrant on flimsy evidence like this."

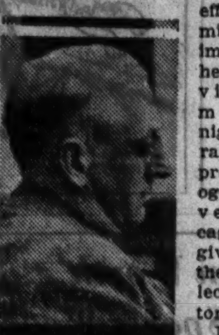
Weigh Results of Heredity in Lives of Twins

Dr. Newman Reports on His Studies.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The result of a study of human twins in an effort to determine the relative importance of heredity and environment was made known tonight by Dr. Horatio H. Newman, professor of zoölogy at the University of Chicago, in a report given as one of the Spencer Trask lectures at Princeton university.



DR. NEWMAN.

Dr. Newman said that human twins furnish the best, if not the only, material well adapted to a scientific investigation of the problem. He and his associates have studied during the last five years fifty cases of fraternal twins reared together, fifty cases of identical twins reared together, and nine cases of identical twins reared apart.

"Identical twins are the product of the early division of a single embryo into two parts, each of which then developed into a whole individual," Dr. Newman explained. "Fraternal twins are the result of the simultaneous fertilization of two eggs by two sperms, and hence are related exactly in the same way as are ordinary brothers and sisters. Identical twins are identical in their heredity, while fraternal twins have only half their identity in common."

The 109 pairs of twins studied, Dr. Newman said, were analyzed with regard to numerous physical characteristics, mental characteristics, as measured by standard intelligence tests and temperament-emotional characteristics.

"In every one of the nine cases of identical twins reared apart," Dr. Newman said, "where there is known to have been a pronounced difference in some one or more features of the environment of the twins, one finds an appropriately pronounced divergence in the kinds of characters that such differences in environment might be expected to produce. Similarly, whenever there has been no pronounced difference in the environment, even though the twins have been long separated, there is found no greater divergence in any characters than might have been expected had the twins been reared together.

"On the basis of this study one may be justified in saying: (1) That environmental differences produce differences in certain human traits directly in proportion to the extent of the environmental differences involved; (2) that minor differences do not have sufficient intensity to transcend the threshold of stimulation and therefore have no effect; (3) that mental characters, temperament-emotional traits, and some physical characters such as body weight, condition of teeth, and general health seem to be about equally affected by pronounced environmental differences and to be equally unaffected by slight environmental differences.

"A rather crude way of putting the tentative conclusions from these facts is that with regard to mental, temperamental, and certain physical characteristics, the actual differences in heredity have been twice as effective as the actual differences in environment. What I have said is not at all the equivalent of the statement that heredity is twice as important in determining a person's total individuality as is environment. Such a statement would not merely be untrue but would be absurd."

Slightly Tardy Femme Still the Charmer

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He used to come at half past eight and find the girl all ready. But now he comes, no matter how late, and waits while she finishes her toilette. And the naïve young man inquires if this is a sign his lady's love is cooling?

We should let certain husbands and suitors having experience as patient waiters answer this one. For us, all we can say is that a woman's lack of punctuality has nothing whatever to do with her heart. Heartless as her tardiness sometimes appears, we still hold emotion has less to do with it than anything else. She's just made that way, we fear, as a cross for the punctual sex to bear, just as wives are made to nag to keep the man from worrying about his other troubles.

The well trained, experienced male arranges his appointment with his lady to allow for this peculiar feminine vagary of hers. He has found out that no amount of sputtering helps. Impatience serves him ill in the face of a handsomely framed alibi the woman has ready for the belated luncheon appointment or whatever date it happens to be. It's simply one ground on which the poor helpless male is e'en more helpless.

We've been told that since women have adopted the timeclock punching habit of necessity, there has been a noticeable improvement in their punctuality. But we do find even an efficient business woman resorting to her old habit in her leisure hour dates. Those of us who would be ready on the dot meet a few rebuffs in the surprise with which our on-timeness is taken. We sense that it was not expected of us—quite. That we have deprived the gentleman of a chance to badger us good humoredly. Anyway, that we have done something not expected of us.

And this is why there is a code, known only to the women about the undesirability of being ready on time. From the standpoint of romantic interest, anyway. It is gathered that efficiency is all right for the business hours—but it is not one of the desired requisites in the woman who would be cherished, protected and spoiled.

Alexandra Carlisle Is Awarded Medal for Good Diction

Miss Alexandra Carlisle, actress wife of J. Elliott Jenkins of Chicago, was awarded a medal for good diction by the American Academy of Arts and Letters yesterday at its annual meeting in New York. A similar medal was awarded to David Ross, announcer for the Columbia broadcasting system.

Miss Carlisle is now playing in "Criminal at Large" at the Belasco theater, New York. She was notified of the award in her dressing room during a matinée performance and radioed her response to the meeting.

In her speech Miss Carlisle told the academy audience that "with the stage, talking pictures, recording, public speaking, and radio programs that we have today the necessity for clear enunciation would seem compulsory."

In years past the medal has gone to Julia Marlowe, Walter Hampden, and Edith Wynne Matthison. Miss Carlisle is the sixth player to win the prize. No award was made last year.

Joan Blondell Has Record as Film Success

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 10.—Joan Blondell arrived in Hollywood two and one-half years ago. In the time since then she has completed featured parts in 34 motion pictures, many of which netted big profits for Warner Brothers. She is now on her thirty-fifth film, "Blondie Johnson." No such record for continuous and successful work in such a short time was ever made by any other Hollywood actress.

Here's an addition to the Katherine Hepburn style notes. She has been wearing overalls and Russian smock about the RKO studio, where, due to the temporary shelving of "Little Women," whose cast she was to head, she has been making screen and make-up tests for her part with Joel McCrea in "Three Came Unarmed."

Marie Dressler is to draw close to $100,000 a picture for the films she makes for MGM from now on, starting with "Tugboat Annie," when she comes back from New York.

Ann Harding has had a relapse of the flu, which has been holding up completion of "Animal Kingdom."

A Bit of Italy Rests in Home of Burnhams

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Friends of the Hubert Burnhams are going to be delighted with the Christmas cards they find in their mail boxes about the third week in December. For just a few days ago Mrs. Burnham completed a painting of the stunning Italian loggia in her Evanston home and it's to be reproduced on the family greeting card.

For years artists have clamored for the privilege of sketching this bit of old world beauty and guests have asked time and again for some reminder of the evenings they have spent in the "loggia" moonlight listening to the music of Paderewski or Zimbalist.

It's a complete retreat from this workaday world—a place to read, or dream, or chatter. The water splashes from an ancient wrought iron figure, a bullfinch flutters from an old Italian torch to an orange tree, orchids spill lazily from a big terra cotta oil jar, and gardenias tempt even the most conscience bound guest. Fifteen minutes and you're convinced some good fairy has whisked you away to a Florentine villa.

Yet the Burnham house is one of the oldest in Evanston—located at that busy intersection where Sheridan road bends into Burnham place. All of this Italian influence came about some 15 years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Burnham returned from abroad followed by crate upon crate of Italian purchases—a miscellany of furniture and all sorts of small "objets d'arts." Mr. Burnham had just completed his study at the Ecole des Beaux Arts.

"We had all the furniture. We had to do something with it," said Mrs. Burnham the other day, "so we started making the house over, adding and subtracting until we had what we wanted. Now we're Italian even to the family of insects that has invaded the household. When our old choir stall arrived recently we got more than we had ordered. The wood had been invaded by some bugs of southern European ancestry and Northwestern professors have been matching their wits with the problem of exterminating them."

The best part of the Burnhams' Italian interior is its authenticity. It speaks the Italian language. Not a single piece is imitating the manners of a better, nor is the loggia or any one of the rooms adjoining a conglomeration of the old and the new. Transformation has been complete even to the flower pots that have found their way across from Naples.

But authenticity or no, there couldn't be that feeling of complete departure from everything Evanstonian if it wasn't for the various means the Burnhams have devised for shutting away the outside world. Most important, the house has been made soundproof so that the heaviest motor rolls along Sheridan road without guests being aware of anything more than a donkey cart.

Then the heavy nail studded shutters on the inside of the leaded glass windows of the music room adjoining the loggia shut out all view of the busy drive, and, best of all, a great green carpet, suspended some 50 feet in the air, terminates the view through the arched doorways across the garden to the west.

"Cling to that which endures"

In the panic year when Hannibal's army crossed the Alps, a wise old Roman advised his son and heir: "Be not affected by the temporary shifts of fortune's winds. Be certain that your undertakings are based upon the solid rock of proven worth. In a world of change, cling to that which endures."

The Chicago Tribune endures. For 85 years it has withstood strife, panic, fire, war, relentless enemies. It has won over every obstacle, everlastingly grown from strength to strength. Its foundations are stable and permanent . . . inseparably a part of Chicago and the rich midwestern area that is naturally tributary to Chicago.

The Chicago Tribune has exposed and fought more political corruption, more predatory assaults on public property, more governmental waste, more official shirking, more rackets, than any other Chicago newspaper. At the same time, the Tribune has conceived or supported all worthwhile projects for Chicago's betterment.

The Tribune is literally "of, for and by Chicago," always published by Chicagoans. It is never influenced by remote control, its policies are never subject to financial expediency, it is never used for the personal aggrandizement of its owners.

These are reasons why the Tribune is far ahead of all other papers in the life of Chicago and the midwest . . . why it has the circulation, the reader-responsiveness that make it Chicago's most effective, economical advertising medium.

Today, as always, the Tribune is the safe choice for advertisers in Chicago. The public, in all strata, continues to show its pronounced partiality for the Tribune as evidenced by: more home delivered circulation than all other Chicago papers combined; more daily circulation in Chicago and suburbs than any other daily paper.

Now is the time to buy stability and to "cling to that which endures." The Tribune can give advertisers community contact of the impressive, permanent kind—it can share with them its own high prestige in this great midwestern market.

BLACKHAWKS LOSE, 3 TO 1, IN HOCKEY OPENER

NOTRE DAME'S COACHES START FEARING N. U.

But Not Students—Not by a Bonfire.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 10.—Notre Dame students, rallying to support their football eleven in its first home appearance since defeat at Pittsburgh and its last home appearance of the season, are giving preparations for Saturday's annual contest with Northwestern all the honor and trimmings of a homecoming occasion.

Here at a college where victory is accepted as something to be expected enthusiasm has risen to an unwonted degree for the first time this year. There will be a pep meeting tomorrow night, with speeches and a huge bonfire, for which gathering of wood has been going on all week. The student body wishes to assure the eleven of its loyalty and confidence.

Team Gets the Idea, Too.

Influence of feeling has permeated the Irish or all-nations players, whose practice of the last two days showed more dash and fire than at any previous time this fall. For the first time in weeks regulars and reserves have scrimmaged twice before a game. This afternoon it was scrimmage defense against Northwestern's passing attack as presented by the freshmen.

So if Northwestern expects to find an overconfident foe, unprepared for Wildcat claws, it had better revise that estimate. Dick Hanley's young men are in for as busy an afternoon as an extended Notre Dame team can give them. Despite the fact that the Purple season thus far has been less successful than usual, unanimous opinion of the local coaching staff is: "They'll be at their top for us. They always are."

So Notre Dame fears Northwestern. It is not the same brand of in reserve fear that Stagg expressed in those lean Boilermaker years of two decades ago, nor the bona fide actual fear Stagg fears for the present Boilermakers, but the fear or apprehension of what might happen, apprehension heightened by the recent reverse from an eleven still considered here as inferior to the 1932 Irish.

They Respect Wildcats.

Notre Dame, of course, does not expect to lose. But even in their own dressing room after practice, with no outsider present except this not entirely gullible and not entirely inexperienced reporter, all coaches expressed high opinion for the Wildcat fighting qualities.

"Northwestern has a great back field," said Coach Hunk Anderson, "Pug Rentner is a great ball carrier and passer. Olson also is a great passer and what a punter, better than any one we can offer against him. Potter is a good field general and pass receiver. It's a combination always dangerous." Here Marchy Schwartz, now of the coaching staff, chimed in, "Yes and don't forget that slippery Jakie Sullivan."

Then Ike Voedisch, end coach, felt he was neglecting the gloom and said, "Dick Fencl is one of the best ends in the conference, and Manske is a wonderful pass receiver."

"And that Dilley is a fine fellow and a great guard," added Nordy Hoffman, the great guard of last year, while Tommy Yarr, center and captain of the 1932 Irish, put in his sayso with "I don't see anything the matter with McDonald and Weldin." Then from an unnamed source, "They weren't really fighting against Minnesota, but they will be fighting against us."

Expect Crowd of 40,000.

By that time this writer was feeling so sorry for Notre Dame we ventured to inquire whether by any chance the contest might be forfeited rather than played in view of such Northwestern strength, to which Athletic Director Harper's stern reply was, "Well, we've sold 33,000 tickets in advance and expect a crowd of 40,000, so we'll have to give them some kind of a show."

Perhaps a fair analysis of the situation would be that Notre Dame respects, rather than actually fears, Northwestern. Coaches and players expect the Purple to play its best game of the season here. That estimate is based on the scoreless tie of last year and games of previous seasons in which Northwestern surprised other good Irish elevens with its fighting qualities. To be prepared for just that contingency has been the coaching objectives this week.

From a Notre Dame viewpoint defeat would just about wreck all morale for the Army and Southern California games to follow, games in which for the first time in several years cadets and native sons are likely to be advance favorites.

So the undergraduates, intent on injecting into the affair all the inspiration which student enthusiasm is supposed to fire, are going their limit to furnish that support.

As the last home game, alumni of former and recent years will attend in large numbers. An advance guard already is filling the hotels, but the main contingent will come for tomorrow night's festivities or by special trains and motors on Saturday morning.

STILL A TOSSUP

Notre Dame or Northwestern? The final day of practice, which will neither add to nor detract from preparations already completed, offers nothing more

E. K. HALL DIES; FOOTBALL RULES HEAD 21 YEARS

Victim of Heart Attack; 62 Years Old.

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Football lost its stanchest defender this morning when Edward Kimball Hall, chairman of the football rules committee for 21 years, died at his home on the campus of Dartmouth college here. He was 62 years old.

Death was caused by a heart attack. Although Mr. Hall had not been in the best of health for several weeks, his death was unexpected.

Rules Chairman Since 1911.

Chairman of the rules committee since 1911, a member of that body for years before that, a former varsity player at Dartmouth and after that coach at the University of Illinois, a referee and umpire who never accepted a fee for his services in any game, Hall carved for himself a place in the history of American football beside the late Walter Camp of Yale.

In business, Hall was also conspicuously successful, having become a vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company after a career in the profssion of law. Two years ago, however, when just past his 60th birthday, he severed his connections with business in New York to "go back home" to Dartmouth, where, he declared, he wished to spend the remainder of his life. Here he was associated with the Amos Tuck school of business administration as a lecturer on industrial relations.

Advocates "Safety" Changes.

It was at Dartmouth college that the football rules committee met under Mr. Hall's direction last February in the most critical hour of the game's history since the days of 1905, when the public demanded the abolition of the old mass plays. Football had had a disastrous year in 1931, with a number of deaths charged to the game. For months Mr. Hall had given almost his entire time to a study of the situation, and it was at his insistence and with his guidance that the rules committee brought about drastic changes calculated to decrease the total of dangerous injuries.

Mr. Hall, a native of Granville, Ill., where he was born in 1870, was graduated from Dartmouth in the class of 1891. He was football coach and athletic director at Illinois from 1892 to 1894. After graduation from the Harvard Law school in 1896, he began the practice of law, while still retaining his interest in football to the extent of officiating in games week after week without pay.

As a member of the law firm of Powers, Hall & Jones in Boston, he became attorney for the New England Telephone and Telegraph company, and it was through this connection that he became, in September, 1919, vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company with offices in New York.

ILLINI HONOR HALL

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Tributes to E. K. Hall, who was the first full time football coach and director of athletics at the University of Illinois, were paid today by athletic leaders.

Director George Huff, who played under Hall in 1892, said:

"'Boss' Hall, as we called him, was a man of the highest character, whose influence in intercollegiate athletics was all for good. He served Illinois in 1892-'93 and 1893-'94. It was he who founded the state interscholastic track meet in 1893, the first of its kind in the central states."

Great Friend of Game—Zuppke.

It was in 1892, under Coach Hall, that Illinois first played University of Chicago and Northwestern. That season the Illini took a remarkable trip, playing six games in eight days, winning four and losing two and traveling to the states of Missouri, Kansas, and Nebraska.

Coach Robert C. Zuppke said: "Football has lost a great friend. Mr. Hall was always a firm believer in the game. He believed in retaining its rugged character, but in eliminating every possibility of danger. As a member of the rules committee for two years I saw his sincerity of purpose."

My Greatest Thrill in Football

BY ARTHUR H. CURTIS.

[As told to Harvey Woodruff.]

My greatest football thrill was an emotional ecstasy in which was submerged thought of anything which I may have accomplished as an individual. Although it occurred in one of the final games of my senior year, I had never before, nor have I since, experienced such a flood up of pent-up emotion.

The occasion was the Wisconsin-Minnesota game of 1901. To better understand, one should know that these contests always were hard, keen struggles, with both university and state rivalry involved. There was no other game on our schedules we so much desired to win.

Neither Wisconsin nor Minnesota had lost a game up to the time of our battle. Minnesota had not even been scored against. In fact, the 18 points we gathered that afternoon were the only points counted against our rivals all season. None of our major opponents had scored against us, although Knox made 5 points against our 23 earlier in the season.

So Excited He Has to Be Helped Over Sideline Rope.

Minnesota was confident and its trainloads of followers arriving in Madison made the Gophers the favorites in the betting. It was a day of bright sunshine, with the air cold and crisp. State street was decorated for the occasion, with our cardinal banners and ribbons predominating. Crowds were promenading the streets on their way to old Camp Randall field. Even this pre-game enthusiasm was filled with expectancy and tenseness.

We dressed in the gymnasium, then rode about a mile in a bus to a tent just off the playing field, where we waited. As time for the game approached we were almost beside ourselves with nervousness—almost ill with nausea, lumps in our throats, and palpitating hearts. The depth of our emotion was too great for a coaching pep talk.

And Phil King, in his last year as Wisconsin coach, for his business required his presence in the east, was in the same mental state as the team.

We sat waiting almost without a word. Indeed, few of us could have talked if we had wanted to. Phil King's words, "Boys, go on in, do your best," were more like a moan or a sob. Then to the playing field. To this day I remember the ropes, not two feet high, which were intended to keep the spectators off the field. Actually I could not step over those ropes and had to be helped—I was so weak and filled with fear, or agonizing apprehension, over what might happen.

DR. ARTHUR H. CURTIS.

Lest this seem exaggerated, I am impelled to say that I lost seven pounds in weight from worry in the week before the game—from 175 to 168. My playing weights in my four years had been 158, 165, 170, and 175.

As we lined up for the kickoff I felt tremors, veritable electrical vibrations, from the soles of my feet up through my body to the top of my head. I

Princeton! Now There's a Real Joe College College

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—Unfortunately, I have never learned the intimate particulars of the college buildings down at Princeton, although I would say, offhand, that they are the most college looking buildings on the eastern seaboard. There is an old fashioned meeting house bell up in a steeple which the freshmen, serving the ropes in relays, are supposed to keep a-ringing all night long on certain joyous occasions in the football season, and there are worn doorstones in some of the entries and ivy climbing over the walls as rank as whiskers on a hermit's face.

It will be many a year before the Yales and Harvards with their new buildings, which some of the undergraduates have described as mail order antique, can wear hollows in their doorstones like those at Princeton, unless they hire some stone masons to anticipate the tread of many generations, which would be unethical and the same as using ringers on the football team. And their ivy will be a long time growing as thick and high as the Princeton growth. You can't build ivy and ivy seems to signify traditions, antiquity, serenity, bulldog pipes, turtle neck sweaters, and college.

What a Spot for Movie!

If I were a moving picture director looking for a background for a few minutes of hand holding and eye rolling between Joe College and the girl, I would back them up against one of those Princeton shots and do my footage at Old Nassau, without the slightest notion, incidentally, why they call the place Nassau.

But then, that only suggests my ignorance of the moving picture business, too, because a real moving picture director would be likely to build himself a Princeton of his own off in a corner of the plant in Hollywood and call up the doorstone department for some doorstones worn by the tread of many feet, and the ivy department for a few sprigs of ivy which the stage hands would then so place as to suggest ivy by the million.

That Telegraph Office!

However, I am acquainted with the telegraph office at Princeton and there, my friends, as the President Elect has been calling us one and all, is a telegraph office the like of which I have never seen among the hundreds of telegraph offices in which I have sat down with the crowd on various occasions to compose living, breathing, human documents for the papers.

Katharine Brush mentioned the Princeton telegraph office in "Young Man of Manhattan," but I do not believe she named the name of the lady manager who runs the place and keeps the messenger kids in some sort of order and on the big day every two years bids up the wires and takes the messages for the Yales and Princetons or their girls who agreed to meet at the telegraph store at 1 o'clock sharp, and here it is almost two and not here yet. I was going to mention the name here, but that only reminds me that, after several years of trading at her store, I don't believe I ever did know her by name but just as a good natured, efficient party who gets things done amid the most awful confusion and bother.

She's Everybody's Friend.

She is the one who tells the girl in the blue hat when she finally does show up that her young men had to be going or miss the kickoff, but left her ticket for her, and here it is and that is quite all right and don't mention it at all. Romance is all right, but would you expect him to miss the kickoff?

The pressroom at Princeton is down in the cellar, which has a low overhead and big white jacketed steam pipes which give off such heat that people who have taken a nip of something out in the cold to ward off pneu-

ROSS MOVES ONE STEP CLOSER TO TOP TONIGHT, IF—

He Whips Hess, a Hard Puncher, at Stadium.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Barney Ross, fellow townsman and west side candidate for the lightweight championship of the world, engages in his second important bout tonight at the Stadium. Goldie Hess, who some time back had the same title vision which, however, did not materialize, furnishes Barney his opposition.

Ross took his first important step toward recognition and national importance, which can be translated into the coin at the box office, when he licked Chris [Bat] Battalino in the same ring several weeks ago. Barney whipped Bat so completely and in such a workmanlike fashion that his personal following, already large, doubled overnight, and the gentry of the profession at large asked for particulars.

Hess Is Plodding Type.

Hess is regarded as the type of fighter who is certain to take a whipping at the hands of the speedy, hard hitting Ross. This is not to underestimate Hess' ability, but Hess, like Battalino and Petrolle, wins by sheer strength and doggedness, when he does win. He can hit, but against a clever boxer he has difficulty finding a target.

About two years ago Hess met Tony Canzoneri, the present champion, who successfully defended his title the other night against Billy Petrolle. He lost that fight by about the same margin that he was defeated by Jack Kid Berg in his only appearance in Chicago. Since those days Hess has not figured prominently in the 135 pound division. His best claim to recognition is a one round knockout of Tommy Grogan, which Grogan immediately wiped out by winning a return bout in ten rounds, and the fact that Hess never has been on the floor.

Barney has been quoted as anxious to knock out Hess. This certainly is a laudable ambition, but Ross won't be disappointed if he wins decisively on points. Those who have watched Goldie in his workouts assert that Hess has lost considerable speed. Unless he demonstrates unsuspected agility, he'll be the recipient of many punches tonight. Against Battalino, Barney didn't miss cleanly more than twice, and Hess can not expect to take such a barrage of punches and win.

Goldie Can Punch.

There is the ever present chance, of course, that Goldie will plant a fist on Barney's chin for taps, but Ross has shown excellent judgment in ducking, and there's no reason to suspect he'll forget his lessons tonight.

After Hess, Barney may sign for a match with Petrolle before coming to terms with Canzoneri. That Canzoneri and Ross will meet for the lightweight title this winter at the Stadium seems assured. Both managements are agreeable, but they are postponing the engagement to build up Ross stock to a new high. Kid Chocolate has been mentioned as an opponent, but such a fight would require coercion that Nat Lewis cannot bring to bear. Neither is anxious to meet the other. Whether Petrolle cuts in on the arrangement depends entirely on whether Barney's advisers think he can beat the Fargo veteran.

The supporting program tonight is excellent. Sammy Slaughter, the Negro middleweight discovered and instructed by Bud Taylor, and of whom the Hoosiers of Terre Haute never tire in shouting extravagant praises, meets the old master, Dave Shade. At Milwaukee early this year Slaughter defeated Shade, bouncing his potent fist on Shade's chin early in the fight and dissipating the foolishness by which Shade tantalizes his opponents.

Terry Is Newcomer.

Shade hasn't gleaned many dollars since then with the exception of the purse at White City the night he cut short Jack Kilbane's hopes of greatness. Shade believes he'll whip Slaughter tonight, but Sammy evidently is not worried or he would not have accepted a second match.

Young Terry of Trenton, N. J., unknown in these parts, meets an old Chicago favorite, Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Canada, middleweight, in the third ten round fight. The last time Battaglia exhibited in Chicago he knocked out Ben Jeby in one round.

Bush Succeeds Howley as Cincinnati Reds' Manager

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Owen Joseph Bush—"Donie" to baseball fans every place except in his home town of Indianapolis—yesterday signed to take over the arduous job of leading the Cincinnati Reds out of the National league cellar in 1933. Bush will succeed his lifelong friend, Dan Howley, as manager of the Reds, and with the latter's best wishes, it is said.

Bush, who is 44 years old, has been employed in baseball since he was 16. Since he completed his active playing career he has managed Washington one year, Indianapolis three years, Pittsburgh three years, the Chicago White Sox two years, and last year he led the Minneapolis Millers to a pennant after the team had finished sixth the preceding year. In his managerial span Bush's teams have won two pennants—Pittsburgh in 1927 and the Miller pennant last year. Five times his outfits have finished second and once third.

Sox Career Unhappy.

The Reds' new boss has had only one unhappy baseball connection in his career. In 1930 the White Sox finished seventh and in 1931 the club slumped off another notch to finish in the cellar.

Bush, fearing his prestige had suffered by the continued floundering of the White Sox, went back to the minors to redeem himself. Assembling a team of aged free agents and with only four purchased players on his roster, Bush brought Minneapolis its first pennant in many years.

There have been rumors that Bush would be the Reds' new pilot ever since Howley resigned at the close of the season. Bush, however, had been reluctant to sign until he had been assured that he was not in danger of encountering the same obstacles he met during his sad days with the White Sox.

Wants to Keep Stars.

It is said that the little Hoosier finally closed with President Sidney Weil after he had been assured that Chick Hafey, Babe Herman, George Grantham, Ernesto Lombardi, Estel Crabtree, Red Lucas, and several other stars would remain unless Bush developed deals which he figured would help the team.

Grantham was one of Bush's stars on his 1927 championship team at Pittsburgh. Grantham, a smart baseball man, was a hustler under Bush and is expected to be able to assist Bush in determining why the Reds slumped into the doldrums after a brilliant start last season.

It was said Bush's first move would be to reorganize his pitching staff. The squad includes several men of indifferent success last year. Lucas, for instance, openly was critical of Howley and indicated other members of the team had ideas about handling of pitchers similar to Red's own. Bush, incidentally, has gained his greatest credit for his handling of pitchers, except on the White Sox, where he encountered frequent whining and alibiing, it is said.

COMES BACK

DONIE BUSH.

Back to Majors, Says Mother.

For a time Bush considered returning to Minneapolis next season and President Mike Kelley had held the place open for him.

Bush's mother, with whom he lives in Indianapolis, virtually ordered him to get back into the majors. She is the only boss from whom Donie ever has taken orders with never a question and Mrs. Bush's attitude had much to do with the young man's decision not to return to the minors. The mother always has kept house for Donie during his major league activities, but last summer refused to go to Minneapolis.

"Ownie, you sign. You're no busher and I don't want you to be filling any busher jobs."

So Mr. Bush had no choice. He signed.

Rangers Beat Maroons, 4-2, in First Game

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The New York Rangers opened the National Hockey league season tonight by defeating the Montreal Maroons, 4 to 2.

The Rangers' first goal came late in the first period. After breaking up a Maroon advance, Bill Cook seized the puck and passed to Voss, who feinted Walsh out of position and scored in 14 minutes.

Montreal tied the score early in the second period, following a mixup in the Ranger zone. Brydson relayed the puck through Wentworth to Trotter, who scored.

After one shot at the net failed, Bill Cook took the rebound and passed to his brother, Bun, who scored in 18:48 to give the Rangers the lead.

TORONTO, 1; BOSTON, 1

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 10.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs, champions of the hockey world, and the Boston Bruins played a 1 to 1 tie tonight in their first game of the National Hockey league season.

The contest was marked by more rough than good hockey. Twenty-one penalties were called, 13 of them in the first period.

Frank [King] Clancy, Toronto defense star, scored the opening goal in the first period out of a scramble in front of the net. Red Beattie, who was out all last season with a broken leg, celebrated his return by sinking the tying goal in the same manner in the second period. Lineup:

BOSTON [1].		TORONTO [1].

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 10.—The opening of the National Hockey league season wasn't exactly auspicious for the Chicago Blackhawks at the Olympia tonight. The Detroit Red Wings, made up in part by remnants of last year's Chicago Shamrocks, rendered a song entitled "We Will Gather at the Goal," and all the Hawks could do was skate around in a panic while acepting a 3 to 1 defeat before 6,000.

The Hawks discovered to their sorrow that a team they had not figured especially dangerous possessed enough skating speed to offset its various defects. The speed made it possible for the home troops to do a consistent job of breaking up the Chicago passing. And the Hawks also had a persistent jinx to contend with. They didn't capture a game here last year and only one in each of the three preceding seasons.

A Goal in Each Period.

The Red Wings broke through Goalie Gardiner's defense for a goal in the first period. The second goal came in the next period and in the final session, with the Hawks charging without caution, the lone Chicago goal resulted. A moment after this the Red Wings scored again to make their triumph doubly secure.

The first period, at least for ten minutes, was mainly a matter of man shortage. Festivities were no sooner under way than Goldsworthy of the Red Wings was ordered to the bastille. This gave Gottselig a chance to take a few random shots at the Detroit kennel, but the tries were deflected. Wiseman, the former Shamrock, made similar attempts in behalf of his new company and these, too, amounted to nothing.

Gardiner Blocks Drive.

The Hawks, due to penalties inflicted on Abel and Couture, were reduced to dire circumstances. Even with only four of the Chicagoans present the Red Wings with five performers made only casual assaults in the direction of the Hawks' goal. One of these was conducted by Sorrell, but just as he slipped up to the net in charge of the puck, Gardiner reached out and slapped it away.

Finally the Hawks got back into a five against five status and then the full teams were restored. This situation brought out the Hawks at their best, and they not only halted the Detroit offense but also made several dangerous thrusts toward the latter's goal.

Just when it looked as if the Hawks were clicking in their old time rough and tumble form, the Detroiters slipped through with the first goal of the season. After one of the Hawks' drives at the Detroit net was broken up, the Red Wings slapped the puck down into Chicago territory. Aurie drifted behind the Chicago goal and passed out to Carson on Gardiner's right. The Chicago goalie jumped out to deflect the anticipated shot, but Carson deftly aimed toward the left corner and it went in with twelve minutes of play recorded. After that the Hawks took long chances, but it availed them nothing.

Red Wings Score Again.

The second period was chiefly an exhibition of fancy skating until Abel, who had been roundly booed at various times, was caught single handed in the defense territory with Hanson bearing down with the puck. Abel upset the Red Wing quite handily. In a subsequent skirmish the Hawks lost the services of Jenkins, and while he was in the penalty box the Red Wings steamed up for the drive that became their second goal of the evening.

Young took a free shot at the Chicago goal and Gardiner deflected it enough to send it bounding against the right wall. The Detroiters picked it up again and were right back at Gardiner's doorstep. The Chicago goalie dropped to the ground to cut off one shot and as the puck rebounded straight out Bostrum joined Gardiner in the praying position in front of the Hawks' goal. Just about that time Carson completed the assault by nudging the rubber biscuit past the pair of reposing defenders. This hap-

HUNTERS' ARMY OPENS FIRE ON RABBIT BRIGADE

Weather Conditions Help Pheasants.

For the duck hunter: At Chillicothe: Sunrise Saturday morning, Nov. 12, is 6:39 a. m.; sunset, 4:44 p. m. On Sunday sunrise is 6:40 a. m.; sunset, 4:43 p. m. For Beardstown: Sunrise Saturday, 6:41 a. m.; sunset, 4:50 p. m. On Sunday, sunrise, 6:42 a. m.; sunset, 4:49 a. m.

BY BOB BECKER.

The pheasant and rabbit population of Chicagoland received its annual bombardment beginning at sunrise yesterday morning when thousands of hunters opened the 1932 season. Although there were heavy concentrations of hunters in some areas within 40 or 50 miles of Chicago's loop, the swarm of gunners which usually pours out of Chicago before sunrise and fans over the country roads was not so large as on some opening days of former years.

Old subdivisions now grown up with weeds at the borders of suburbs were well combed by the shotgun army, but the posting of additional thousands of acres of farm lands in Chicagoland, the large number of deputies on hand to enforce the no trespass law, the hard boiled attitude of hundreds of land owners toward roving, irresponsible hunters, and the fact that the opening day came on the heels of a national election formed a combination which apparently reduced the size of the hunting parties.

Weather Favors Pheasants.

Hunters who started their shooting in the early morning found a decidedly "wet" reception awaiting them in the hangouts of the ringnecks and the cottontails. The mixture of snow and rain had drenched the weed thickets making walking difficult and uncomfortable. Moreover, such weather conditions were in the pheasants' favor because the birds sat tight and refused to flush until almost stepped on.

In Lake county we found deputies ousting hunters without shooting permits. The weed thickets were touched with snow and there was a fair crop of pheasants and lots of rabbits which offered tempting shots. Verbal permission given hunters to enable them to shoot on certain property was not accepted by deputies in the county in which we hunted. A card or letter from the owner was necessary. Those not carrying such credentials were considered trespassers and ousted from the property.

Quail Season Lasts to Dec. 10.

The Illinois season permits the pheasant hunter to kill cock pheasants only until sundown Nov. 15. The quail season, which also opened yesterday, continues through Dec. 10. Hunters are reminded of the fact that there is no season on Hungarian partridges. These sporty game birds, several times larger than a quail, are fairly abundant in some parts of northern Illinois.

2 ST. PROCOPIUS FOOTBALL STARS C. Y. O. VICTORS

Two St. Procopius college football players won sectional championships in the C. Y. O. amateur boxing preliminary tournament in the college gymnasium at Lisle last night.

Mike Krak, quarter back, won a three round decision over Herbert Pier of St. Isaacs, Hinsdale, in the welterweight class. Rudy Kerch, knocked out Joe Mekvicka, St. Joseph's of Downers' Grove, in the second round to win the 175 pound championship.

Lightweight—Jack Mont Pas, St. Isaacs, Hinsdale, beat John Maruskin, St. Procopius college [3]; John Skizekut, St. Alexander, Villa Park, beat Dan Lorenzi, St. Isaacs, Hinsdale [3].

Middleweight—Ray Wozniak, St. Alexander, Villa Park, beat Joe Talasous, St. Procopius college [3]; Ed Greten, SS. Peter and Paul, Naperville, beat George Herda, St. Procopius college [3]; Charles Wozniak, St. Alexander, Villa Park, knocked out John Sladek, St. Procopius college [2].

Result of the finals:

Flyweight—Tom Green, St. Isaacs, Hinsdale, beat Joe Schmidt, SS. Peter and Paul, Naperville [3].

Welterweight—Mike Krak, St. Procopius college, beat Herbert Pier, St. Isaacs, Hinsdale [3].

Light heavyweight—Rudy Kerch, St. Procopius college, knocked out Joe Mekvicka, St. Joseph's, Downers Grove [2].

ARTILLERY MEETS WALTON.

De Paul Drills on Defense for St. Thomas Game

De Paul university's football squad engaged in a lengthy scrimmage against St. Thomas plays yesterday. Particular stress was placed on passing defense for the game in St. Paul Sunday.

Results of the scrimmage appeared highly satisfactory to the coaches. The varsity succeeded in stopping the freshman offense. Capt. Matty Steffen, Ernie Butcher, Jim Doody, and Marty Stadler succeeded in breaking up the passes.

Another session of the drill, which was entirely defensive, dealt with halting Wash, star left half of St. Thomas. He is a triple threat man.

Most impressive in the line during the practice were Johnny O'Brien, who is back at tackle; Hal Cherne, another tackle who has just shaken off injuries; Phil Krause, end, and Jim Gorsky, center.

CHICAGO TENNIS ASSOCIATION TO MEET THURSDAY

The annual meeting of the Chicago Tennis association will be held next Thursday at the Hamilton Club of Chicago. Announcement of the ranking of Chicago players for the 1932 season will be made by Leo J. Lunn, chairman of the ranking committee.

Ralph W. Westcott of River Forest has been nominated to succeed Chester C. Johnson, president for the last two years. Other officers nominated are: A. T. Campbell, first vice president; Jack C. Harris, second vice president; Leo F. Boldenweck, secretary, and Walter T. Hayes, treasurer. Boldenweck succeeds Charles L. Thayer, who acted as secretary of the association for seven years.

A. A. Stagg Sr., J. V. McCauley, C. S. De Long, Walter Gallond, W. M. Strack, and Thomas J. McMahon have been nominated as directors of the association, while James C. Stewart, former vice president of the U. S. L. T. A., and C. C. Johnson have been named as ex-president members of the executive committee.

TOOTS MONDT IS GIVEN YEAR FOR DEATH OF GIRL

BARRIE, Ont., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Joe [Toots] Mondt of Colorado, professional wrestler, was sentenced tonight to one year in the Ontario reformatory upon his conviction on charges of criminal negligence in connection with the death of a young Toronto girl in an automobile accident. Mondt was acquitted on a second charge of manslaughter. Counsel for the wrestler announced an appeal would be taken.

Joe College's College? Why, It's Princeton

monia have been known to start yelling "Sweet Adeline" when they sat down to work and wind up writing poetry for the Sunday papers.

Let's Play Journalist.

Ordinarily it is the headquarters of the let's-play-reporter type of journalist who belongs to the undergraduate press club and files a few items a week to the papers here and there about the team's having been riddled by injuries in last week's gruelling contest and the uncertainty as to this week's varsity lineup. But on the big day, the Yale day, every two years, it is overrun on Friday evening after practice by the boys down from New York and Boston and up from Philadelphia and in from just all over, and then the typewriters zing and ding and the kids stomp up and down the rickety, moldy stairs running copy to the wires and fragments of conversation rise above the noise having to do with single, double, and triple wing backs, the diamond defense, the weak side, and all such technical gibberish.

Some heavy hitting journalist cracks a piston in his old upper-case telegraph typewriter and yowls for another and some other one comes up to some one else and says, "That mill was reserved for me; I used it two years ago."

Not So Much Trade Now.

They don't do much business in the cellar on the night of the big biennial day any more since Harvard, Yale, and Princeton, after years of holding out against newspaper emphasis, finally decided to string lights in their press coops and build roofs over them. Now you can write your living, breathing, human documents without leaving the stadium, not forgetting the autumn haze and plenty of old traditional names such as Biffy Lea, Sam White, Doggy Trenchard, and a lot of others that you never even saw and who may have been dead before your time for all you know.

Like Democratic orators yelling about Jackson, Cleveland, and Wilson; like Republican spellbinders howling of Washington, Lincoln, and Theodore Roosevelt, they love their old names at Princeton and the story of a game seems incomplete without a calling of the roll.

SAVOLDI WILL WRESTLE NABORS ON COLISEUM CARD

A sixth match was added yesterday to next Tuesday's wrestling card at the Coliseum. It brings together Jumping Joe Savoldi, the ex-Notre Dame full back, and Sid Nabors, a newcomer from the south.

This is the first time in recent years that six matches have been offered on a single bill. The windup match is between Rudy Dusek of Nebraska and Jim McMillen of Grays Lake, Ill.

Savoldi appeared here two years ago when he was a preliminary performer. This will be one of Joe's infrequent showings in the middle west, as he confines his activity almost exclusively to California and other western states.

NATALIE, NUSS TIE FOR LEAD IN CUE TOURNEY

Pasquale Natalie of Chicago, northern sectional pocket billiard champion, and George Nuss of Atlantic City, N. J., tied for first place in the all star pocket billiard tournament at the Bensinger Randolph room yesterday when the latter defeated William Collingwood, 100 to 69 in 15 innings.

Major White moved into the upper division when he beat Miller of Racine, 100 to 24, in 5 innings. Joe McCann of Detroit whipped Walter Franklin, the southern sectional champion and a participant in the coming world's tournament, 100 to 49, in 9 innings. McCann had a high run of 39, Franklin a 24.

In the other game Coy Julian won from Bennie Allen of Kansas City, 100 to 40, in 11 innings. It was Allen's first defeat.

Notre Dame's Coaches Begin Fearing N. U.

to the solution of the problem than was at hand a week ago.

Notre Dame will be the favorite tomorrow, perhaps a 2 to 1 choice, but the Wildcats, given a better than even break on such surprises as fumbles, etc., can defeat Notre Dame.

Here's how the prospects of the teams stack up:

Irish Are Veterans.

Notre Dame has veteran men for all positions. Northwestern will use first year men in several line positions.

Notre Dame has superior weight, averaging more than ten pounds per man in the line. Despite this weight, the Irish linesmen should be as aggressive and as agile as Northwestern's line. However, Northwestern's hope of stemming the Notre Dame running attack rests primarily on how well its line plays on defense.

Notre Dame has more reserve material, but the fallacy of the theory that reserve material necessarily indicates success was shown when Pittsburgh used only one team to outfinish Notre Dame.

Notre Dame's running attack, based on blocking of its forwards and the backs, and on the speed with which the ball carrier reaches the line of scrimmage, is superior to Northwestern's attack. Should this attack falter the game will be even. If it finally batters down Northwestern's line the result must be a Notre Dame victory.

Olson Best Kicker.

Renter's greatest threat is in receiving Notre Dame's punts. Unless he is covered perfectly, or the kicker places the ball out of reach, Rentner may get away. From scrimmage Olson's plunging probably will be negligible and Jake Sullivan should be more effective than Rentner.

Kicking. Olson should have an advantage in distance which may be nullified by Notre Dame's blocking of Northwestern's ends giving the receiver opportunity for returns.

Passing. This is Northwestern's best offense. With two and possibly three good passers and at least more than average receivers, Northwestern may gain by this attack.

Northwestern's secondary also will be under pressure of Notre Dame's running attack which may lay the secondary open to penetration by passes.

Notwithstanding the one sided tabulation in favor of Notre Dame, Northwestern might win. If so the victory will be by the smallest of margins. Notre Dame should win by two touchdowns and might sweep through a demoralized Northwestern team for more.

CULVER, ST. JOHNS PRACTICE TODAY ON N. U. FIELD

Ranking Officers to See Game Tomorrow.

Final workouts will be held today by the St. Johns and Culver football elevens, which meet tomorrow in their annual charity game at Dyche stadium. Both teams will arrive in Evanston this morning and will work out on the Northwestern field this afternoon.

More than 1,000 cadets from the two schools will parade through Evanston and pass in review at Dyche stadium just before game time. The two corps will be under the command of Col. Robert Rossow, commandant of Culver, and Maj. Charles T. Smythe, commandant of St. Johns.

The service game, which for the last three years has been held in Chicago, will be attended by the ranking army and navy officers in the Chicago area. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commander of the 6th corps area, and Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant of Great Lakes Naval Training station, will be guests of honor.

Auxiliary Sponsors Game.

The game is being sponsored by the Young Women's auxiliary of Evanston, with Mrs. Kenneth L. Wilson and Max Hayford heading the committee in charge.

St. Johns is picked to win, but the same situation existed in the last two games which Culver won. The Delafield cadets are undefeated while the Culver eleven has had two setbacks.

St. Johns will present one of the heaviest teams in the history of prep school football. The line will average nearly 200 pounds from end to end. Among the huskies are Capt. Park Wray, a tackle weighing 220 pounds; Richard Georgi, tackle, 225 pounds; Hugh Hoyt, guard, 190 pounds; Frank Riley, guard, 190 pounds; Pat Carroll, end, 190 pounds; Mike Calvano, center, 187 pounds.

Klich Heaviest Culver Player.

Culver also has big players, but not quite so many of them. Edward Klich, whose home is in Riverside, plays left tackle. He weighs 244 pounds. Irvin Londy, left guard, weighs 203 pounds while James Hack, center and captain, weighs 192 pounds. His home is in Chicago.

Culver's back field, composed largely of veterans, is expected to match St. Johns in speed and power. The Culver ball carriers include Cherry, quarter back; Vaughan and Wieland, half backs, and Sample, full back. The St. Johns back field consists of Eastman quarter back; Swisher and Conrad, half backs, and Geyer, full back.

Unreserved tickets will be placed on sale today. They will cost $1 and admit the purchaser to the second deck.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

PAT O'DEA.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 10.—Pat O'Dea of Wisconsin elevens of the late '90s was one of the greatest kickers in football history. While not of the all-around value of Walter Eckersall, Jim Thorpe, Charlie Brickley, and numerous others, he was almost in a class by himself for sheer distance.

O'Dea made a successful drop kick of 62 yards against Northwestern at old Sheppard field in 1898. The ball sailed over the bars with plenty to spare. Recently, when talking with Dr. Arthur H. Curtis about his greatest football thrill, he laughingly commented: "My greatest surprise was when Pat O'Dea made that long drop kick. I had gone down field to try to tackle the receiver of the kick, stopped and looked around to see where the ball was going. At first I didn't locate it. Then I saw it still soaring and over the goal posts it went. The crowd and nearly every one else, unless O'Dea, were astounded."

O'Dea was an Australian. His expenses at Wisconsin were paid by his brother, Andy O'Dea, long coach of the Badger crews. Pat studied law later. Although a likable fellow, he never was successful in a worldly way and his brother frequently helped him financially. Finally came a letter to his benefactor to the effect that he had been a burden long enough and that he never would trouble him again. That was the last definite word received.

Recently we asked a Wisconsin graduate of O'Dea's time whether any tidings ever came of Pat. We were told of circumstantial but generally credited reports that he enlisted under an assumed name with the Australian forces in the world war and was killed in action.

Attention, Illini!

Here's to a football player
  Whose prowess we all acclaim!
He does not run for Michigan
  And he's not from Notre Dame.
Wisconsin surely saw him, and
  Northwestern got a flash,
The Maroons are still a-talking
  Of his seventy-three yard dash.
The Hoosiers want to meet him
  And then Ohio State.
His recognition comes, of course,
  A couple years too late.
Now, if you want to know him,
  This all-American boy,
He is Capt. Gilbert Berry
  Who romps for Illinois.

Wake: To put many minds at ease as to the whereabouts of Temple's comet, I saw it last Monday night just west of north a few degrees. A beautiful tail followed it. STAGG NAMES 30 TO MAKE TRIP TO MICHIGAN TODAY

Lecture on Pass Defense Ends Drill.

Every member of the University of Chicago football team who is sound of limb—all thirty of them—will make the trip to Ann Arbor at noon today, Coach Stagg announced yesterday. This small band of happy warriors will arrive too late to work out in the camp of the enemy, but they plan a brief pre-train session.

The Maroons yesterday listened to Stagg outline a defense against Michigan passes, then deployed in the field house to try it out. Assistant Coach Kyle Anderson emulated Harry Newman, and his success was too good for such a late day in the week. It is Newman that Stagg fears this Saturday. The Maroons hope to be the Davids who slay the undefeated Goliath of Michigan, but unfortunately Newman has the best sling-shot.

Sahlin, Summers, Zimmer, and Birney comprised Chicago first string back field yesterday. The line positions went to Toigo and Baker, ends; Cassels and John Spearing, tackles; Zenner and Rapp, guards; and Parsons, center.

While Chicago fans are gratified that tomorrow's game should be designated as Stagg day, they point out that on the last two Saturdays the opponents have honored the veteran coach with a pleasant pre-game ceremony and then proceeded to trounce his team.

MICHIGAN DEFENSE TESTED.

Shots were fed off the finger tips of Harry Newman, Herman Everhardus, and Russell Oliver, and enough of them found their marks to indicate that the Wolverine attack is in good shape. Coach Harry Kipke reiterated that he would throw his full strength at the Maroons at the kickoff. Kipke said he believed the Maroons far too dangerous to use his reserves.

It appears that Ward and Capt. Williamson will start at the ends, Wistert and Austin at tackles, Savage and Cantrill, guards; Bernard, center; and Newman, Everhardus, Fay, and Petoskey in the back field.

Saturday's game is designated as Stagg day. The veteran Maroon director, Amos Alonzo Stagg, will be presented with a silver service, by the M club, Michigan monogram organization. The presentation will take place on the field before the game.

NEW ILLINI FULL BACK.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Johnny Snook, who has shown marked improvement all week, became a possible starter against Indiana today as he moved up to first string full back on the Illinois football team. At any rate, he will alternate here Saturday with Herman Walser.

Practicing outdoors for the first time since Monday, the squad went through a long scrimmage against freshmen squads who employed Indiana plays. Jack Beynon, new first string quarter back, handled the punting for the varsity and got off some long spirals. Howard Johnson was again in the line at left guard. Ack Bodman will be in shape to open against the Hoosiers at right guard. Casey Straw, Ivan Schustek, ends; Bart Cummings, Red Gragg, tackles; and Bob Bloom, center, were the other first string linemen.

HOOSIERS IN FINAL DRILL.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—A comparatively light workout here this afternoon terminated Indiana's preparations for the invasion of Illinois grid camp Saturday. Passing, signal drills, formation practice, and dummy scrimmage made up the afternoon.

The Hoosiers leave for Champaign tomorrow morning and no workout is scheduled, although the players are to look over the scene of the game late in the afternoon. All the men, with the exception of Dickey, star end, who is injured, are reported in fair shape. Martich probably will replace Dickey.

PURDUE OFF FOR IOWA.

The squad will go direct to Davenport, where it will establish head quarters until Saturday morning just before the game, when the trip to Iowa City will be completed. Kizer plans to hold a light workout tomorrow morning and possibly allow the squad to attend an Armistice day high school football game in the afternoon.

The following 34 players made the trip:

Ends—Dick Bateman, George Duggins, Frank Haas, Emmett Lowery, Ben Merz, Paul Moss.

Guards—Fritz Febel, Byron Huggins, Clarence Janecek, Howard Letsinger, Wayne Rhodes, Robert Peters.

Centers—John Oehler, Martin Westerman, Arthur Lawrence, James Bolcum.

Quarterbacks — Paul Pardonner, James Peelle, Fred Keegan.

Half backs—George Basker, Duane Purvis, William Riblet, Vincent Cherico, Vernon Craig, Fred Hecker.

Full backs—Roy Horstmann, Howard Keegan, Roland Kurtz.

HAWKS STOP PURDUE PASSES.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Despite snow flurries, which continued throughout the practice period, Coach Ossie Solem gave the University of Iowa football squad a long session on forward pass defense outdoors today.

First string backs had fair success in grounding the tosses to freshmen using Purdue aerial plays. Bill Boelter, yearling coach, did the passing. Solem started Teyro, Laws, Schneidman and Page in the first string back field, which scrimmaged for half an hour against the freshmen. It was the last regular practice before the Purdue game, since only light signal drill will be held Friday.

Badger Eleven Holds Final Drill Indoors

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin Badgers will meet Minnesota's football team Saturday without a day of heavy scrimmage since the game last Saturday with Illinois.

Coach Doc Spears took his men into the University fieldhouse again this afternoon when it became apparent that the outdoor field was not acceptable. Practice again was limited to light scrimmage in which the players were not allowed to tackle forcibly because of the hard clay floor. The floor has been harrowed, but is considered too hard for the players to fall on.

Coaches Stress Defense.

First and second team men were given no scrimmage Monday following the usual program of a day of rest after a Saturday game. Tuesday it rained and dummy practice was held indoors. Wednesday was a repetition of Tuesday, and today the outdoor field was covered with patches of snow in addition to puddles of water.

Practice for the varsity was limited tonight chiefly to defense. Coaches are confident Wisconsin will be able to gain against the Gophers, but they are not sure the Badgers' line can hold back the heavy Minnesota running attack.

Team in Good Condition.

Coach Spears said his men are in almost perfect condition for the Gopher game. Chiefly because of the week of indoor practice, the Badgers have no serious injuries and few minor bruises have been reported.

Frank Molinaro has taken over his tackle job with renewed vigor after recuperating from the grippe. Although he could have entered dummy scrimmage earlier in the week, coaches ruled it inadvisable.

Indoor scrimmage during the last two days has indicated Red Peterson may be in the starting lineup Saturday at half back in place of Joe Linfor. Although Linfor has a record of making an average of nearly four yards each time he was given a chance to carry the ball, Peterson is a track man and is considered much faster as an open field runner.

CRIPPLED GOPHERS LEAVE.

And as the Gophers boarded their special cars, Coach Bierman was undecided as to his starting lineup. He planned to star Jack Manders at full back unless his injured leg takes a turn for the worse before game time. He will have other regulars who have done little or no practicing this week at their usual posts, but he's not sure how long they will hold up.

Tonight's workout was light and short. Manders ran a few signals with the regulars and Brad Robinson was back at end, but both were far from fit.

1905 Maroons Tell '32 Team It Can Win

Five men who played for A. A. Stagg in 1905, when the Maroons, as underdogs, upset a Michigan team which had won 55 consecutive victories, last night told Stagg's team of 1932 that Michigan can be beaten.

"If you will not be beaten, you can't lose," was the burden of the charge. The five, who appeared as the climax of the Chicago Alumni club's annual football banquet at the La Salle hotel, were Mark Catlin, captain of the Maroons that year, Merrill C. Meigs, Leo De Tray, Dan Boone, and Fred Walker. Catlin played the game with two broken ribs, and De Tray played despite a warning that he might lose the sight of one eye, Meigs told the assemblage of 300.

Praises Coach Stagg.

Much praise was poured on Coach Stagg, who, when he rose to acknowledge it, turned to the freshman team, and said, with a smile, "Do you freshmen know the meaning of the word 'hyperbole'?

"Maybe I won't see you again on one of these occasions," the Old Man continued. "But it's all right with me. I've served the university as well as I could. If it's the will of the university and my successor, I could retire happy. I could go back to the farm. We have one in the family. It took $1,700 of my salary last year.

Mentions Missionary Offer.

"Last week a man asked me to go into the far west and do some missionary work for a group of small colleges. I didn't say I wouldn't do it. I came west as a missionary, and that spirit is still in me. He said, 'We can't pay you much,' and I said, 'I'll be happy as long as I can live and do some worth while work. It will always be my ambition to build boys into better men. The biblical quotation which has helped me most is, 'Do with thy might whatever thy hand findeth to do.'"

John Schommer, Maroon alumnus and conference official, told the team he understood that they belonged to one of the smartest college classes in the country. "You'll never be too smart for Michigan," he said. Schommer also expressed the opinion that in a ten game series both Purdue and Ohio State could win seven over Michigan.

WHEATON ACES PLAY BERWYN.

De Paul Back Forgets Hurts for Mt. Carmel

Bill Steinkemper, De Paul academy full back, will be in the starting lineup Sunday afternoon against Mount Carmel despite a hip injury, Coach Wally McGovern said yesterday. The winner of the game, which will be played at Loyola field, Sheridan road and Loyola avenue, will meet the west section champion for the Catholic High School league championship on Nov. 20.

All other members of the squad are in good condition, McGovern said. De Paul with 98 points is the high scoring team of the Chicago district. It scored four consecutive victories in winning the north section title.

Sunday's game will be the second between De Paul and Mount Carmel this season. In a practice game they fought to a scoreless tie. Mount Carmel also has scored four straight victories in league competition and its goal has not been crossed.

Fenwick Meets Ignatius.

Fenwick and St. Ignatius will meet at Crevier stadium, Van Buren and Albany street, in another league game which probably will decide the west section championship. St. Ignatius is in second place and can tie St. Mel for the title by defeating Fenwick.

Evanston's undefeated eleven will seek the championship of the Suburban league when it plays New Trier at Phelps field in Winnetka tomorrow. Evanston, which has won four games, is assured of at least a share of the title, as New Trier is in second place with three victories and one defeat.

New Trier suffered its only defeat at the hands of Proviso, 7 to 6. It scored its third victory by overwhelming Deerfield last Saturday.

Dougherty Only Fooling.

The survivors of the Chicago Public High School league race, Harrison Tech, Morgan Park, Englewood, and Schurz, will end practice today for their semi-final games tomorrow. Schurz will meet Morgan Park at Logan Square park, Kedzie and Elston avenue, and Harrison will face Englewood at Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue.

Englewood has been made the favorite over Harrison, which is seeking its second successive title. In this Coach Bob Dougherty of the west side team was reported to have concurred. However, those who have followed Harrison's practice this week report that Dougherty in reality is of the opposite opinion and that he has been shrewdly attempting to instill overconfidence in the Englewood eleven.

Gary College Eleven Beats Notre Dame B Team, 7 to 6

felt as though my hair was standing up—and I don't doubt that it was. Those adrenal glands [Editor's note: Perhaps Dr. Curtis didn't say adrenal glands, but it was some medical term we didn't understand] were evidently pouring their juices through our systems. This feeling lasted all through the first half, and in running down the field on the kickoff and on punts I didn't even sense the turf under my feet.

Now for the game itself. We probably played inspired football, for we made all our 18 points against a heavier team in the first half. The newspapers called our game the "Princeton system" of open play and end runs, in contrast with mass formations of Minnesota. Our first points were a safety when Haummerson, our left tackle, blocked one of Knowlton's punts and Gil Dobie, now coach at Cornell, fell on it back of his own goal line.

Shortly after, we had the ball in the middle of the field and Norsky Larson went to work with his brilliant charges. Bill Juneau, at my end, and I, at right tackle, were supposed to follow Larson through his openings and push him farther. Why, the first time he went through he was gone so quickly, under similar emotions, I suppose, that we couldn't get started in time to help.

At Minnesota's 5 yard line we employed one of our pet plays, a double pass, and we put the ball over for the touchdown. Our second touchdown came when Larson got around right end for 35 yards. [Note—Dr Curtis modestly neglected to relate that his recovery of two fumbles paved the way for this score, and that interference by himself and Juneau took off tacklers.]

Our third touchdown was something of a gift, or so it seemed to me. Dobie fumbled and the ball bounded to me. At the time it seemed as if he just handed me the ball and that all I had to do was to run 45 yards with nobody in front of me, although Abbott was accompanying me as interferer to head off any one who might come from behind.

Our team on that day lined up: Abbott, l. e.; Haummerson, l. t.; Lerum, l. g.; Skow and Holstein, c.; Wescott, r. g.; myself, r. t.; Juneau, r. e.; Marshall, q. b.; Cochems, l. h.; Larson, r. h.; Driver, f. b. Driver did our punting. Minnesota had Capt. Rogers, former Carlisle player, l. e.; Fee, l. t.; Flynn, l. g.; Page, c.; Strathern, r. g.; Schacht, r. t.; Aune, r. e.; Dobie, q. b.; Thorp, l. h.; Lefans r. h., and Knowlton, f. b.

When I think of those days when victory or defeat meant so much to us I never see a group of boys come off the field defeated now without feeling sorry for them. And when I think of how badly I play golf I am more tolerant of the frequent errors and fumbles, for, after all, these are only boys feeling more keenly their own misplays and defeats than any spectator possibly can.

Art Curtis, now Dr. Arthur H. Curtis, head professor of gynecology and obstetrics at Northwestern university medical school and staff head of the same department at Passavant hospital, was designated by the late Walter Eckersall in one of a series of articles as the greatest Wisconsin player of all time. He was captain in the game described here. For three years he was named on the all-western eleven and as captain in his final year. Dr. Curtis coached at the University of Missouri one year and was head coach at Wisconsin in 1903 and 1904. He studied medicine at Rush Medical college, with an interneship at Cook county hospital. After more study in Vienna he began the practice of medicine in Chicago. A daughter, freshman in high school, has a fondness for all sports. Arthur Hale Curtis Jr., a sturdy youngster of 7 years, already has started practicing with a football to become a great player at Wisconsin some years hence. Dr. Curtis resides in Evanston.

PENN PLAYERS ANXIOUS TO SEE THEIR "QUEEN"

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Regardless of the outcome of their game with Ohio State on Saturday, the University of Pennsylvania gridiron warriors, roaring westward tonight, have at least one treat in store at Columbus.

They will see the girl they selected from the photographs of five beautiful co-eds to be the home coming queen, who will reign at the dance the night before the game.

As yet she is just a beautiful mystery to the Penn gridders, for the photos from which she was chosen bore only numbers for identification. They were sent east by the Ohio State Alumni association.

Blackhawks Lose Hockey Opener, 3 to 1

pened after 9 minutes and 45 seconds of play.

Bostrum Just Misses.

After getting this second point the Red Wings were denied the help of Aurie, who was caught slashing with his war club, but, even with five men against six, the home talent furnished Gardiner with a series of dizzy minutes. Aurie no sooner returned than Lewis was banished for a similar offense. With full squads in action the Hawks threw some pepper into the last few minutes of the period by some long shots, one by Bostrum barely missing. In a swarm around the Detroit net Couture had the puck within a few feet of the hostile goalie, but couldn't penetrate the defense.

Except for some one man expeditions by the elusive Gottselig the front portion of the final quarter was distinctly tame until the Hawks shifted to a lineup of five forwards. Just prior to this maneuver, Abel had been sentenced to the jail house, thus entitling the crowd to another heavy boo against the Chicago giant. Abel did nothing more than trip Evans, one of the Detroit defense men.

Hawks Get a Goal.

With four men aiding him in his purpose, Gottselig finally worked the rubber to within a few feet of the Detroit net when he was suddenly spilled and sent skidding against the back boards. While Gottselig was picking self up, his mates recaptured the puck and kept it until he could dash behind the webbing to come in from Goalie Roach's right. At that instant Thompson drove the disk in front of Gottselig, who slapped it into the net in 18:45.

In less than another minute the Hawks were involved in another close up sortie when a Red Wing slapped the puck into center ice. Wiseman, coming down the right side, picked up the rubber, carried it up in front of Gardiner and slapped it into the net before the defender could shift his position. Wiseman was traveling at such terrific speed that he dived into the net along with the puck. The time was 19:45.

GRANGE, CLARK, SCORING STARS, IN DUEL SUNDAY

Rivalry Adds Interest to Spartan-Bear Game.

Two scoring leaders of the National Professional Football league, Dutch Clark and Red Grange, will be in action Sunday afternoon when the Portsmouth Spartans and the Chicago Bears meet at Wrigley field.

Clark leads the league with a total of 34 points—four touchdowns, four points after touchdowns and two field goals, while Grange has crossed opponents' goal lines five times for 30 points.

They're Evenly Matched.

These two stars also are up with the leaders in other averages and expect to improve their status in the forthcoming contest, which also will see the Bears supplant the visitors in second place if victorious.

The two teams are well matched in scoring power, the Spartans having registered 67 points in seven games while the Bears have made 62 points. The Bears have held their opposition to 24 points while Portsmouth has yielded 42.

Both gave Green Bay a hard battle but in recent games the Bears have shown more power. The Spartans nosed out the Giants while the Bears defeated that club, 28 to 8. The Spartans also had a hard time downing Stapleton, 13 to 6, as against a 27 to 7 victory by the Bears.

Spartans Arrive Early.

The Spartans arrived in Chicago last night, two days earlier than usual, to insure proper rest for the players. They are quartered at the Commonwealth hotel, Diversey and Pine Grove avenues.

The Bears signed John Doehring yesterday. The new man, a half back, is 6 feet tall, weighs 212 pounds and is 23 years old. He attended West Division High school in Milwaukee, the Kentucky Military institute of Lyndon, Ky., and the Illinois Military school of Abingdon, Ill. Individual scoring:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—Domestic bonds of most descriptions rallied today in tune with an upswing in stocks. Treasury issues, however, lacked strength. Trading was in small volume.

Domestic corporation bonds shared strength with railroad liens. Duplicating their performance of yesterday, they sold off rather sharply in early trading and then staged a smart recovery.

Treasury Bonds Sag.

Treasury bonds were inclined to sag without much actual trading. There was no news to account for this either in the trend of money rates or in treasury developments. The new issue of $75,000,000 bills, announced today, is a routine matter.

The drop in United States government security prices was not limited to any portion of the list, but embraced all maturities from the huge Liberty issues to the recent offerings of intermediate maturing notes.

Rail Issues Volatile.

Rail bonds again were the most volatile issues on the recovery, with some of the issues of Baltimore and Ohio especially prominent. Public utility bonds rallied sharply in such instances as American and Foreign Power 5s and International Telephone convertible 4½s.

Canadian bonds rallied on small dealings today after two days of steady decline. Canadian exchange improved with these bonds. Argentines were one or two points lower and Australians were heavy. German government issues were quiet and steady and other bonds of that nationality were irregular.

Various industrial bonds showed rallying power. These include American Metal 5½s, issues of Sinclair Oil and others.

NEW ISSUE.

Loft, Inc.

We have some shares of Loft, Inc., an eastern concern. Will you kindly give your opinion as to its standing?—J. H. M.

Loft, Inc., manufactures candies, which it retails through its own stores and Happiness Candy Stores, Inc., which it controls, in New York, Philadelphia, and Boston. It also does a wholesale candy business. On Sept. 24, 1932, a press dispatch stated that the company had arranged to take over the candy departments of a Detroit chain of sixty stores.

Sales for September, 1932, were 15.73 per cent less than for September, 1931, but sales for the first nine months of 1932 were $9,973,000, a 2.89 per cent increase from $9,693,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. On Sept. 13 last President Guth estimated total 1932 sales at $16,000,000.

Net profit for the first half of 1932 was $102,000, or 9 cents per share, against net profit of $219,000, or 21 cents per share, for the first half of 1931.

Sales for 1931 were $14,317,000, against $9,658,000 for 1930 and $7,001,000 for 1929. The increase was partly due to the increase in number of outlets operated. Net income in 1931 was $367,000, or 34 cents per share, against net loss of $84,000 for 1930 and net income of $6,000 for 1929.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $1,744,000 and current liabilities were $1,129,000. Cash was $810,000. Notes payable of $256,000 were eliminated during 1931. Working capital was $615,000, against $515,000 the year before.

There is a mortgage of $420,000 outstanding. There is no other long term debt. Capitalization consists of 1,073,529 shares of no par common. Nothing has been paid on the stock since 1922. It is just a speculation.

Utah Gas and Coke.

Will you please give me a report on Utah Gas and Coke 5s?—T. O.

Utah Gas and Coke company, a subsidiary of Western Public Service corporation (Del.), furnishes natural gas to Salt Lake City and vicinity.

Gross revenues for 1931 were $890,000, against $791,000 for 1930, $635,000 for 1929, and $740,000 for 1928.

In 1931 loss before fixed charges was $179,000 and fixed charges were $412,000. In 1930 loss before fixed charges was $305,000 and fixed charges were $192,000. In 1929 the company earned one-third of its charges and in 1928 charges were covered 1.11 times.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $951,000 and current liabilities were $5,301,000. Cash was $18,000 and notes payable were $4,887,000.

RESERVE BANKS SHOW MORE CASH IN CIRCULATION

Member Balances Shrink —Brokers' Loans Down.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—Reflecting the increased demands for pocket money on election day, money in circulation rose another $35,000,000 in the week ended on Wednesday, the federal reserve reports revealed today. This expansion of currency in use follows a seasonal advance of $32,000,000 last week and lifted the total of money outstanding to $5,651,000,000, which was $134,000,000 above the amount outstanding on the corresponding day last year.

The week's rise was not in accordance with the normal seasonal movement of money, which usually shows a temporary return flow of currency after the first week of November. In the last year of a presidential election, however, 1928, the rise of money in circulation in the week in which the election occurred was $46,000,000.

Reserve Balances Cut.

As was the case last week, the increase in circulation, combined with a relatively small gain in monetary gold stocks (a rise of $4,000,000 was reported), forced member banks to drawn down their reserve balances with the reserve banks by $42,000,000. Excess reserves of the member banks are estimated currently at about $450,000,000.

Although monetary gold stocks were up only $4,000,000 in the week, the gold reserves of the federal reserve system gained $6,000,000. Reserve note circulation rose $14,000,000 in the week, indicating that most of the week's increased demand for currency had been supplied by national bank notes and other forms of money.

Brokers' Loans Down.

Reflecting the drawing down of member bank reserves, deposit liabilities of the reserve system dropped $49,221,000. The ratio of reserves to note and deposit liabilities rose slightly to 62.4 per cent, against 62.1 per cent a week ago.

The report of member banks of the federal reserve in New York City, issued in connection with the weekly returns of the reserve banks, showed a fall of $2,000,000 in loans to brokers and dealers, bringing the total down to $360,000,000. The drop occurred in loans made by the reporting member banks for their own accounts loans for the account of out of town banks and others being unchanged.

DARK WEATHER HELPS CHICAGO ELECTRICITY USE

The Chicago district's output of electricity for the week ending Nov. 5 totaled 92,997,000 kilowatt hours as compared with 99,976,000 in the corresponding week of last year, a difference of 7 per cent. This information was made public yesterday in a report issued by the Commonwealth Edison company.

The report pointed out that the recession last week was characteristic of early November, but the falling off in kilowatt hours was not as much as last year and as a result the percentage comparison is higher this week.

For the country as a whole the output of electricity for the week totaled 1,525,310,000 kilowatt hours, a decrease of 8,000,000 kilowatt hours from the preceding week. The decrease from the corresponding period in 1931 was 6.3 per cent, which was said to be the most favorable comparison since early this year.

Last week's decline was the first in several weeks, but it was described as being mostly seasonal. The decline of 8,000,000 kilowatt hours last week compared with a decrease of 23,000,000 kilowatt hours between the weeks of Oct. 29 and Nov. 5, 1931.

Australia Wheat Growers Receive $6,000,000 Subsidy

CANBERRA, Australia, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Prime Minister Lyons announced today that the government will grant £1,250,000 [$6,000,000 at par] for the assistance of wheat growers. He also announced a subsidy of roughly $5,000,000 to producers of superphosphates, and a reduction in taxes of about $[illegible],000,000.

CLOSING PLEAS HEARD IN GRAIN BOARD'S APPEAL

3 Judges Take Case Under Advisement.

Oral arguments in the appeal of the Chicago Board of Trade from the federal grain commission's order suspending it as a futures market for 60 days were completed yesterday before the United States Court of Appeals.

The arguments were heard by Presiding Judge Samuel Alschuler and Associate Judges Evan A. Evans and Will M. Sparks. The suspension order which was issued last July is being held in abeyance pending completion of the exchange's appeal. After the hearing yesterday the court took the case under advisement.

Attorney Weymouth Kirkland, representing the board of trade, argued that the board of trade clearing house was justified in denying membership to the Farmers' National Grain corporation because the latter failed to comply with admission requirements.

Investigation Usual.

He said that when the grain corporation applied for membership the board of trade began an investigation of its financial standing according to the usual practice. Officials of the corporation, he asserted, failed to furnish the required information and lodged a complaint with Secretary of Agriculture Hyde protesting the board's investigation. This complain was premature, Kirkland asserted.

He pointed out that it was known that the corporation had borrowed $16,000,000 from the farm board on demand notes and had transacted business amounting to $245,000,000 during a 21 months period. The purpose of these transactions were to stabilize and control the price of grain and it was necessary for the exchange to ascertain the financial responsibility of the corporation before granting membership.

Defend Firms Complaint.

Attorney Carl Meyer, counsel for the grain corporation, told the court that the complaint his client had made to the grain commission had not been premature. He declared that the board of trade knew the corporation was acting on behalf of the farm board, a federal agency, and its financial responsibility was apparent. He pointed out that the exchange had already expelled the Updike Grain corporation, another farm board unit, from the clearing house and that the harm had already been done before the complaint was made.

Other attorneys who appeared were I. B. Goldsmith, representing the grain corporation; Wendell Berge and John Lord O'Brien, counsel for the grain futures commission and E. A. Marshall, representing the United States department of agriculture.

It is expected that the case will go to the United States Supreme court. Both sides have expressed their determination to press this arguments to the highest tribunal.

CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE SEATS FALL IN VALUE

Membership Nets $4,000 as Ticker Lags.

BY THOMES FURLONG.

A membership on the Chicago Stock exchange was sold yesterday for $4,000. This was the first sale reported since Sept. 10, when a seat brought $9,500. As a result of the slow, declining markets during the last 45 days the seats have lost the advance scored during the August-September recovery.

Memberships were quoted as low as $2,500 earlier this year. The volume of trading on the exchange has been running around 15,000 shares in recent weeks. During the last few days a material expansion in business has taken place.

Prices Rise, Too.

Yesterday approximately 41,000 shares were dealt in. The ticker tape has been moving at a faster clip since the preelection dullness lifted.

Prices also moved up yesterday in common with the general trend in all security markets. The sponsored market in Prima common was a feature of the trading. Supporting interests put the price up another fraction to 15 on a turnover of approximately 5,700 shares.

Brisk dealing developed in the merchandise shares, such as Marshall Field and Sears-Roebuck. Field was bringing 7½ when the trading ended, about a point better than its previous quotation. Sears moved up following the trend in New York.

Packing Shares Dull.

Trading in the packing shares was dull in the face of the live stock price advance. Both Swift and Swift International, however, were bringing higher prices on the limited transactions.

Lynch Corporation common was an outstanding gainer, moving up over 2 points to 13⅛. The company supplies glass manufacturing machinery to glass container plants. The stock has been aggressively pushed recently on theory that the company stands to benefit from a change in the prohibition law.

ON MONDAY EVENING OCTOBER 31, GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT SPOKE IN BOSTON

He said in part:

"No mere emergency measures of relief are adequate. Our goal must be to secure permanence of employment."

"There has long been overdue a reduction of the hours of work."

"The fruits of industry will be dead fruits unless men earn enough so that they can buy the things that are produced."

"I seek to restore the purchasing power of the nation. That, and only that, will put people back to work."

These statements commend themselves to men and women of every political creed. They point the way to progress and prosperity.

To translate them into fact, the new President will need the support of every loyal American—belief in his purpose and faith in his ability. He will not fail.

We stand on the threshold of a new opportunity.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Convinced that the easy money policy of the federal reserve board and the low interest rates on government securities are to continue, Chicago banks are taking steps to reduce their overhead and protect their earnings.

Next Monday the clearing house committee is scheduled to take up the matter of reduction of the interest rate on savings deposits.

The proposal to cut the rate from 3 to 2 or 2¼ per cent has been discussed by directors and officers of individual banks during the last week. Most banks are reported to favor the reduction, but definite action has been postponed until all of the banks shall have had time to consider it fully.

Must Give 30 Days' Notice.

A reduction in the interest rate must be preceded by a notice to depositors given 30 days in advance. Those who favor the cut urge that it be made as of Jan. 1 and that the notice be given on Dec. 1.

Meanwhile bank officials yesterday disclosed that they have been cutting millions from the amount of postal savings deposits held by them.

This business, they explain, is not profitable under the present circumstances. They pay the federal government 2½ per cent on such deposits. Then they turn around and invest the money in government securities yielding a seventh to a fourth of 1 per cent.

In addition, they point out, they must go to the trouble and expense of forwarding collateral to Washington to secure the deposits of postal savings. Shipping and insurance costs must be added to the 2½ per cent.

No Concerted Action.

"There is no concerted action among the banks toward reducing postal savings deposits, but the move is becoming quite general among large metropolitan banks," the cashier of one loop bank said yesterday.

"In addition to the unprofitable nature of this business we have a dislike for it because it creates a class of preferred creditors.

"As the large metropolitan banks reduce their postal savings deposits this government money is forced into smaller country banks. If money continues as easy as at present it will probably be only a matter of time before the smaller banks likewise decline to accept postal savings."

Thus, the reserve board's easy money policy and the treasury's program of financing almost entirely with low interest rate, short term paper seem destined to put the postal savings system squarely in the middle.

Postal System's Dilemma.

The big banks have already discovered that postal savings are not profitable. When the smaller banks also discover it the postal savings system will have to do one of three things—either accept a lower rate of interest from the banks, pay less to the people who deposit their money in postoffices, or sustain heavy deficits to be made up by the taxpayers.

The director of the postal savings system in Washington, in answer to an inquiry, stated yesterday that at the close of September postal savings totaled $855,000,000. Of this approximately $72,000,000 was invested in bonds and approximately $43,000,000 was held as the 5 per cent reserve required by law, the remainder being deposited in banks.

Operation of the postal savings system has already indirectly cost the taxpayers a lot of money this year. Of the 72 millions of the postal savings system's bond investments approximately 60 millions, according to most recent information, were invested in federal land bank bonds.

It was to bolster up these bonds that the federal government early this year gave 125 million dollars to the federal land banks for additional capital.

POUND, STEADY FOR LAST WEEK, FALLS 1½ CENTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—The pound sterling suffered another sinking spell today, falling at one time to $3.28, nearly 2 cents cheaper than the previous day's closing price and finishing at $3.28⅝, off 1½ cents on the day. Apart from the further discussions of the question of payment on Dec. 15 of the $95,500,000 due on Great Britain's war debt to the United States there were no visible factors to account for the renewed decline.

Sterling has been fairly steady for about a week in the neighborhood of $3.30, after its sharp fall of two weeks ago when the Bank of England pulled the peg that had kept the pound above $3.45.

MARKET SUMMARY

NEW YORK STOCKS—Strong. Wednesday's losses retrieved.

CHICAGO STOCKS—Higher. Trading expands.

FOREIGN EXCHANGES—Irregular. Sterling soft.

WHEAT—Higher. Eastern buying. Foreigners buy Manitobas.

CORN—Higher. Local buying. Dry law change helps prices.

CATTLE—Steady to higher.

HOGS—Steady to 15c higher—top, $4.00. Advance 65c over recent low.

COTTON—Higher. Close at top, gains $1.50 a bale.

SUGAR—Steady. Short covering a feature.

COFFEE—Quiet. Brazilian markets firm.

PRODUCE—Butter, firmer. Eggs, higher.

Hogs Reach $4 on 7th Day of Rising Prices

Top hogs reached the $4.00 line on yesterday's early bulge, but trading slowed down considerably after the 5@15c rise and closing sales were back to the preceding session's high spot. The general average for the day moved up 5c to $3.80, showing 65c advance compared with the middle of last week. The price has gained steadily in the last seven trading days.

Buyers balked as the session opened with all the earmarks of another strong to higher market. There was a rather lengthy lull in trading when some of the smaller houses withdrew for several hours after placing out a few steady bids. Early strength did not last long, but when prices began to ebb buyers reappeared and a fairly good clearance was effected.

Loin Prices Leap Up.

The acute shortage of fresh pork caused by the small receipts of hogs the last few days sent the wholesale market for loins into another wild advance. Top light loins jumped to 14c, showing 6c advance in less than a week. On November 10 last year top loins in Chicago sold at 13c.

Yesterday's prices were above those at all the leading eastern distributing centers. Boston reported a top of 12½c on light loins, with the New York top at 12c and Philadelphia at 11c. There was some sign of a slight increase in the movement of hogs at points west of Chicago.

Cattle Move Upward.

With the exception of weighty beef steers, which have been a heavy drag on the cattle market for several days, practically all classes of bovine stock headed upward yesterday. Light steers and butcher stock led the advance, with 982@1,239 lb steers outselling all else. Several carloads of these weights topped the market at $8.00.

Many of the medium to good grades of 900@1,200 lb cattle sold at $6.25@7.50. Some fleshy 1,300@1,425 lb steers brought $6.25 and common 700@1,100 lb averages went at $4.00@5.00.

In almost all instances the lighter weight cattle sold at a premium. For many months, until this week, the weighty stock outsold light steers and yearlings of comparable quality and finish.

Cows and heifers got good action at strong to 25c higher prices again. Canners and cutters ruled steady to 10c higher. Bulls advanced 10@15c, and calves were up 25@50c for the day.

Further Gains by Lambs.

Lambs scored further gains of 25c in yesterday's brisk session, reaching the highest price levels in eight weeks.

According to reports from the wholesale trade, coolers are well cleared of lamb carcasses and they are selling at the highest prices since the middle of last month. Prices here are 1@2c per pound lower than at eastern points, where action is the best in recent weeks.

Outside buyers were aggressive in the lamb market. City butchers handpicked natives up to $6.35, while the rank and file of natives and fed westerns sold to packers and shippers at $5.75@6.25, 100 lb averages at the outside figure.

COURT ENJOINS LIGGETT FROM BANKRUPT PLEA

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP)—An order restraining the Louis K Liggett company, chain drug store operator, from filing voluntary bankruptcy proceedings was issued today by Federal Judge George A. Welsh on petition of the 1524-42 Market Street Realty company, owner of a property here which the Liggett company occupies under a lease.

In the petition the realty concern charged the drug company was contemplating bankruptcy proceedings for the purpose of breaking leases on several store properties. It was alleged the drug company had attempted to "terrorize" landlords. Counsel for the plaintiff concern stated the Liggett company had a $30,000,000 surplus as of Dec. 31 last.

Affiliated companies also were named as defendants in the action. The restraining order will remain in effect until next Thursday, when the court will hear argument in injunction proceedings.

EXTEND NEVADA'S BANK HOLIDAY FOR TWO WEEKS

Reno, Nev., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Gov. F. B. Balzar late today issued a proclamation extending Nevada's bank holiday for another two weeks, stating that more time was needed to reorganize Nevada's banking system.

The governor also asserted today he will not call a special session of the legislature if it can possibly be avoided. He added that he is opposed to having the legislature declare a tax moratorium as had been previously planned.

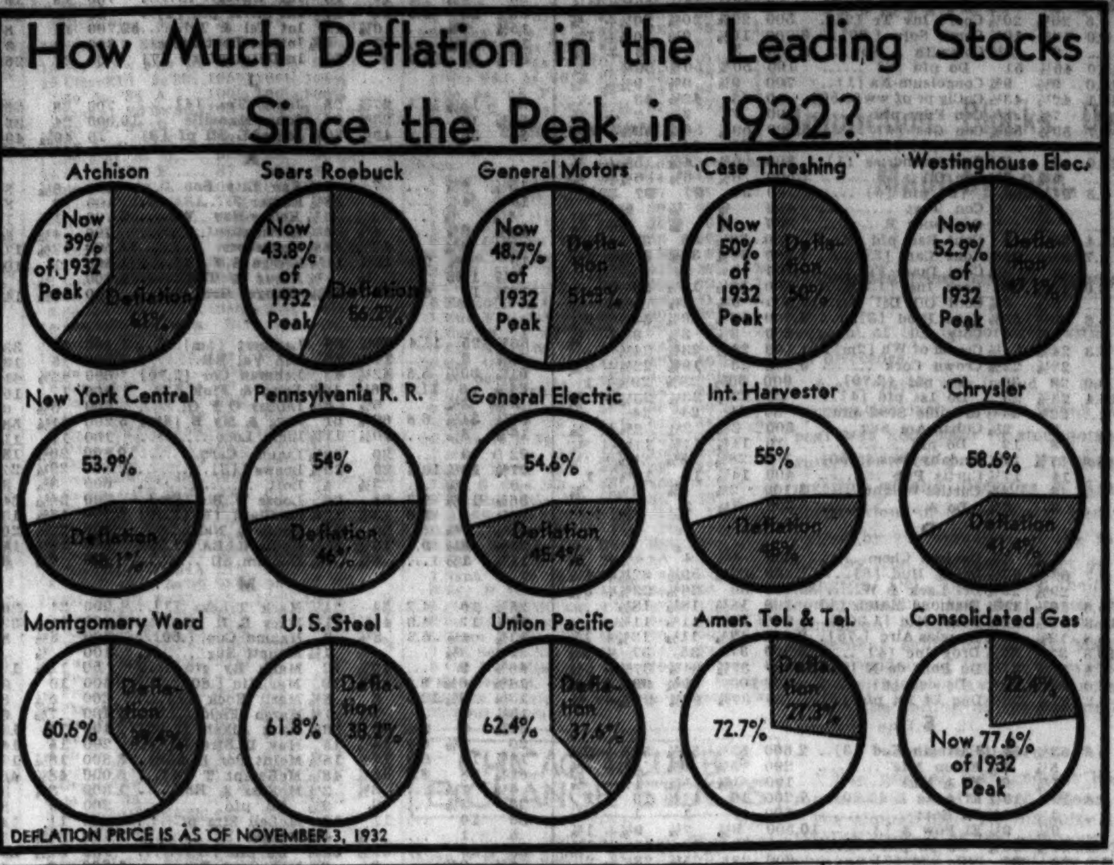
Wisconsin Upholds Order Suspending Chicago Firm

Madison, Wis., Nov. 10.—(AP)—A request for a modification of its order suspending the Wisconsin brokers' license of the Halsey-Stuart company was denied today by the state public service commission.

All North American grain exchanges will be closed today, Armistice day. Chicago security exchanges, including the stock and curb exchanges, also will be closed, as well as banks. Today is not a legal holiday in New York and all markets there, including the New York Stock exchange, will be open for business. The only market in Chicago to remain open is the live stock market. Trading will be resumed here Saturday.



Drake Towers Conveyed to Bondholders

BY AL CHASE.

Title to the thirty story Drake Towers apartments at 179 Lake Shore drive was conveyed yesterday by the Drake Towers Building corporation to Walter L. Cohrs, nominee of the bondholders' protective committee, as a preliminary step in a reorganization plan to be announced shortly. This action, of course, obviates the costs incidental to foreclosure and receivership. In addition, to receiving title to the property the bondholders' nominee has had assigned to him all existing leases, receivables, etc., by the equity owners.

JOHN T. WHEELER. [Koehne Photo.]

Drake Towers, adjoining the Drake hotel on the east, was completed in October, 1929. It was financed by a $3,200,000 issue of 6 per cent first mortgage bonds underwritten by the Union Trust company, now a part of the First Union Trust and Savings bank. This has been paid down to $2,977,000.

Designed by Marshall.

The project was owned by the Drake Towers Building corporation, of which Benjamin H. Marshall is a large stockholder. He also was architect and constructor of the building. It contains sixty unfurnished apartments ranging in size from two to twelve rooms. In addition there's a four story garage in the rear. The property fronts 110 feet on both Lake Shore drive and Walton place. It is 218½ feet deep. Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann, Levinson & Morse are the attorneys.

On Aug. 1, 1932, both principal and interest defaulted. A bondholders' protective committee was formed composed of the following: I. L. Porter, vice president First Union Trust and Savings bank, chairman; B. C. Hardenbrook, vice president of the same bank; John T. Wheeler of John T. Wheeler & Co., builders; H. Verdelin of Minneapolis; A. M. Hewitt of Milwaukee; Ray L. Junod, vice president Continental Illinois company, and Charles W. Hume, secretary of the committee.

Majority of Bonds In.

"Under date of Aug. 10 the committee sent a letter to the bondholders calling for deposit," said Mr. Hume. At this time a majority of the bonds are now on deposit with the First Union Trust and Savings bank. Taxes have been paid through 1929, and 1930 taxes are on deposit with the trustee under the mortgage awaiting the outcome of the protest. The 1931 and 1932 taxes to date have not been provided for. On July 31, 1932, taxes unprovided for amounted to approximately $95,000.

"Acquisition of the assets is a preliminary step toward reorganization not yet in final form but which is expected to be forwarded to the bond holders in the course of the next few weeks. The success of the plan depends in a large measure upon the full coöperation of the bondholders evidenced by the deposit of their bonds with the First Union Trust and Savings bank."

U. S. GOLD STANDARD NEVER IN PERIL SINCE 1896, SAYS ECONOMIST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—At no time in the last thirty-six years has there been justifiable ground for doubt as to the ability of this country to maintain the gold standard, Benjamin M. Anderson Jr., economist of the Chase National bank, declared today in an address before the forum in investment banking of the graduate school of business administration of New York university.

Dr. Anderson's address, which was delivered at the New York Stock exchange in coöperation with the Investment Bankers Association of America, was entitled "Clearing the Record." Although he mentioned no names the context of his remarks made it clear that what he said was in answer to the assertion made by President Hoover in his campaign speech at Des Moines, Ia., that at one time the United States had been within two weeks of being driven off the gold standard.

Our weakest gold position in the depression, said the economist, was on June 15. This "was our worst position and our weakest position. And I say to you, categorically and unqualifiedly, that this worst and weakest position was impregnably strong."

RAIL PRESIDENTS ASK RETENTION OF RATE BOOSTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—The Association of Railway Executives voted at a meeting today to petition the interstate commerce commission to continue in effect the increase in freight rates allowed by the commission. These increases would expire in March. The statement did not make clear whether or not the Railroad Credit corporation would be continued in the event that rates are extended.

It was announced that Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the association, soon would appear before the senate foreign relations committee to outline the railroad's attitude toward the St. Lawrence river seaway project. It was inferred that he would enter a vigorous protest against the project.

The Railway Business association, made up of equipment and supply makers, held its annual meeting today, and adopted resolutions recommending that rate regulations upon railroads which do not apply to waterway, air and other forms of transportation be lifted, reduction of taxes and the avoidance by the government of federal ownership of any of the fields of transportation and communication.

Bennett Admits Canada Assisted in Wheat Support

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Premier Bennett, speaking in the house of commons today, denied reports that the federal government purchased wheat lately to sustain the market, but added that it had assisted one western organization to do so. He said a complete statement would be made Monday by his government. Canada's wheat production this year is placed at 431,200,000 bushels in a crop report issued today by the dominion bureau of statistics.

Several Big Firms Vote to Pay Dividends

Favorable dividend action was taken yesterday by a number of large corporations throughout the country which, together with other favorable news, contributed to a more cheerful feeling in financial quarters.

Directors of the Union Pacific railroad announced the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock, payable Jan. 3 to stock of record Dec. 3. While it had been widely predicted before the stockholders' meeting that favorable action would be taken, actual declaration of the dividend contributed to buying of carrier shares.

A quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share, the same as three months ago when the rate was reduced from 65 cents quarterly, was declared yesterday by the National Dairy Products corporation. Regular quarterly payments of $1.75 were announced on both the A and B preferred stocks. All the dividends are payable Jan. 3 to owners of record Dec. 5.

Elliott-Fisher Pays.

The Underwood-Elliott-Fisher board declared a quarterly dividend of 12½ cents on the common and the regular quarterly on the preferred. The common rate is the same as that of 3 months ago when the dividend was reduced from 25 cents quarterly.

Ward baking declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the preferred stock, payable Jan. 2 to stock of record Dec. 17. In each of the two preceding quarters $1 was paid.

White Rock Mineral Springs directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock and $1.75 on the first preferred and $2.50 on the second preferred. All are payable Jan. 3 to stock of record Dec. 16.

Industrial Rayon Payment.

The Byllesby Engineering and Management corporation announces that the following companies as having made dividend declarations:

Southern Colorado Power company, the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent a share on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred, payable Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Nov. 30.

Wisconsin Public Service corporation, the regular quarter dividends of $1.75 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock, $1.62½ a share on the 6½ per cent preferred stock, and $1.50 a share on the 6 per cent preferred stock, all payable Dec. 20 to stockholders of record Nov. 30.

Northern States Power company [Wisconsin], the regularly quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock, payable Dec. 1 to stockholders of record Nov. 19.

STOCKS RALLY SHARPLY; GAIN $1 TO $4 A SHARE

Turnover Increases on Advance.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—Shaking off the preëlection dullness, the stock market today ran up a long string of price gains ranging from $1 to $4 a share. Three or four of the more volatile descriptions did even better than that.

Activity converged in the high grade leaders and the turnover in some directions was unusually heavy. It was the best performance the market has given in weeks.

The report of the United States Steel corporation showing an increase of 11,950 tons in its unfilled orders provided the signal for the rally. The general relief over the removal of campaign restraints and a growing conviction that progress toward a solution of the problems blamed for retarding business recovery will be facilitated by the establishment of undivided party control of the government undoubtedly furnished the basis for the more cheerful feeling manifested in the buying wave.

Other News Cheerful.

A dribble of better trade news including the declaration of regular dividends by three or four corporations of note and rising commodity prices, particularly on cotton, were contributory influences of weight.

Stocks like United States Steel, American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical, American Tobacco, and the like—industrial group leaders—gave backbone to the rebound. Steel common jumped 3 points to 38 and the preferred rose 3⅛ to 77⅛, both issues closing at their highs for the day.

Can rose 3½ points to 55, American Tobacco B jumped 4½, Auburn 4¼, Allied Chemical and Dye 5½, Colum-

Steel Orders Show Gain of 11,950 Tons

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—The United States Steel corporation today reported an increase of 11,950 tons in its unfilled tonnage figures as of Oct. 31 over the preceding month, bringing the total backlog to 1,997,040 tons. This was the third consecutive increase after the corporation had reported sixteen decreases in as many months.

The figures today were about as had been expected in the financial community, and in well informed quarters they were considered as generally satisfactory because they indicated the industry has started its comeback from the low point of the depression period.

Justifies Sentiment.

It also was considered as justification for the recent improvement in sentiment among steel leaders who, while continuing conservative regarding recovery, have reiterated their belief better buying will be experienced in the closing months of what probably will go on record as the worst year in the history of American steel making.

The first indication that the unfilled tonnage figures of the United States Steel corporation had reached their bottom came in the report of August, when the increase over the preceding month was 3,293 tons. The September figures, which were released a month ago, showed a further gain of approximately 15,000 tons, and today's figures show that the gain was 11,950 tons.

All Time High Record.

The all time record figures for United States Steel unfilled tonnage was 12,183,083 tons in April, 1917, when world war orders were at their peak.

Bank of England to Re-elect Montagu Norman Governor

Court Halts Deal Made by Foes.

A proxy battle for control of the Aviation Corporation of Delaware, holding company for American Airways, loomed yesterday between a group of New York bankers and E. L. Cord, Chicago automobile manufacturer. Mr. Cord obtained an injunction to halt the purchase of the assets of the North American Aviation, Inc., holding company, and demanded that a stockholders' meeting be called on Dec. 21 to increase the directors from 35 to 68, according to dispatches.

E. L. CORD.

The Cord group owns more than 800,000 shares of the 2,770,000 of Aviation corporation outstanding. It is represented on the board of directors by three seats. The deal to acquire the assets of North American Aviation, Inc., considered the issuance of 1,996,000 additional shares of Aviation corporation stock. In substance, the transaction would reduce the Cord holdings from about 25 per cent to less than 15 per cent of the Aviation corporation stock.

Seen Scheme for Control.

The increase in the board of directors by 33 members was construed by LaMotte T. Cohu, president of the Aviation corporation, as an indication that Mr. Cord would attempt to elect the 33 new directors and thus obtain

The Hour for Action Has Arrived

THE election is over. A new administration has been chosen, whose task will be to rally the forces of the nation to defeat depression and restore prosperity. Regardless of party or locality, it becomes the duty and the privilege of every American citizen to add his effort to the forces of reconstruction.

The problems that face the country have been thoroughly discussed and a certain measure of improvement in conditions is already manifest. The time for words is past and the hour for action has arrived. Public officials, bankers and business men, employers and employees, all factors in the economic structure of the country, should now join together in a united effort to dispel the shadows that have hung over us and to restore normal conditions. Such achievement is within our reach if each of us does his part in public or private capacity.

The Guaranty Trust Company of New York is a conservative bank committed to a program of constructive progress. Its resources and services are available to the business interests of the country and we shall be glad to unite with them in helping to restore business order and economic stability. United action is the call of the hour. We are glad to enroll under that banner and to pledge our aid in carrying it forward.

Barley Pit Comes to Life in Board of Trade.

WHEAT PRICES IN GOLD

	Thurs.	Wed.
Chicago, December	.43⅝c	43⅛c
Winnipeg, December	.40⅝c	40⅝c
Liverpool, December	.50⅝c	50⅞c
Liv'p'l, No. 2 Manitb.	.54⅝c	55⅛c
Bu. Aires, February	.40c	40c
Rotterdam, Nov.	.47c	47½c

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Modification of the prohibition act may prove to be an important factor in the grain markets, according to views expressed by brokers on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. An early dip in wheat and corn was followed by a rally of 1½c in wheat and ⅝c in corn, with some buying induced in the latter grain by prospects of a better brewing demand for all grain in the immediate future.

Strength in stocks and cotton as well as short covering in evening up for the Armistice day holiday was largely responsible for the upturn in wheat. The trade also paid considerable attention to a bulge of 1¼@1½c in barley at Minneapolis, and there was a sudden interest in barley futures in the Chicago market for the first time in two years as a result of the plan to ease the dry law.

Trade in Barley.

Around 20,000 bu barley for future delivery was traded in on the local exchange, with the December selling at 29@29½c and May at 32½c, both closing at the best figures of the day. As the trade see it every bushel of barley that is used for brewing purposes increases the farm demand for corn and oats for feeding purposes and might result in some wheat being fed in the northwest in case the demand for choice barley increases materially.

To Consider Barley Trading.

It was officially announced during the day that the directors of the Board of Trade will consider the proposition of trading in barley futures at Chicago, and a special committee is expected to be appointed to look into the situation. While the rules of the exchange provide for trading in barley, there is said to be dissatisfaction with the grades which can be delivered on future contracts. No. 2 is contract grade, but according to barley experts, the government grades were fixed for an export type of grain rather than from a malting standpoint.

Yesterday both No. 2 barley and sample grade sold in Chicago at 37c indicating the wide range paid for malting grain, while another car of sample grade of the feed or export type sold at 32c, and some of the latter recently sold as low as 20c per bu. Trading in the Minneapolis market permits the delivery of federal grade grain, and the bulk of the 4,000,000 bu in store at that market is said to be of feed quality and not suited for malting purposes.

Wheat Rallies Quickly.

December wheat sold down to 42⅞c early, or ½c under Wednesday's finish and within 1c of the all time record low for futures which was established last week. The market quickly started upward, however, on buying by houses with eastern connections. This disclosed a lack of offerings, and the nearby delivery sold up to 44⅛c, with shorts covering freely on the way up. Selling against offers and profit taking checked the bulge, but the close was at net gains of ⅜c. December finished at 43¾@43⅞c; May 48¾@48⅞c, and July, 49⅞@50c.

Foreign demand for Canadian cash wheat was again active, with sales of over 800,000 bu in all positions, and the removal of hedges against the business helped to maintain the Winnipeg market. The Canadian dollar was firmer, which accounted to some extent for the failure of the blackboard quotations to show much improvement. Closing trades there were ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower, with December at 46⅛c in Canadian funds and at 40⅝c gold basis, the latter being the same as on Wednesday.

Liverpool wheat was ⅜@½c lower, with December at 50⅝c or 6c over Chicago at the time the English market closed, compared with 7⅞c over a few days ago.

Corn Shows Strength.

There was no material pressure on the corn market, and country offerings to arrive were smaller, regarded as due to unfavorable weather over the belt. Export bids at the seaboard were reported as about 1c out of line, although there were intimations of 90,000 bu having been sold abroad. Futures closed at the top with net gains of ⅝c, December being 25⅞@26c; May, 30⅝c, and July, 32½c. Shipping sales were limited.

Oats firmed with corn and closed unchanged to ⅜c higher, with December showing the most strength. The latter was 16⅜c at the last with May, 18½c, and July, 18⅜c. Rye was ⅞@1c higher with December, 29⅜c, and May, 33¼c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was firmer today as a result of the upturn in futures, but no sales were reported and prices were nominally unchanged with spots quoted at 3.10c. After a quiet opening futures became more active and prices worked up sharply on buying influenced by reports of damage by the Cuban hurricane. December contracts which opened at 1.05c sold up to 1.08c, while May advanced from 1.00 to 1.07c. The market closed at the best and from 3 to 7 points net higher. Approximate sales were 12,800 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.
December	1.05	1.08	1.04	1.07	1.04
January	1.00	1.02	1.00	1.02	1.00

STOCKS ADVANCE SHARPLY; GAIN $1 TO $4 A SHARE

Rail Issues Rise.

The railroad group was more buoyant than it has been in a fortnight and such stalwarts as Atchison, New York Central, Union Pacific, Lackawanna, Southern Pacific, New Haven, and Chesapeake and Ohio steamed ahead for gains of from 2 to 4 points or better. Delaware and Hudson ran up 4½ on a small turnover. Estimates of a further decrease in the weekly car loadings were forgotten in the discussion of fresh business recovery possibilities.

Specialties scintillated all over the board, and some of the most spectacular runups of the day went to their accounting. A particular feature was Homestake Mining, which shot up nearly 8 points in a flurry of eager buying in the forenoon dealings only to lapse back to within a fraction of its previous close on late afternoon profit taking. Activity in this mining aristocrat was accompanied by talk of record earnings to be disclosed in the corporation's next report.

"Liquor" Stocks Rise.

Bottle making concerns were once more in favor, and so-called "liquor" stocks looked as good as ever to traders confident that early repeal is going to bring profits their way.

Strength in wheat and cotton helped the farm implements as always, and Case came back more than 4 points after yesterday's slump.

Various utilities came in for a fling. American Telephone mounted anew to 107⅞, and Consolidated Gas, Public Service and others of the group moved ahead easily. Western Union scored a gain of more than 5 points.

Even the motors perked up—in spite of the poor production reports for this month heard against them.

TRADE BUYING SENDS COTTON UP $1-$1.30

Cotton furnished a surprise in the late trading, showing the effects of the liberal buying on weak spots early which absorbed the offerings and sent prices up in the last hour with the close at the top. Net gains on Chicago futures were 20@28 points, with other markets up 25@35 points. Spots advanced 30c or $1.50 a bale, with New York 6.45c, New Orleans, 6.40c; Galveston, 6.30c, and Houston, 6.25c. Liverpool closed 7 to 9 points net higher.

Stronger grain and stock markets created a more cheerful sentiment, especially within the last hour. Reports from mills were more optimistic, New York said that since July 30 operators in twenty-two mills have increased 153 per cent and pay rolls are up 150 per cent. Print cloths in Worth street were reported as easier owing to an increase in crop estimates, and large sales of wash goods were being made. Exports of cotton on Wednesday were 42,000 bales. Trade sentiment leans more to the buying side on breaks. Prices follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS HIGHER

Butter and egg futures moved into higher ground on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, gaining ⅛c on active trading. Egg futures advanced in the face of relatively bearish storage news. Weather conditions, however, encouraged some of the new buying and covering. December struck a high for the year. The market closed at the top despite heavy profit taking and new selling. Butter was aided by continued bullish reports. The four market movement of stocks in the last three days was nearly 300,000 lbs greater than last year and production reports from various sections showed sharp declines from last year. Sales: Butter, 188 cars; eggs, 259 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 6 cars; eggs, 15 cars. Prices follow:

NEW CAR TO ENTER MOTOR MAKERS' WAR FOR ORDERS

Continental Company Will Make Small Auto.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 10.—There is no armistice in the war of automobile manufacturers to revive business. This is written within hearing of a low rumble from an experimental machine shop. The sound comes from the final tests of an engine for a new motor car to be introduced at the automobile shows this winter.

The new car is to be the product of the recently organized Continental Automobile company, a subsidiary of the Continental Motors corporation, one of the oldest gasoline engine manufacturers in the world.

"Our plants at Muskegon and Grand Rapids have been retooled and we are ready for the merchandising campaign," said William R. Angell, president of the corporation.

"We have commitments for $2,500,000 worth of materials for delivery in December when we will start production. Our budget has been made for twelve months' operations and we are prepared financially to carry out this program.

1,000 Men Working.

"We have a thousand men at work in the factories in Muskegon and Grand Rapids where the cars are to be made. There will be another thousand or two thousand employed when production gets under way."

"You think this is an auspicious time to launch this manufacturing enterprise?" Mr. Angel was asked.

"It is for us," he replied. "In our thirty years making engines for more than a hundred automobile companies—more than 3,500,000 engines—we have had an excellent opportunity for studying manufacturing and business methods of these customers. Some failed, some succeeded. We have a plant with a low investment, capable of making a profit on a low production and under economic conditions such as have existed for the last two years."

Won't Guess at Future.

"Do you foresee any change in those business conditions?" he was asked.

"Your guess is as good as mine," he replied.

Continental Motors corporation, as one of the largest creditors, acquired the plants of the De Vaux-Hall Motors corporation a few months ago. This company produced De Vaux automobile last year and this year. The new Continental Automobile company has signed Fred L. Rockelman as vice president in charge of sales. He was formerly president of the Plymouth Motor corporation.

Details of the first Continental Motor car are not to be announced until show time, but the reports are that it will be a small vehicle, not a midget, in the lowest price field.

To Home Owners Who Need Aid.

We counsel that the following be observed by our readers in writing this department:

Assume a mental attitude that excludes fear, false pride, or prejudice, supplanting these with the illuminating virtue of faith.

Fear may cause you to overstate your side of the situation, imagining that a plain statement of fact will be discounted, or that insufficient outward evidence of need will operate against securing aid. This will not be the case; understanding and sympathetic minds will review your situation, and ample possession, such as a substantial home, good furniture, educational radio, health giving automobile, etc., purchased in a decidedly better day, will not be determining factors in judging your present day position.

Intelligent minds know the difficulty of any warrantable disposal of such valued assets in these different but temporary times; so "keep your fears to yourself, but share your courage with others."

The better your future prospects, based on reasonably definite maturities or the possession of other collateral, even if not of bankable types, and the sounder the picture you can present, the more avenues of aid may be available for you. The greater number of home owners who can be helped to help themselves, the greater opportunity there will be to secure general relief measures for all.

Pride should not allow you to understate your difficulty, for where a family's welfare is at stake pride that obstructs help becomes false in aspect. Many able men are temporarily restricted as to earnings or denied employment today—men who have been subjected to other losses besides, men, too, of lifelong independence heretofore. Frank expression will help our survey, too.

Prejudice should be abolished. Snap judgment based on groundless rumors should not be entertained by you; that the mortgage companies want your property or that they derive the slightest degree of satisfaction in foreclosure or in any other pressing method or that they are not interested in constructive relief measures.

Faith is the prime need at this time on the part of all interests involved and can only be effectively entertained after eradicating fear, false pride, and prejudice.

CORD BATTLES FOR CONTROL OF AVIATION CORP.

Injunction Blocks Deal Made by Foes.

A statement was issued by the Cord corporation last night in which an appeal was addressed to stockholders to surrender their proxies. Previously, a meeting of the directors of Aviation corporation in New York had been halted by the issuance of the injunction by the Chancery court in Wilmington, Del., restraining them from consummating the deal with North American Aviation, Inc. The Cord statement said that L. B. Manning, vice president of the Cord corporation and a director of Aviation corporation, forced the calling of the stockholders' meeting on Dec. 21.

Tells of Quarrels.

"The present management has as much stock as Mr. Cord," Cohu said. "We should have no difficulty in retaining control of the company. The company could not continue to run with two bosses. Ever since Mr. Cord bought an interest in the company last March there has been a succession of scraps which have culminated in the present row.

"Mr. Cord placed four men in the company who made reports directly to him, which tended to destroy the morale of the employés. We finally made a house cleaning and cleared those men out.

"This fight is the culmination of the battle which has been brewing since Mr. Cord's entrance into the Aviation corporation, because of his continued insistence that the present airplanes and engines be discarded and replaced by Stinson airplanes and Lycoming engines manufactured by Cord."

In a letter to be mailed today to the 28,000 stockholders in Aviation corporation Mr. Cord charges that the agreement to acquire the North American assets was made by the present management in great secrecy and haste, and without consultation with its principal stockholders and most of its directors.

Cites Drop in Assets.

"Shortly after organization of your company these same men [the present management] furnished the New York Stock exchange with a consolidated balance sheet showing assets of approximately $54,000,000," the letter says. "Today the latest available consolidated balance sheet shows assets of approximately $16,000,000. Therefore, it appears that in the short period of three years there has been lost through extravagance, waste, speculation, shrinkage of properties, cancellation of officers' debts, and various other types of mismanagement the staggering sum of $38,000,000 of your money.

"In contrast with the above, during almost the identical period, the group of companies which we have managed have progressed and have had net earnings of over $10,500,000, out of which we have paid dividends of several millions to thousands of stockholders."

Takes Credit for Economies.

Mr. Cord continued, claiming large economies effected in the operation of American Airways achieved under his influence upon the management of the Aviation corporation, starting with his acquisition of a substantial interest by turning over properties of Century Air Lines last April 1.

Another deal, considering the acquisition of Transamerican Airlines by a stock exchange of 1,975 shares of Aviation corporation stock for one of the airlines, is dependent upon completion of the North American deal, it was announced. An agent for Mr. Cord acquired about 45 per cent of the Transamerican stock in August. However, Mr. Cord's investment in Transamerican is only $350,000, compared to a $5,000,000 investment in Aviation corporation, it was explained.

North American Aviation controls Eastern Air Transport, an air line on the east coast. Transamerican Airlines operate between Chicago and Buffalo, N. Y.

JORDAN MOTORS, REORGANIZED, WILL BUILD CARS

Cleveland, O., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—Jordan Motors, Inc., has been organized by a group of former executives of the Jordan Motor Car company and again will manufacture the Jordan automobile, it was announced today. The plant is to be located in this city, but definite plans have not been completed.

The group, headed by John McArdle, former vice president and general manager, purchased certain assets and the name of the company from receivers, it was announced. Associated with McArdle are A. F. England, former treasurer, and Assistant General Manager Harvey Buckner, vice president in charge of production.

It is understood that present plans call for introduction of a straight eight to sell in the medium priced field. McArdle said the new cars would be in production early in 1933.

The Jordan Motor Car company, originally organized in 1916, was placed in receivership in May, 1931, after failure of financing through reorganization.

PACKARD SHOWS LOSS IN QUARTER; CASH INCREASES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 10.—The Packard Motor Car company reported today a net loss of $1,903,671 after all charges for the September quarter, compared with net profit of $104,200 for the corresponding three months of 1931. Operations for the first nine months of 1932 resulted in a net loss of $4,416,799, against net profit of $14,050 for the same 1931 period.

Cash and marketable securities on Sept. 30, 1932, totaled $14,192,937, compared with $13,994,486 as of the close of last year. Inventories aggregated $5,770,270, a $2,103,796 below the figure at the close of 1931.

Total Supply Largest Since 1923-'24.

Husking returns on corn to the department of agriculture have shown a larger yield than expected and resulted in the November report as given out yesterday showing a gain of 36,000,000 bu as compared with a month ago, and 361,000,000 bu in excess of last year's harvest. The report was 5,000,000 bu more than the recent estimate by Chicago statisticians.

Farm reserves of corn on Nov. 1 were 155,000,000 bu, compared with 79,000,000 bu a year ago, and 60,000,000 bu two years ago. On the basis of the government estimate on the crop and carryover plus the visible supply there is 3,103,000,000 bu corn available for the 1932-'33 season, against 2,649,000,000 bu last year, and the total is the largest since 1923-'24, when it aggregated 3,139,000,000 bu.

The white potato crop is 359,000,000 bu, or 17,000,000 bu less than harvested in 1931, but about equal to the 5 year average, the department estimates.

OLD COLONY LIFE INSURANCE CO. SALE APPROVED

Superior Judge William V. Brothers yesterday approved the sale of the business of the Old Colony Life Insurance company to the Life and Casualty company, 750 North Michigan avenue. The Old Colony company went into receivership last Sept. 20 and at that time had more than $27,000,000 of insurance on its books.

Former Gov. Jacob Preuss of Minnesota and Alvin S. Keys were named coreceivers of the company and called for bids for the business. A number of insurance companies bid on the risks and Judge Brothers finally decided that the Life and Casualty company was best equipped to handle the business.

The Life and Casualty company, of which M. A. Kern is president and L. D. Kern is secretary, was founded in 1926. Its capital and surplus accounts total $1,193,750 and total resources are listed at $1,373,750. M. A. Kern was formerly connected with the agency department of the Prudential Life Insurance company.

AUSTIN MOTORS OUTPUT UP 400% OVER LAST YEAR

Butler, Pa., Nov. 10.—[Special.]—A 400 per cent increase in production over last year was reported here today by officials of the American Austin Motor Car company.

The production line is running eight hours a day, six days a week. About 1,000 cars a month are being produced, keeping 310 employés busy full time, W. H. Winegar, sales manager says. The payroll is more than five times as great as for the same period of last year.

Solution to
BLOOD AND RED INK.

The supposed suicide note had been torn THROUGH a spot of blood from a letterhead on the desk. Obviously this was done by some one else AFTER Tilden had been shot. There would have been no blood on the papers before he was killed and he could not have torn the scrap of paper AFTER he was shot.

The murderer, in his haste, had overlooked or disregarded the spot of blood, thereby proving the tragedy was not suicide.
